Homage Today to Galilean

Old, Old Story of Man Who Died on A Wooden Cross Is Being Retold

By the Associated Press

It's an old story, and most people heard it when they were so young it seemed like just another story, but it was a story they would never forget. And especially today, they were remembering it.

All over this land, and in the countries across the seas, Christians paused to give renewed homage to the Man of Galilee who on this day, 19 centuries ago, died on a wooden cross on a hill outside Jerusalem.

There were special prayers on the lips of many today, and sermons from high prelates and from country preachers. There were ceremonies, and candlelightings, processions and plays and heads bowed together.

Business houses in many cities ordered their doors closed, at least for the period of special devotion from noon to 3 p. m. — the hours of Christ's passion.

Kneel in Reverence

In Rome, thousands of Holy Year pilgrims kneeled in reverence in St. Peter's Basilica, the world's largest church. In Jerusalem other pilgrims filed through battle-scarred streets on their Good Friday march over the route Christ took to the Crucifixion.

The ancient city was jammed with travelers from all parts of the world — Roman Catholics, Protestants and Eastern Orthodox followers alike — all there for the observance of Holy Week.

Tonight, a burial procession will wind through the dark and narrow streets of the Via Dolorsa, past the 14 "Stations of the Cross" where Christ paused on his way to Calvary and thence to the Holy Sepulchre beneath which lies His tomb.

Have Passion Play

In the little town of Sezze, Italy, some 3,000 townspeople prepared to take part tonight in the first postwar production of their Good Friday Passion Play, a traditional ritual there for hundreds of years. Thousands will watch as the Crucifixion scene is enacted on a hillside outside the town.

Special messages, many of them stressing the teachings of the Prince of Peace as a key to world tranquility, were issued at churches throughout America.

Parishioners at the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic church in Philadelphia, planned tonight to dedicate their prayers to the hope that Russia will accept Christianity and "compliance with reason."

Holy Week Message

The Right Rev. Henry Knox Sherill, presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church, in the U. S., said in an annual Holy Week message that Christians should find in Christ's death the "redeeming and conquering love of God which brings the gift of hope."

Remembering the "heroism and self-sacrifice of Calvary," he said, Christians "will view our distraught and fearful world with open eyes, and in consecration to the will of God, strive to do something about it."

In a message prepared for Easter delivery over the "Voice of America," Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, told the peoples of Russia and her satellites that "America's thoughts and America's heart are with you."

Heritage Not Bankrupt

Americans, he said, are "mourning over your enshacklement and your misery, praying for your delivery from persecution and enslavement, beseeching God that the blessings which are ours, may also be yours."

He said that the "Spirit of America is, by birthright, also yours," and added:

"In this hour when the heel of hating despots is upon your heads, when the terror of the noose and knout is heavy upon your hearts, your own heritage is not bankrupt if your spirit refuses to die, to hope for liberation and freedom."

The Communism masters, he said, "have one consuming hate—they hate our God and yours. They seek not only to destroy your faith in God, they seek also to destroy you because you love God."

And from many pulpits, came an echo to the theme:

Walter Huston, Actor, Dies of Heart Attack

'In Excellent Health' Thursday, Physician States

HOLLYWOOD, April 7—(AP)—Walter Huston, one of the stage and screen's most eminent actors, died today of a heart attack.

His physician said he had been "in excellent health" until yesterday. But he had to pass up a 66th birthday party planned for him last night by his many friends.

They had the party anyway, his cronies dividing their time between his hotel suite and the nearby restaurant.

Earlier in the day, other friends had feted him at a birthday luncheon.

Not Socially Inclined

But he took no part in the city's social life. He spent much of his time, when he wasn't working on a picture or in New York for a stage play, on a rambling mile-high ranch at Running Springs, near Lake Arrowhead.

His widow, Nan Sunderland, was notified of his death in New York and will fly here. They were married in 1931 after Huston was divorced that year from his first wife.

His doctor, Verne Mason, who stayed with him throughout the night after Huston complained of extreme pains yesterday, said the actor rested comfortably during most of the night.

Company Thursday Night

Friends Spencer Tracy and Broadway producer Jed Harris, and his manager, Paul Kohner, were among those who joined him at the hotel last night.

So was his son, writer-producer John Huston, who directed his dad in the academy-Oscar winning part of the old prospector in "Treasure of Sierra Madre."

Until a few days ago, he had been in New York, but came west to start a new role next Monday—as a fun-loving forger in "Old 880." He had finished his last picture, "The Furies," six weeks ago

A native of Toronto, Ontario, Huston joined a roadshow at the age of 18, touring the country with "The Sign of the Cross."

But he gave up acting for five years in favor of engineering. The stage was in his blood, however. and he returned to it in 1909, with a vaudeville act, and went back to the stage in "Mr. Pitt."

Enumerators Report Fine Cooperation

Attention Called To Cards Left When No One is at Home

Census enumerators in Sedalia and Pettis county report to their crew leaders, Carl Ragar in the county and Edw. S. Behen, in Sedalia, they are meeting with about 98-per cent cooperation from the public. However, they are requesting the persons who receive a card in their mail box from the enumerator, to fill the card out immediately and mail it.

These cards are green in color and call attention of the occupant that the enumerator has been at the particular residence and found no one at home. They do not need postage for the card, as it is government mail. Returning these cards immediately will save the enumerator much time and difficulty in covering his or her district within the time limited for the census.

There are three censuses in progress in the one now being taken: 1. population; 2. housing; and 3. agriculture or farm.

Transient Night

Next Tuesday night, April 11, will be "T" Night or better known as Transient Night, at which time enumerators will be stationed in all hotels throughout the country. In each room box will be placed a card. The occupant of that room will be expected to fill out the card and return it to the enumerator who will be located in the lobby of the hotel.

The reason for the Transient Night is to give as complete a cross-check as possible on the census.

O. P. Keller, supervisor of the Sixth District, was in Sedalia today visiting with the crew leaders and handling several problems which have arisen. Mr. Keller said his office had received many calls about the census, all of which, with the exception of one, were of cooperative nature.

Some Questions

He related three or four incidents, one of which was when a lady called and asked what she should do if the enumerator called at her home and she was taking a bath. Mr. Keller explained that the green card would be left in her mail box and she could make an appointment to have the census taken. Another was where a farmer was working in the field, saw the enumerator at his home and he went dashing across a plowed field to give him his agriculture form which he had filled out.

Mr. Keller said, "Cooperation has been displayed by farm women as well as city women, some inviting the enumerator to stay for dinner or having tea with them in the afternoon. Some can't understand why they don't stop and visit longer, but the enumerator has so much work to do and so short a time to do it in.

"But," Mr. Keller said, "the little green card is the most important thing now. It will assist the enumerator much if it is filled out and mailed immediately upon receipt."

Like Father, Like Son

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., April 7—(AP)—A father and a son were arrested today at the same time, on the same charge.

Officers said Hubbard D. Hogue, 54, and his son, Ira Joseph Hogue 25, both of Lenox, Ia., passed a gasoline transport truck in a no-passing zone. Each was driving a new truck. They were charged with careless and reckless driving.

Worrying About War

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP)—Senator Magnuson (D-Wash) said today that even the sub-teen agers are worrying about war.

He displayed a letter from June Leilan Stoy, 12-year-old sixth grader. Written from her home, rural route 1, box 416, Kent, Wash., she said:

"For pity sakes let's not have any more wars. It sure is causing a lot of trouble."

Go Slow on Losing Weight After Forty, Doctor States

CHICAGO, April 7—(AP)—Go slow on losing weight after 40, a Washington physician adised today.

Dr. Edward J. Stieglitz says a weight loss of a pound a week or five pounds a month is as rapid as is usually advisable after that age.

Writing in the journal of the American Medical Association, he gave several reason for this:

Rapid weight losses in the overweight are often quickly regained because people don't change their eating habits in a short while.

With gradual but persistent weight reduction the patient does not suffer from weakness or exhaustion.

Wrinkling of the skin is avoided by slow weight reduction.

In a report for the AMA council on foods and nutrition, Dr. Stieglitz said 40 is a good age to take a health inventory. He added:

"In many respects, the two decades from 40 to 60 are the most significant. During these years of late maturity we help to determine the future health of the aged."

He said the start of such disorders as hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure and degenerative arthritis occur far earlier than their symptoms.

He added that a good diet is the most important single tool for the attainment of vigor in later years.

A Dogfish Died; It Had Not Been 'Walked' Enough

COLUMBUS, O., April 7—(AP)—The automobile was parked in a prohibited area, and a sign on it read: "Walking fish."

A short time later Linro Durst, 33, appeared at police headquarters with the traffic ticket.

He proved that he not only had a right to park in restricted areas, but that walking fish was part of his business. He explained: He is a dealer in live fish. He had just arrived from Lake Erie with two fish and an eel for the Fort Hayes hotel's aquarium.

Fish get "seasick" while being transported in an automobile. The constant swishing of the water causes it.

So, after I deliver them, I have to walk them to get them sober."

The "walking" consists of pushing the fish around the aquarium until they regain their balance and normal breathing.

"If I don't do this," Durst said, "the fish die."

The "walking" process requires an hour or more.

Police, after hearing Durst's story, tore up the traffic ticket But the visit to police headquarters cost him, nevertheless.

A $7.85 dogfish died while he was there.

It had not been "walked" enough.

Important Events In World News

BERLIN, April 7—(AP)—Fifteen members of the Mozart Girls' choir, who left Soviet-occupied Dresden last week to escape Communist pressure, fly to west Germany tomorrow in a U. S. army plane. The other nine have gone back to Dresden at their families' request.

Director Werner Schueck, who said his wife is under Communist police arrest in Dresden, plans to train the choir for three months in Frankfurt and then begin a foreign tour.

The 15 singers, who have been given shelter at a west Berlin municipal youth hostel, have started English lessons in the hope of visiting Britain and the United States.

HOF, Germany, April 7—(AP)—Returning German war prisoners say that people in Russia expect an attack from the United States soon, perhaps even this year.

"In Russia everyone talks of war," declared Karl Kruegler, one of the hundreds of prisoners released recently from Soviet prison camps.

"They seem to expect attack by America to come this year. Many predicted it would come this April."

Another repatriated prisoner of war, Herbert Scheffrath said "Communist propaganda has apparently succeeded in convincing the Russian population America wants war."

WASHINGTON, April 7—(AP)—The government, expecting to overspend its income by more than $9,000,000,000 in the next 15 months, will start borrowing new money next week to make ends meet.

That will add considerably to the government's debts, which already total nearly $256,000,000,000.

The first step in the new borrowing program, as announced by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder last night, will take this form:

The treasury owes about $900,000,000 in 91-day bills falling due Apr. 13. It will sell one billion in new 91-day bills that day to pay off due debt and leave it $100,000,000 extra cash.

Except in scale, the transaction will be the same as that of a man who has a $900 note falling due at the bank next Thursday and "takes care of it" by giving a new note for $1,000.

The treasury will have a chance to pick up an extra $100,000,000 in each of the two succeeding weeks by identical transactions, for it has $900,000,000 issues of 91-day bills also falling due April 20 and 27.

Unusual "Teething Ring"

TURKEY, Texas, April 7.—(AP)—Sandra Haynes, 2, liked her new teething ring—a real, live, and remarkably agreeable rattlesnake.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Haynes, found her sitting in the yard, the snake in her hand and the tail in her mouth.

World Turns To Religion For Comfort

Chiang Asks God's Blessing on Republic of China

By The Associated Press

The Christian world commemorated today the crucifixion of Christ. Many looked to the story of the Prince of Peace for comfort in a world divided by the stresses and strains of a cold war.

Thousands of pilgrims poured into Jerusalem and Rome. Business was stilled in many parts of the world. City cathedrals and country meeting houses alike were thronged with worshippers.

In Jerusalem, the pilgrims filed past jagged reminders of the Palestine war to participate. They made their Good Friday march to the sacred via Dolorosa in the ancient part of the city occupied by Arab forces of Nashemite Jordan.

Kneel in Reverence

In Rome's St. Peter's Basilica, the world's largest church, Roman Catholics Holy Year pilgrims knelt in reverence.

On far-off Formosa, under threat of attack by Communist Chinese, Chiang Kai-shek, who professes Methodism, led Christian Chinese in prayer. He asked God's blessing on the republic of China" which now exists only as a few scattered islands off the coast of sprawling Red China. Chiang interpreted his war as a holy war against Russia.

German war prisoners released from Russia arrived in Hof and said the Soviet people expect an attack soon from the United States.

"In Russia everyone talks of war" said one ex-prisoner. Another added: "Communist propaganda has apparently succeeded in convincing the Russian population America wants war."

Little Progress Toward Peace

The annual report of the Associated Press management issued in New York said: "The world made little progress toward peace and understanding among nations in 1949." It said new restrictions, including a stiffening censorship are hampering free, objective news coverage in many areas of the world.

The report said in eastern Europe and China new barriers were raised against a free press. In the west, too there were added restrictions in this period of cold war and spy jitters. The report said the trend was toward official secrecy, off-the-record confidences and anonymous statements that harass free reporting.

Court Rules no Cause of Action

ST. LOUIS, April 7—(AP)—Defendants in a $1,000,000 suit filed by the Rev. Guy Howard of Branson, Mo., "The Walking Preacher of the Ozarks," claimed today the minister had failed to state a cause of action.

Mr. Howard claimed he was held up to public ridicule through a recording with the title, "The Walking Preacher of the Ozarks (with a little book in his hand)."

The defendants are Radio Corp. of America, Inc., Capital Records Distributing Co., Inc., and Decca Distributing Corp., Inc.

Federal Judge George H. Moore took under submission after a hearing today their motions for dismissal or an order directing the preacher to make his claim for damages "more definite and certain."

George H. Miller of Sedalia, an attorney representing the minister, argued the suit was properly and clearly phrased.

Says He Didn't Call Governor A 'Damn Liar'

KANSAS CITY, April 7—(AP)—Attorney General J. E. Taylor issued a statement Thursday night to clarify one he made in Jefferson City earlier today concerning Gov. Forrest Smith.

Taylor was quoted today as calling the governor a "damn liar." The remark was made when state officials started action on the slaying of Charles Binaggo here.

"The Associated Press carried a story today quoting me as calling the governor a 'damn liar.' This is not true. A newspaper correspondent told me that he had been trying to reach me all morning but that I was not available.

"I made the unfortunate statement that that was a 'damn lie' as I had been working and available since 7 o'clock in the morning. I later learned the governor did not make the statement but merely said he had not yet reached me. I regret the incident greatly."

You May Wear Winter Garb Easter Sunday

Weather Bureau Isn't Quite Sure Yet What to Predict

By The Associated Press

It looks like winter garb will be appropriate in the Easter Sunday parade over much of the eastern half of the country. And maybe in parts of the south, too.

The weather bureau isn't ready to predict the brand of weather the country may expect Sunday. But indications are there'll have to be lots of warming in the next couple of days if the spring togs are to be worn on Sunday.

Today's freezing line covered wide areas of the midwest, the northeastern states and into some sections of the south.

The cold air covered Alabama, Georgia, the Carolinas and it was colder north into the New England states. Temperatures were from 10 to 15 above in main and in the 20's over other northeastern states.

It was wintry-like in parts of Montana, North Dakota and Minnesota as a fresh mass of cold air from northwestern Canada moved across the border. Snow and strong northerly winds added to the winter scene.

The rest of the country reported generally fair weather. But the cold and wet weather in the northern plains was expected to extend over most of the north central region by tonight and tomorrow.

Cold Spell In Florida

MIAMI, Fla., April 7—(AP)—A spring cold spell sent the thermometer plunging down to 44 degrees at 5:30 a. m. (EST) today, the coldest April temperatures ever recorded by the Miami weather bureau.

Previous low for any April day in the 39 years temperatures have been officially recorded here was 45 on April 4, 1915. High for April 7 was set in 1935 when the mercury hit 88.

The weather station at Miami International Airport outside the city reported a 42 degree reading, while temperatures in some low areas in the central portion

Loot Tobacco Company

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 7.—(AP)—Thieves looted the Rathbun Tobacco and Supply company warehouse here last night of 1200 cartons of cigaret valued at $1680.

Officers noted on their report that most of the cigarets were of one brand. Entrance to the building was gained by prying a lock from a basement door.

Center Investigation On Connections Of Kansas Citians Slain

More Than 25 of Binaggio's Close Friends Questioned; Inquire Into Trips

KANSAS CITY, April 7—(AP)—Police today centered their investigation on Charles Binaggio's out-of-town connections but they were given little help from friends of the slain North Side political lord.

More than 25 of Binaggio's closest associates have been questioned. Detectives said they all expressed deep sorrow at the death of Binaggio and his strong-arm aide, ex-convict Charles Gargotta, but the sum total of information given by them was zero.

Binaggio, who broke with the Pendergast Democratic organization here after boss Tom's death and became the North Side political power himself, was shot to death early yesterday in his political club rooms on Truman road. Gargotta, known as the enforcer and executioner of the underworld here, also was killed.

Frank Collins, chief of police detectives, said that if police could get at the bottom of Binaggio's 50 or more out-of-town trips in the last year the motive for the double murder might be established.

Knew Nothing

Among those questioned were several who accompanied Binaggio on his trips to such places as Denver and St. Louis. But police said all of them claimed to know nothing about what the political boss did, who he saw or why he went on the trips.

"Such reticence indicates that the local underworld plans to take care of the double murder of its leaders in its own way," the Kansas City Star said today. "Investigating forces therefore found themselves in a race against time to forestall a blood bath here."

A deputy coroner, Joe Connors, said he expected to "view many more bodies in the next few weeks."

Thomas J. Higgins, special representative of the board of police commissioners, recalled today underworld revenge came fast after the spot slaying of John Lazia, a North Side political boss and top racketeer, here in 1943.

Quick Revenge

Jimmy Needles, reputed to have planned the murder, was killed. Jack Gregory, marked as the driver of the getaway car, was taken from a hospital after one futile murder attempt upon him, was arraigned on a charge and released on bail despite his protests. He has not been seen since. A third man also disappeared.

Both Binaggio and Gargotta were pallbearers at the Lazia funeral. Binaggio in those days was a worker in Tom Pendergast's then-powerful Democratic organization. Gargotta already was known as a mobster, who lived by muscle and violence.

Binaggio eventually took over the political organization built up by Lazia in the North Side, and Gargotta became his right hand man.

Police today changed their theory about the time of the slayings. It first was believed the two had been shot shortly after midnight. But Lieut. Harry Nesbitt of the police homicide squad said three persons, who had been in a cheap hotel overhead, told him they heard shots in the club rooms below shortly after eight o'clock Wednesday night.

Two Were Slain

This indicated the two were slain soon after they left the Last Chance tavern to keep a mysterious appointment at the club. Both Nick Penna, Binaggio's bodyguard, and Homer Cooper, a dice dealer from Council Bluffs, Ia., said Binaggio and Gargotta left the tavern about 8 p.m.

Police, with close associates of the victims screened, turned to rounding up a score of persons on gangland's fringe in the hope some not so close to the slain men might be more ready to tell what the underworld grapevine was saying.

The heat was on the underworld. Horse racing betting places and gambling spots clamped the lid on last night. It was almost impossible to lay a bet.

The crime brought repercussions in both the state and national capitals.

No Allison Comment

GLASGOW, Mo., April 7—(AP)—Emery Allison of Rolla, Mo., said he had no comment Thursday on remarks by Rep Dewey Short (R-Mo) about the slaying of Charles Binaggio, Kansas City Democratic political leader.

Short told the house in Washington today he was "reliably in-

St. Louisans Given Blame

ST. LOUIS, April 7—(AP)—The St. Louis Star-Times said today Charles Binaggio, slain leader of a Democratic faction in Kansas City, "practically" received his "death sentence" in a St. Louis hotel last January.

In a copyrighted story the newspaper said Binaggio came here "to see what he could do to appease the demands of underworld bosses."

"Binaggio accepted between $100,000 and $200,000 from gamblers in the 1948 statewide Democratic campaign on the assurance that he would see to it that St. Louis would be a 'wide-open town.' Then he failed to deliver . . .

"He was told flatly that the

Flock to See Woman With Blood Oozing From Eyes

By Donald Doane

KONNERSREUTH, Germany, April 7—(AP)—Thousands of faithful flocked here today to see a sleeping German woman, with blood apparently oozing from her eyes and palms as it has ever Good Friday since 1926.

Americans and Germans filed for hours past the bed of 52-year-old Therese Neumann.

In these trances Therese Neumann experiences the agonies of Christ on the cross, according to the story told and retold by people here.

Miss Neumann is said to have gone without food or water for many years.

Asked about this, the Rev. Josef Naber, local priest, said:

"Of course there cannot be the slightest question about it. I have been here in this town for 40 years and have known Therese Neumann since she was a school girl. She neither eats, nor drinks. It has been confirmed by a doctor and two nurses, who once watched her day and night for two weeks. At the end of that period she had lost no weight.

"It is a very extraordinary thing," the priest said, shaking his white head. "Who can explain it?"

Informants in Vatican City said they had no direct knowledge but added that the Vatican normally does not make pronouncements on such phenomena.

A spokesman at the German pontifical college in Rome said no obstacle had been placed in the way of Germans or other persons seeing Miss Neumann and described that as an indication that church authorities in Germany are satisfied her experience is genuine.

A similar manifestation has been recorded in the story of the life of St. Francis of Assisi. Others since have been subject to what has been called "The Blessed Stigmata."

Potter's Field For Housing

ST. LOUIS, April 7—(AP)—The way has been cleared by the city board of aldermen for a $7,000,000 apartment project on land now used for the city's potter's field in Southwest St. Louis.

A bill authorizing the city to lease the burial ground to private promoters for 75 years was passed Wednesday, 16 to 10.

Before signing the bill, Mayor Joseph M. Darst told the aldermen:

"Thanks to your far-sighted action today, this unsightly acreage (Potter's field) will be transferred into a hotel community, with winding streets, play areas and healthful homes for 500 families."

The Aldermen also passed a new city-wide zoning bill and an ordinance authorizing installation of parking meters in St. Louis.

The parking meter bill provides for an advisory commission to make a survey of parking conditions in congested areas. The commission will recommend to the aldermen where parking meters should be placed.

Nominations Approved

WASHINGTON, April 7—(AP)—Nominations of Frank Pace, Jr., and W. Stuart Symington for key defense posts were approved unanimously by the Senate armed Services committee Thursday.

The committee recommended that the senate confirm Pace to be secretary of the army and Symington to be chairman of the national security resources board. Both were named by President Truman last week in a shuffling of several high government posts.

'Sedalia' Means Something to Former Residents of City

No matter where people from this city go or how long they live in another town, when they see the word "Sedalia" it means only one thing to them: "My home town."

It matters not that there are towns named Sedalia in Colorado, Indiana, Kentucky, North Carolina, South Carolina and Ohio—as far as the natives of this town are concerned if it is Sedalia—it just has to be right in the heart of Missouri.

That was just the way Mrs. Paul Pearson, of Camp Campbell, Ky., felt, too, when she recently picked up a Clarksville, Tenn., newspaper and saw an item from Longdon, O., telling of a man who startled employes of the court house because they thought he might be the spirit of Daniel Boone. He was tall and gangling, dressed in a long fur coat made of red fox pelts and a fur cap, the item continued, and he stopped activities in the court house. Then he was recognized as Joe Dillon of Sedalia, who had made the coat and hat from pelts just for the novelty, the article said.

Probably Sedalia, Ohio

The Sedalia was probably Sedalia, O., but to Mrs. Pearson it was Sedalia, Mo., and we are glad she feels that way about the old home town—"There is no place like Sedalia, where people are really friendly," she writes.

Mrs. Pearson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jenkins, 906 South Missouri avenue, and both she and her husband are employed at Camp Campbell, Ky.

Consumer Buying Shows Increase

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP)— Last minute Easter shopping this week accompanied a moderate rise in consumer buying, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

For the week ended Wednesday the survey said: "Dollar volume for the nation was practically steady with the level in the comparable week in 1949. Easter is a week earlier this year than in 1949.

"The seasonal impetus to the demand for apparel this week brought a moderate increase in volume. Dollar sales remained slightly under the level for the similar 1949 week."

Total retail dollar volume for the week ended Wednesday and was estimated at 2 per cent higher to 2 per cent lower than a year ago. Percentage changes by regions included midwest up 3 to down 1.

Ex-Sedalian Wins Election

A former Sedalian, Clarence P. Fraser, has been elected to the Nevada, Missouri, City Council, by a two to one majority in the election held last Tuesday. Fraser, who is a former councilman and mayor of Nevada, won his seat from the first ward, defeating the present Mayor Charles W. Loving.

According to the Nevada Daily Mail it was one of the largest city elections in the history of Nevada, there being cast 2,068 votes, exceeded only in the 1948 Presidential election, when 3,072 votes were cast. The contest was one of the "hottest" in the town's history.

Councilman-elect Fraser is well known here, having been reared and educated in Sedalia. He is the son of Mrs. W. A. Fraser and brother of Mrs. Ben Jenkins of 911 South Osage avenue.

Two Hours of Biblical Scenes

LAWTON, Okla., April 7.—(AP)— The trumpeter's call and prayers for a peaceful world—under one God—will open the Wichita mountains pre-dawn Easter services Sunday at nearby Holy City.

More than 100,000 persons of all faiths are expected on the gently sloping hills to observe Easter in their fashion and view the annual pageant depicting the story of Christ.

A volunteer cast of 300 will present the four-hour religious program beginning at midnight with two hours of recorded spiritual music.

Pantomimers will act the story of Christ in 75 scenes on the huge amphitheater stage at the base of Mount Roosevelt and Mount Sheridan. The voices will come from other, concealed actors over powerful public address systems.

Two hours of Biblical scenes—mostly from the life of Christ—will precede the "Passion Play," beginning at 4 a. m. It shows his conflict with the high priestly party, his refusal to compromise, his arrest, crucifixion and resurrection.

Senator McCarthy—Another Kingfish?

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON. — Most newspaper readers, even though disagreeing with Senator McCarthy, consider him sincere in his charges against the State Department. But Senators who sit alongside the likable young Senator from Wisconsin have a somewhat different view, are beginning to classify him as another Huey Long.

Like the Louisiana Kingfish, Joe McCarthy has an engaging manner, great personal charm, tremendous energy and an insatiable desire for putting headlines ahead of public welfare. Also like Huey, McCarthy is getting the reputation of picking up almost any ball and running with it, providing it brings enough publicity. This, colleagues explain, was why he smeared the U.S. Army for giving the death sentence to 12 SS men responsible for massacring 350 unarmed American prisoners of war at Malmedy during the battle of the bulge.

Malmedy was one of the most gruesome and ruthless murders of the war. The 350 Americans were prisoners, had no way to defend themselves, had not been guilty of espionage. Yet they were lined up and shot in cold blood. With them were shot 100 Belgian civilians.

Came the end of the war, and the 73 Nazi storm troopers responsible for the massacre were tried and found guilty. Most of them confessed. "The atrocities," according to a Senate report, "were committed by the combat group Peiper and were members of the Waffen SS . . . which had a long, notorious military record on both the western and eastern fronts."

Despite this record, despite the cold-bloodedness of the murder, and despite the fact only 12 of the 73 got the death penalty for killing 450 men, Senator McCarthy put on a terrific campaign last year to get the convictions reversed.

McCarthy Rebuffed

In speech after speech on the Senate floor, he charged that the U.S. Army had extorted confessions from the murderers. His campaign was much like that now aimed at the State Department, and he was so insistent that a subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services committee finally was appointed to make an investigation.

It wrote a unanimous report upholding the Army and inferentially condemning McCarthy. The Senator from Wisconsin, the committee indicated, had been sold a bill of goods by the National Council for the Prevention of War and other outfits with close German connections.

McCarthy's Senate colleagues also urged the Justice Department to investigate the "unusual activity in this case of certain organizations and individuals," and even asked the Defense Department to probe the "possibility of a plan to revive German nationalistic spirit by discrediting the American military government and to determine whether this is part of a larger plan to bring Germany into closer relationship with the Soviet Union."

Thus McCarthy's own colleagues implied that he might be lending himself to the same Communist goals which he now condemns in the State Department. They also raised the point that such able SS men as those found guilty at Malmedy should not be released and be permitted to affiliate with "the Communist forces of Europe."

McCarthy's campaign for the Malmedy slayers was played up in German Communist papers, which featured reports that U.S. officers had put match sticks under the fingernails of Nazi prisoners. Though completely untrue, these reports seriously undermined U.S. military prestige in Germany.

In the end, a Senate committee ruled unanimously against the Senator from Wisconsin who has now shifted to the State Department in his untiring effort to remain in the limelight.

NOTE—As a result of McCarthy's intimidation of the Army, it is still holding up the execution of the 12 Nazis responsible for shooting 350 American G.I.'s and 100 Belgians.

Gas-Go-Round

Hottest backfire against the Kerr gas bill is going to be in the President's home state, where it may defeat Truman's handpicked senatorial candidate, Emory Allison. Missouri is a big gas-consuming state, and GOP Sen. Forrest Donnell has been making the most of Democratic support for the so-called "soak-the-consumer" Kerr bill. . . . Missouri Congressman Moulder's last-minute switch to the gas companies will help him. Moulder, a Democrat, was one of four votes changed at the last minute. Congressman Tom Pickett of Texas, a Speaker Rayburn scout, arranged his switch. . . . Republicans will also play up the way top Democratic leaders took a run-out on consumers—including House Democratic Leader John McCormack of Boston. He represents thousands of gas consumers, but he voted against them—which influenced several other Democrats. . . . Senate Leader Scott Lucas also took a run-out powder, didn't bother to come back to vote. . . . (No wonder the Republicans are gloating.) . . . However, their idol, Senator Taft, also voted against the consumer, which will increase natural gas costs to the big cities of Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Toledo, Akron.

Vote-Go-Round

After the first vote on the Kerr bill, scores of Congressmen swarmed into the House well to ask how they were recorded. Actually, they knew how they voted, but wanted to consume time to give "all for love" Frank Boykin of Alabama, and "Two Cadillac" Charlie Halleck, Indiana Republican, time to buttonhole members and switch some votes. They did. . . . Others who ran out were freshman Chester Chesney of Chicago, a Democrat and former Chicago Bears football star, who was swept into office by a 1948 accident; and Democrat James Buckley, also of Chicago. A former president of a United Auto Workers local, Buckley phoned his office from Chicago to say he wasn't returning to Washington until after Easter because there was nothing important in the House to require his vote. (He didn't think the Marshall plan, supposed to save our liberty, or the Kerr bill, which will cost Chicago housewives five million bucks, important.) . . . The two Negro Congressmen, Powell of Harlem, N.Y., and Dawson of Chicago, also ran out on their constituents. Dawson took the trouble to arrange a pair against the Kerr bill, but neither were on hand to fight. . . . Also GOP Congressman Kunkel, now trying to persuade Pennsylvania Republicans to send him to the Senate, didn't take the trouble to either vote or arrange a pair.

Anti-Lewis Revolt

A savage drive to stamp out a smoldering revolt against John L. Lewis is the inside story back of the ouster and fine of $50,000 slapped on the local United Mine Workers' president in Canton, Ill.

This is a story of spies, strong-arm squads and a scare campaign to erase a local autonomy movement among miners in southern Illinois and Indiana.

The disciplining of Lloyd H. Sidener, the plucky Canton president, is the latest chapter in a long history of intrigue and violence. The revolt has gone underground since Lewis struck back so violently several years ago against all involved in the unsuccessful bid of Ray Edmundson, a former Illinois district head, to unseat him.

Interviewed by the Merry-Go-Round, Sidener said there was increasing rank-and-file discontent over Lewis's ironhanded rule. "There are too many appointed officials, all appointed by Lewis," he said. "We do not have any representation of the rank and file in union policy."

He explained that the charges against him were rammed through the Canton union by making the members take a standing vote instead of a secret ballot.

"Some of the boys who are my best friends voted against me simply because they were afraid to show before Lewis's spies that they were for me and the principle I was fighting for," Sidener said. "I know, because I talked to them. If the vote was conducted in a decent way, the boys would have been accorded the right of a secret ballot. That is customary."

Ironically, the Lewis stooge in Illinois accused by Sidener of passing along Lewis's alleged "no work" order was once a key leader in the anti-Lewis revolt inside the union. He is Bernard J. Beasley, an Illinois district president, who ran for office on an autonomy platform. Lewis's goon squads tried to break up the movement by starting fights at a miners' convention at the Gibson hotel in Cincinnati. Later, the anti-Lewis crowd went into court to get Beasley's name on the ballot.

NOTE—The House subcommittee probing undemocratic practices in unions has asked Sidener for his story. He has promised to tell it either to the FBI, the Jacobs subcommittee, or the National Labor Relations Board. He says he will give factual evidence that Lewis violated a court order.

Irresponsible Critics of ECA Hurt Congressional Prestige

By Bruce Biossat

It's heartening that the bill authorizing Marshall Plan aid for a third year has come through the House with relatively slight damage.

The House approved a measure containing $3,102,450,000, including $25,000,000 for a start on President Truman's so-called Point Four program for the economic development of backward areas. The overall total is $270,000,000 below Administration requests, $20,000,000 having been lopped off Point Four and the rest off general foreign aid.

Considering the current high state of Republican rebellion against Mr. Truman's foreign policy, supporters of full foreign aid can be happy that a bigger bite was not taken out of the bill.

As usual, some pretty determined efforts were made to slash the program or restrict it. A proposal to cut $500,000,000 off the total failed. Then, after $250,000,000 had been chopped out, opponents took a second swipe in hope of reducing the figure by another $150,000,000. But this also failed.

Rep. John M. Vorys, Ohio Republican, unsuccessfully sought to cut the cash total by $1,000,000,000 and substitute government-held farm surpluses equal to that amount. Temporarily approved, however, was another proposal to achieve a similar cash reduction and make it up by purchasing farm surpluses in the open market.

Fortunately the House later reversed this action. It would have lent substance to Communist charges that the ECA program is chiefly a disguised scheme for dumping U. S. surpluses abroad.

Unquestionably the worst blow aimed at the bill was that proposing that all further aid to Great Britain be banned until the partition of Ireland is ended. With startling suddenness this fantastic amendment was tentatively approved, 99 to 66, in a non-roll call vote.

Apparently it does little good to lament this sort of thing. The House has done it before and undoubtedly will again. Possibly next year it will suspend aid to Italy until that country stops giving asylum to Ingrid Bergman.

One can hope, however, that the Senate will approach this year's Marshall Plan authorization with greater responsibility. There's nothing sacred about the exact sum recommended by Mr. Truman. But amendments and criticisms should go to the merits of the bill.

Most of the proposals for reduction and restriction of the foreign aid program come not from lawmakers sincerely concerned with reasonable economy and efficiency. They come from those who in their hearts dislike the entire program and would do anything they can to cripple it or destroy it.

It would be refreshing to hear these men say what they really feel and to learn what honest alternatives to the Marshall Plan they propose—if they have any.

CREATING FAITH IN OTHER PEOPLE

(4) I resolve to create faith in other people. I shall think faith, talk faith, live faith, impart faith. That means that I will turn over all my nonfaith attitudes to God and help others to do the same. A pastor told me he was unable to eat, was getting thinner every day, had pains in his stomach. He went on his knees and said, "O God, you delivered one man, Stanley Jones, from physical and nervous exhaustion; you can deliver another; you can deliver me." He turned the whole thing over to God, went to bed, relaxed, and received—just received, breathed in the healing of God as the lungs breathe in the purifying air. Today he is the picture of health and is contagious—he radiates health.

A father was about to be operated on, and the mother and son could not sleep through worry and anxiety. They sent word to a Christian layman: "Please come down and stay with us at night; we are afraid. Can't you come and talk to us? for we have nothing to hold on to in the dark." The layman came, and mother and son both surrendered themselves to God and were changed. The son spoke to the father, who for a long time lay there uncomprehending; but he finally recognized the son's voice, responded to his testimony, opened his heart to the love of God and was himself converted and died happy. The spark of faith in that son, a convert of two days, kindled something in the father's heart and changed him.

You, too, belong to the great contagion—the contagion of faith. A friend worked in a college had a period of worry which brought on high blood pressure. She dropped a letter in the box, telling me she had turned the whole problem over to God. That was an act of faith. But the moment her letter dropped, so did her blood pressure! She is now poised and calm and effective. Up to the dropping of that letter in the box she had been an introvert; she is now an extrovert, turning out upon ohers in contagious faith.

O God, break down within me the last barrier of fear that would check the flow of faith. I would have the doors of my spirit turn out and not in, for I am made for creative activity by Thee, the Creator. Help me to create hope and faith in others. In Jesus' name. Amen.

The Scene From The Cross

AP Newsfeatures

"CRUCIFIXION," a modern painting by J. William Kennedy, member of the art faculty at the University of Illinois, shows the scene as Christ may have viewed it, looking down from the cross on his tormentors and friends. The time portrayed is the split second before the agony was ended by the centurion's spear. The artist says he tried to put himself in each person's place when he created the facial expressions and gestures. To do this, he looked into an overhead mirror. This is believed to be the only painting with this point of view.

Distant Star

BY HERMINA BLACK

Copyright 1950 by Hermina Black — Dist by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Clemency Norton, young, eager to travel, goes with Syrie Amberley to an isolated but luxurious home in the North African desert as nursery governess to Syrie's small daughter Baba. The house belongs to Piers Amberley, brother of Syrie's husband Jon, on whose generosity the married couple is obviously dependent. Clemency was told that Jon was in ill health, but on the evening of Syrie's return he comes to the nursery to visit Baba.

IV

IT was impossible for Clemency, who was forced to watch the tableau, not to see Syrie Amberley's quick jerk away, and the tightening of her husband's embrace as he deliberately drew her closer and held her, his mouth against hers.

Then Jon released Syrie. "Sorry I wasn't there to greet you when you got back from England. Did Piers tell you I'd been out in the midday sun?"

"He mentioned it. Are you all right?" Syrie was smiling at him now. "I was afraid you might be really—ill, when you didn't turn up at the airport."

"No. First headache I've had since you went away."

"Well, don't get any more." Syrie turned to Clemency. "This is my husband—as you will have guessed. Miss Norton. Miss Norton is Baba's new nursery governess."

"So I gathered from Piers." He shook hands. "Hope both my young women behaved on the journey Miss Norton."

"Beautifully," said Clemency, and added significantly: "But Baba is dropping with sleep. And now she has seen her Daddy she's going to bed like a good girl."

Clemency led the way into the night nursery, and as Jon Amberley bent to put his daughter between the turned-back sheets of her white bed, she had the opportunity of observing him more closely.

He was taller than his brother, and no one who did not know would have suspected the tie between them. Jon was fair, and once must have been very good looking; but now he had the appearance of a man who had been ravaged by illness. His cheeks were sunken and there were deep violet shadows under his eyes. There was no doubt about his remarkably good features, but it was a weak face—with none of his brother's bitterness; it also lacked Piers Amberley's strength.

As they turned away, he said: "She needs someone to be good to her. Neither Syrie nor myself are exactly successful in the role of parent."

It was difficult to make a comment on that. As they went back into the nursery they found it empty. Syrie had not waited for her husband, a fact which did not seem to surprise him. He lingered for a few minutes asking Clemency if she knew this part of the world, and managing to find out exactly how she came to be there.

She was somehow relieved when he had gone. She had the feeling that she ought to be sorry for him but she could not rid herself of a slight sense of something more like distaste. He certainly had a charm which his elder brother did not possess, but—

Jon Amberley looked unhappy, and he was probably quite nice. What Clemency did know for certain was that she would have given a good deal not to have to go downstairs and join the Amberley family for dinner.

THE ordeal was even worse than she had expected.

The big, square hall was beautiful. The floor inlaid with black and white mosaic; the colors of the deep rugs strewn about it glowed with jewel-like brilliance—rose and sapphire blue and the clear green of emeralds. The porphyry of the walls was rose color, flecked with gold, and the pillars which supported the galleries that ran all round the hall were of dull beaten silver inlaid with lumps of rose quartz. Clemency had often seen paintings of the interior of eastern houses, but none of them had rivaled the exotic beauty of this portion of Piers Amberley's. Here was no attempt to modernize or Westernize. Great silver lamps hung from the roof, and carved arches covered by silken curtains gave access to the rooms which led off the hall.

Through the one to which Justine had directed her came the strains of a radio-phonograph playing a Strauss waltz. It was the one incongruous touch, but somehow it did not seem that way—perhaps because Clemency adored Strauss waltzes.

She lifted the curtain and went in, dropping it behind her. For a moment or two she paused unnoticed on the threshold of the room. Syrie in a dinner gown of some soft, draping material the color of an aqua-marine, lounged back in a deep chair, a vivid violet cushion behind her red-gold hair, a cigaret in a black onyx holder between her lips.

NOT far away Piers Amberley sat, reading a magazine—very distinguished-looking in his orthodox black and white. Jon was standing by the big record player. He looked less haggard in the shaded golden light of the lamps, and Clemency realized that he was startlingly good looking.

This room was as Eastern as the hall. Silver pillars again, but the walls of lapis and silver—the upholstery and hangings almost barbaric in their vivid hues. The vividness of Syrie fitted into it—but the men in their perfectly cut clothes struck an alien note. And yet she felt that the picture before her ought to have been a perfect conversation piece—only there was no conversation.

Each one of those three people seemed apart—absorbed in their own pursuits. Syrie in her thoughts, Piers Amberley in his reading, and Jon in the music to which he was lightly beating time with one hand.

She stood there, feeling an embarrassed interloper, wishing she could make her escape. Then Jon turned his head, and saw her. At the same moment the record came to an end. For a moment Jon Amberley stared at the girl by the door without recognition.

The Doctor Says—

Hemorrhoids Usually Are Treated Best by Surgery

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

There is much concern about whether piles, or hemorrhoids, lead to cancer. Fortunately, though hemorrhoids cause a lot of discomfort, they do not increase the chances of developing cancer.

Hemorrhoids, or piles are actually enlarged veins which develop at or near the outlet of the rectum. They tend to occur in clusters like grapes. At first the enlargements appear and disappear. They may come on gradually or suddenly. A special strain, such as lifting, or a bad attack of constipation will often bring them rapidly.

Blockage of the flow of blood through the hemorrhoidal veins favors the development of piles. Many factors can contribute childbirth, long-continued severe coughing, the muscular strain of heavy lifting or athletics, and constipation, are commonly mentioned.

As a rule, the first symptom consists of the presence of blood on the outside of the stool without pain. Other common early signs are itching or slight pain, especially on straining. Bleeding is usually slight at first but can get so bad that it can cause amenia. Ulcers or cracks in the skin or mucuous membrane around the rectum often develop in long-continued cases. Such complications are frequently painful.

At times clots can form inside the enlarged veins. These are likely to arise suddenly with severe pain. They are usually absorbed in a week or so though the clot can be shelled out by surgery.

The best treatment for hemorrhoids in most cases is to cut them out. This involves an operation which can be performed with either local or general anesthesia. There has been much improvement in the methods of treatment and after-care in recent years so that as a rule convalescence is more rapid and pain less severe following this operation than was formerly the case.

Injection May Help

In some cases the enlarged veins, if they are internal, can be treated by injection. In most severe cases, however, removal by operatin is the method of choice. Unfortunately, once piles have developed and been present for some time, there is no other thoroughly satisfactory treatment except the two mentioned.

There is some danger that piles will come back after operation—that is new ones develop—unless the causes which originally produced them are also corrected.

Dr. Jordan will answer questions from his readers in a special column once a week. Watch for it.

THE EASTER STORY — Jesus Is Crucified — Drawn by John J. Sunley

They crucified Him, and with Him, two thieves. And they sat and watched His agony, mocking and reviling Him. Darkness covered the earth. After three hours, the end was at hand. And Jesus, again crying with a loud voice, yielded up the ghost. (Matt. 27:50)

That evening, rich Joseph of Arimethea, a disciple of Jesus, begged Pilate for the body of the Saviour. Joseph interred Him in his own new, rock-hewn tomb. And he rolled a great stone to the door of the monument, and went his way. (Matt. 27:60)

Mackenzie's Column

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

It begins to look as though the democracies finally may call off the boycott against Spain—bad lad of western Europe ever since General Franco became dictator in '39 as the result of his revolt against the communist supported republic.

The trend was first indicated some weeks ago when U. S. Secretary of State Acheson announced a change in American policy towards Spain. He favored resumption of full diplomatic representation in Madrid as soon as the United Nations repeals its 1946 recommendation that all members withdrew their ambassadors —a recommendation which was followed.

This reversal of policy seems to have paved the way for a striking development at the recent meetings of the Atlantic Pact Defense Ministers in the Hague. Spain being of vast strategic importance militarily, the question naturally arose of her relation to the 12-nation Atlantic Pact.

Favored Leasing Air Bases

The conference military advisers favored the leasing of air bases from Spain, rather than giving her direct membership in the pact. It is said this proposal will be placed before the meeting of the Pact nations' foreign ministers in London early next month.

All twelve nations must approve before Spain can be approached in the matter. Chief opposition comes from Britain, whose labor government objects to the Franco regime on ideological grounds.

The point is that if bases should be leased from Spain, it would open the door to full inclusion of Spain in the western defense system if she should wish to participate.

Numerous Reasons For

The campaign against Franco Spain in the U. N. and elsewhere has been paced by Moscow ever since the Spanish revolution. Naturally the belief is strong in western diplomatic circles that Russia wants to keep Spain from becoming a part of the Atlantic Pact defense.

There have been numerous reasons for the opposition to General Franco's regime. From the Russian standpoint one of the burning issues lay in the fact that the Spanish regime which Franco overthrew had a strong communist complexion. This government was supported in its struggle by Russians and by volunteers from many other countries.

On the other hand, Franco had much help from both Hitler and Mussolini. He reciprocated by selling them supplies in the World War until America and Britain outbought the Axis powers.

Curious enough one of the main charges against the Franco government is that it is a dictatorship. The regime is accused of the suppression of civil freedoms.

Abhor Dictatorships

Of course believers in democracy abhor dictatorships. But it is an interesting note that the western world should turn thumbs-down on the Madrid government, because it is a dictatorship, while playing ball with other totalitarian regimes which are tougher, for example, Soviet Russia.

The answer to this naturally is that the western powers have been making a virtue of expediency.

Now under the leadership of Washington this anomolous position may be clarified. It isn't entirely altruism; Spain might be a mighty big asset militarily to the west in event of another conflict.

In the absence of the president, the vice president, Mrs. Paul Gregory, had charge of the business meeting. The meeting opened with the group singing: "America."

The devotional was read by Mrs. Stuart Allen.

Roll call was answered with an Easter custom, letters from the Extension Office were read and final plans for the club supper were discussed.

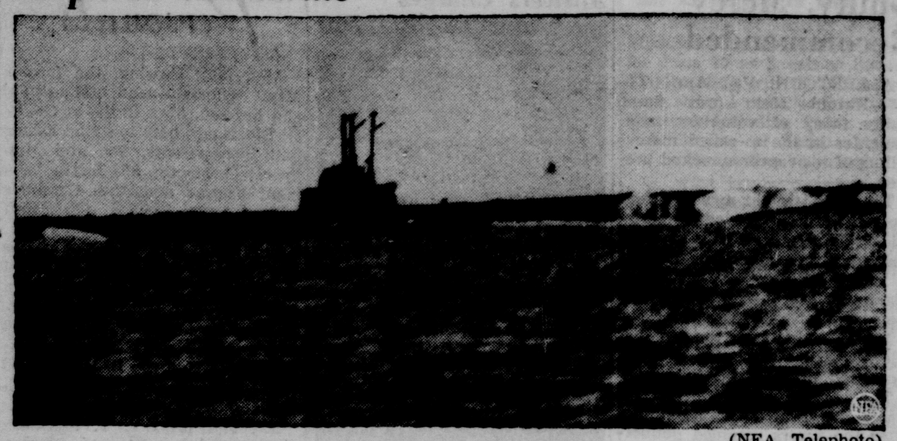
Surprised Submarine



(NEA Telephoto)

This submarine, photographed off Catalina Island, Calif., was sighted by members of the crew of a racing yacht, the Westward Ho. The yacht left its course and approached to within approximately 75 yards of the sub when two khaki-clad men on the conning tower jumped inside and the vessel submerged, according to the yachtsmen. Some reports indicate that this sub may be the USS Charr, based at Long Beach, Calif., but this has not been confirmed.

Surprise For Census Taker

LOGAN, W. Va., April 7—(AP)—Census-taker Amy Carper was about to leave a housewife she interviewed yesterday when the lady pressed $5 into her hand.

"I can't accept that," said the surprised Mrs. Carper. "The government pays us, you know."

"You don't remember me, then," the woman said. "I lived next to you 12 years ago at Omar, borrowed $5 one day to buy milk and butter and forgot to pay you. Then we moved away. Well, here is your $5."

Three Escape Injuries in Car Wreck

Three young men from Marshall had a narrow escape about 12:35 o'clock this morning, and emerged from an accident with nothing more than a few slight abrasions and bruises. The 1940 Ford coach they were in was practically demolished in an accident on the curve north of Springdale Cabins, about three miles from the city limits, on North Highway 65.

The car was driven by Thomas Melvin Hedrick, 24, of Marshall, and he was accompanied by Joe McAuley and Ralph Howell, both of Marshall. Hedrick was headed north on the highway 65 when the car went into a curve. The car went several feet along the shoulder of the pavement, swerved back onto the concrete, skidded, flipped over on its top and went spinning along the pavement for some distance.

The top of the car was smashed almost flat and other parts of the vehicle were badly smashed up as the car overturned.

McAuley and Howell reported they were thrown from the car, while Hedrick remained at the wheel.

Wreck Wednesday Night

Wednesday night, another wreck occurred three and six-tenths miles south of Sedalia on the Water Works road in which two occupants escaped with only minor bruises and abrasions. The vehicle, a 1938 Chevrolet coupe, was completely demolished.

This car was driven by Robert L. Perkins, who was accompanied by Douglas Salmons, both of 301 East Twenty-seventh street. They were going south on the blacktop road when the right rear wheel struck a concrete abutment on a culvert, knocking the wheels out from under the car, the abutment knocked about ten feet from the culvert, and the car went into a ditch.

Various parts of the automobile were scattered for some distance along the roadway.

Guilty, Mercy Recommended

ALLENTODN, Pa., April 7.—(AP)—Harold Mohr was found guilty today of voluntary manslaughter in the so-called mercy-killing of his cancer-wracked brother.

The jury of eight men and four women recommended mercy. Judge James F. Henninger said yesterday such a recommendation is not mandatory on the court. Maximum term for voluntary manslaughter is 12 years in prison.

Mohr stood to hear the sentence with no visible display of emotion. He stared, dully, at the floor.

The verdict was returned at 9:55 a. m., an hour and 25 minutes after the jurors resumed deliberations. Five hours of study yesterday failed to bring forth a verdict.

The jurors had a choice of four verdicts: First or second degree murder, voluntary manslaughter or acquittal.

Pleads Guilty To Evading Tax

ST. LOUIS, April 7 —(AP)—Thomas O. Dakessian of Columbia, Mo., pleaded guilty today to federal income tax evasion and was fined $25,000 and sentenced to six months in jail.

Federal Judge Rubey M. Hulen, who imposed sentence, gave Dakessian ten days to get his affairs in order before he is jailed.

Dakessian, 50, operates a rug cleaning business and a gift shop in Columbia. He pleaded guilty to five counts of a criminal information charging him with making false income tax returns for the years 1943 through 1947.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Herbert H. Freer said Dakessian, in joint income tax returns for himself and his wife, understated their income for the five years by a total of $102,543 and defrauded the government of at least $48,688.

Ralph L. Alexander, attorney representing Dakessian, asked for leniency. He told the court Dakessian came to this country from his native turkey at an early age to escape oppression.

Being a member of the Symphonic Choir is a distinct honor as only the most outstanding singers are taken into the choir after rigid tests are given. Mr. Beach began with the Barber Shop group in Portland, then later was admitted to the Glee Club, then to the chorus and now has been selected as a member of the symphonic Choir.

Banker Kills Self

BEVERLY, Mass., April 7—(AP)—Samuel Vaughan, 63, prominent Boston lawyer, railroad director and bank official, killed himself by discharging a small, brass ship's cannon into his mouth last night.

Police Chief Edward Aucone disclosed Vaughan's death today—the third suicide among persons innocently associated with the affairs of Frederick Porter, elderly former bank cashier, now serving a sentence for shortages in the accounts of three Beverly charities. A woman bank employe and an auditor previously ended their lives.

Owen Lattimore, accused by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) of being Russia's top spy in the United States, faces a Senate foreign relations subcommittee in Washington to answer the accusations. In a written statement, which he read, Lattimore swore the charges are "base and contemptible lies." (AP Wirephoto)

Direct Losses Due to Strike

DETROIT, April 7—(AP)—Direct losses due to the Chrysler strike will pass the one billion dollar mark Monday, April 10, Automotive News asserted today.

The various Chrysler plants have been idle since Jan. 25. The trade paper said that regardless of the outcome of current negotiations it would be impossible for them to reopen next Monday.

Automotive News estimates that through tomorrow direct losses growing out of the shutdown will total $994,509,680. Another $20,000,000 it adds, will be lost Monday.

Itemizing the losses, the paper says:

"The $994,509,680 includes the following components: $700,000,000 representing average value of the 350,000 lost cars and trucks; $212,000,000 in lost purchases to Chrysler's $6,500 suppliers; $61,509,680 in lost wages to the 89,000 Chrysler workers, and $21,000,000 in lost wages to the 50,000 idled supplier employers (after unemployment-compensation benefits).

"The one-billion-dollar Chrysler loss is not an automotive strike record. That distinction is held by the General Motors strike of 1945-46, which lasted for 16 weeks and one day and cost directly-affected parties $1,457,400,000."

Juniors Help Get Man Wanted

FORT SMITH, Ark., April 7—(AP)—A couple of youngsters — members of the Junior Deputies organization — were credited today with helping bring about the arrest of a young cowhand from Wyoming, wanted on a charge of stealing a saddle.

Sebastian county deputies took the prisoner, identified as Charles Jones, 18, into custody after receiving information from the youngsters. The deputies said they didn't get the names of the junior deputies.

Jones was taken at the home of an uncle, and is being held for authorities from Carbon county, Wyoming, said Sheriff Prentice Maddux.

The firm is a subsidiary of Brummet Aircraft company here, headed by J. Raymond Brummet. Chief pilot is F. A. Jones, who has been in charge of flight activities for Brummet the last four years.

Settle Kroger Strike

ST. LOUIS, April 7.—(AP)—Settlement of a strike by 100 AFL truck drivers will enable the 88 Kroger stores in the city and St. Louis county to open by Tuesday.

The strike by Kroger truck drivers, which resulted in closing of all of the stores last Friday, ended yesterday. Terms of the settlement were not disclosed, but a joint company-union statement said:

"The new contract involves a reduction in the work week with substantially the same take-home pay." The union wanted the work week reduced from 48 to 45 hours with no cut in pay.

CALCUTTA, India, April 7—The Flying Bixbys—Dianna and Bob—took off tonight for Tokyo determined to try again soon to smash the record for a round-the-world flight.

Two Watchmen Found Dead

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP)—The bound bodies of two night watchmen were found early today in one of Washington's biggest department stores (Lansburgh & Brothers). Police said both had been stabbed to death.

They were identified by store officials as John C. Carpenter, 45, and Oliver R. Hess, 56. Hess' family lives at Baltimore.

Police said Carpenter's body was in a first floor washroom. Hess, bound and stabbed in the back, was lying on a blood-stained carpet on the fifth floor. Police said they found a large butcher knife believed to be the murder weapon.

The bodies were discovered by other watchmen after Carpenter failed to signal a routine 1:15 a. m. check of the first floor.

Woodpecker Really Annoys One Family

OAKLAND, Calif., April 7.—(AP)—A four-week assault by a woodpecker on the tin chimney of Mrs. P. E. Thompson's house has her in a turmoil.

She complained to the police department, the SPCA and the state game warden.

The police said it was illegal to shoot woodpeckers within the city limits.

The SPCA said they acted only in an emergency in behalf of feathered friends. And the wood pecker was in no state of emergency.

The game warden had no comment.

But Mrs. Thompson had. She said that if the rat-tat-tat keeps up she is going to climb to the roof and bag the bird somehow.

Twin Pushes Brother Under Water, Drowns

FRESNO, Calif., April 7.—(AP)—Fresno has another twin-kills-twin case—its second such slaying in less than a month.

James Preston, Jr., 4, innocently told his mother Wednesday:

"I pushed Kenneth in the water (an irrigation ditch) and his head went under. I wish I had a fishing pole. Then I'd get my brother out."

Police Chief Dan Lung said no action is planned against James because he didn't realize what he'd done.

In March, Alice Richard, 14, fatally shot her twin, Sally, "because I hated her."

Alice was sent to an institution for observation.

Picked up Material To Build 'Dream House'

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP)—For the last six weeks, Hubert Glover 29, has been gathering lumber tiling and other materials to build himself a "dream house."

But today, the project was off, and Glover was facing a grand larceny charge.

Police accused him of collecting his building materials bit by bit from construction projects in Nassau county.

All had gone well for Glover until Wednesday night—on his final haul—he made the mistake of driving a truck through Merrick, N. Y., without lights. Police, who stopped him, said the truck was loaded with the last bit of trim clover needed for a four-room house.

formed" that Binaggio's organization was supporting former Rep. Thomas Hennings, St. Louis, for the senatorial nomination in opposition to Allison.

Allison said he had only sketchy information about the situation and did not care to comment until he knew more about it.

"I am out here in the country campaigning," he said. "And I don't know what it's all about." He addressed the Rotary Club here tonight and was to go on to Marshall to spend the night.

Reply by Becker

However, Allison's campaign manager, William Becker of Columbia, did not hesitate in replying to Short.

"Well I'll be doggoned," Becker exclaimed at Jefferson City "That's a new one on me. It has no relation with reality—it's pretty nearly psychotic."

Becker added that Allison already has declared he doesn't want any "damned gangster's support," and Becker said Short's statement "comes under the reading of pure foolishness."

As to blame for Binaggio's slaying, Becker snorted:

"Why doesn't he (Short) go direct to the White House instead of to Rolla, Mo.?"

Gloomy Word

"The next development came later in the gloomy word from the Kansas City boss that a hitch had developed in the plans."

The Star-Times said the "stumbling block" in the way of the underworld planners was Gov. Forrest Smith's appointment of a political unknown, William Holzhausen, as president of the St. Louis police board. It said Binaggio "thought Holzhausen could be handled" but found instead a "stubbornly righteous man — almost a reformer."

The story said much of the big fund came from gamblers on the east side in Illinois — "gamblers anxious to move their base of operations into St. Louis proper" when the new Missouri state administration took office in January, 1949.

Too Cold for Swim

At Key West the thermometer registered 57 degrees at noon and President Truman found it too chilly for his customary dip at his vacation retreat.

Coldest April 6 in Miami history was 47 in 1944. The weather bureau said April 7 had a previous low of 48 in 1931.

Heavy rains that dumped 1.98 inches of rain on the Miami area Wednesday night were forgotten in yesterday's clear, crisp weather that saw winds reach 35 miles per hour in gusts.

A high of about 65 was forecast for today.

Seven Japanese Hanged Today

TOKYO, April 7.—(AP)—Seven Japanese of 41 originally sentenced to death were hanged today in Sugamo prison for killing three American airmen in 1945. Sentences of the others were commuted earlier.

Tebo and Tuggle were beheaded. Loyd was tortured and bayoneted.

Easter Rich in Folklore

Pagan Customs Survive in Christian Festival

AP Newsfeatures

The Easter parade, Easter dawn services, Easter eggs and the Easter rabbit are so mixed up with religion, paganism and folklore that only a powerful story like that of the Resurrection could survive to dominate this custom-cluttered spring day.

When you put on your new Easter bonnet and other spring finery you are perpetuating one of the oldest traditions of Christendom — the donning of white robes by the newly baptised.

Your children may wake up early to surprise you — an ancient custom — and they'll hunt for Easter eggs — primitive symbols of the germinating life of early spring. You'll tell them the eggs were laid by the Easter rabbit — a pagan emblem of fertility.

In fact the very name of Easter is pagan — an old Anglo-Saxon word that derived from Eostre, a Teutonic goddess of the rising light of day and spring.

Joy Means Noise

Don't be annoyed if the children are noisy — noise has accompanied the joy of Easter since earliest times. Until recently throughout eastern Europe, anyone was permitted to enter the belfries and ring the church bells on Easter. The noise was kept up for most of the day.

The joy of Easter has been variously interpreted in every country and in every century of the Christian era. The Catholic Encyclopedia tells how priests of Bavaria in the 15th century thought it permitted them to tell funny stories in their sermons to make their churches ring with laughter.

"This Easter laughter," says the encyclopedia, "giving rise to grave abuses of the word of God, was prohibited by Clement X (in the 1670's) and again by Maxmilian III in the 18th century."

Ball Games in Church

In both France and Germany, Easter joy was taken to sanction ball games and dances by bishops, abbots, priests and monks in front of the altar. It was all symbolic, of course, the ball representing the sun, which was believed to take three leaps in rising on Easter morning. But apparently a good time was had by all, for the clerics had been under strict discipline during Lent.

Although the church eventually banned such shennanigans,

the custom survived in other forms. Within the memory of many persons still living the ball game was continued at Bury St. Edmunds "with great spirit by 12 old women."

One of the most ribald Easter customs is described by the Rev. Alan W. Watts, S. T. M., in his new book "Easter" (Henry Schuman, New York). It is the story of ale drinking parties in the churches.

"The fact that almost all churches now have parish halls attached to them," writes the Rev. Mr. Watts, "is, in part, the result of excluding another Easter festivity from the church itself. This was the Easter 'Church Ale,' a convivial distribution and drinking of ale after the principal Easter service, the money derived from it being used for repairs to the church fabric.

Brawls Brought Taverns

"It is certain," he continues, "that Church Ales easily degenerated into brawls and for this reason were ordered out of the church itself. As a result, church houses were built or rented adjoining the church, and equipped with kitchens and drinking utensils. Some of these ultimately became taverns, while many more were retained for what is now the normal social life of the church community."

However, the strength of the church is illustrated in its adjustment to many other springtime capers that people confused with Easter. One is the Easter Fire. This was lighted on top of a mountain, and according to pagan practice, it had to be kindled from new fire — drawn from wood by friction. The fire signified the victory of spring over winter.

At first the bishops issued severe edicts against these "sacrilegious Easter fires." But all over Europe people insisted on starting them. So, the Catholic encyclopedia observes, "the church adopted the observance into the Easter ceremonies."

Easter Egg's Origin

But, of course, the Easter egg remains the most universal symbol of the day. It seems to have had its origin in the fact that eggs were forbidden during Lent. When they were brought to the festive table on Easter day, they were colored red to represent Easter joy.

There is a church in London that carries on the practice of giving each member of the Easter congregation an egg bearing the words "My Redeemer."

And this habit of getting up early to find eggs and to surprise each other is purely an ancient church tradition. Before the tenth century in France, when a canon was absent in the choir for first psalms of the morning, the others would take the processional cross and the holy water, march to the absentee's house, and finding him in bed, they'd sprinkle him with water to wake him. Then he was led to church. In punishment he was compelled to provide breakfast for the others.

Switching in Bed

The bishops eventually put a stop to that, but the custom survived among the people. In many parts of Europe parents and children tried to surprise each other on Easter morning. Instead of using holy water to waken the sleepers, they used "health-giving" pagan switches.

Today this early rising is perpetuated with Easter dawn ser-

How Paganism Perseveres

"A great many pagan customs, celebrating the return of spring, gravitated to Easter," admit the historians. And some of these customs are odd, indeed.

On Easter Monday, for instance women are supposed to have a right to strike their husbands — on Tuesday the men may strike their wives.

In northern parts of England, men parade the streets on Easter Sunday and claim the privilege of lifting every woman three times from the ground. In payment for such feats of male strength they get a kiss, or a silver sixpence. The next day the women are permitted to try the same trick on the men.

Smoke billows from the fiercely burning Marshall Mars after a forced landing near Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. Fire broke out when the Navy flying boat was on a test flight a mile off Oahu island. Minutes after this aerial photo was made an explosion rocked the plane sending it to the bottom shortly after. The plane's crewmen escaped safely. (AP Wirephoto via Navy radio from Honolulu)

Cheese Catches Burglar

LAWRENCEBURG, Ind., April 7—(AP)—This cheese didn't catch a mouse, but police say it did trap a burglar.

Sheriff Walter Sauley said Letcher Meek, 46, of Louisville, Ky., had confessed robbing a general store near Madison, Ind., last Jan. 30. The sheriff said Meek's fingerprints were found on a loaf of cheese in the store.

Easter

Christ lay dead in the tomb. Two days ago His friends had taken the tortured body from the cross, washed away the blood and sweat, and wrapped it in linen shrouds. They wept, remembering how literally the prophecies had been fulfilled. "They have pierced My hands and feet, they have numbered all My bones."

At dawn on the third day, Mary Magdalene, Mary the mother of James, and Salome came to the tomb to anoint Jesus. They found the stone rolled back from the tomb and beheld an angel who said to them: "You seek Jesus of Nazareth Who was crucified. He has risen: He is not here."

Thus was the miracle of Christ's resurrection first revealed. Significantly, it was Mary of Magdala, the reformed wanton, who was privileged to be the first greeted by the Risen Savior. The name of this woman, reborn through the power of His love, was the first spoken by the Master after His triumph over sin and death. Through her, Christ gave His precious assurance that as He had risen out of the tomb, so would all those who renounce sin for His sake share in the joy of His resurrection.

"This is the day which the Lord hath made," says Scripture. "Let us be glad and rejoice." Easter is the most joyful season in the Christian year. It is the festival not only of Christ's vindication but of man's hope and gratitude. It is the time of supreme reassurance to all who are troubled, since it reminds them that no power on earth can separate them from the love and mercy of God. Not even death.

Easter is essentially the reminder that man was created for eternal life, that death is the beginning rather than the end. "He that believeth in Me, even though he be dead, yet shall he live." If some fear death it is only because they do not walk in the light of Christ.

To all who follow Him in fidelity and confidence there is always the knowledge that Christ's love is always with them; that the sacrifice of Calvary was the price He paid that each soul might pass through the tomb of death into mansions of joy utterly beyond the power of the human mind to imagine or conceive.

Sunday School Lesson

Resurrection in Christian Faith

The seeming miracle of the growth and spread of early Christianity very definitely had its roots and explanation in the greater miracle of the Resurrection of Jesus, after His death on the cross and burial. A more disheartened and disapponited group could hardly be found anywhere than the group of Christian disciples in the hours following their Master's death.

Despite His words, that seemed so clear after His resurrection, they had clung to the last to the idea and hope of an earthly kingdom. They had left all to follow Jesus in that hope and now they were left, lost and bewildered, knowing not what to do, or where to go. Peter expressed both his dejection and his counsel of despair, when he said he was going back to his fishing nets: "I go afishing."

Then, suddenly, all that dejection and frustration changed into life and hope. Not only was their faith revived, but there came new accesses of vision, character and power, that transformed men who had been quarreling about place and ambition into Apostles, with a world mission and vision in a purpose now spiritual.

That transformation is something not to be accounted for, except upon the plain facts. Here was John, one of the two brothers whom Jesus, because of their intense forcefulness and ambition, had nicknamed the "Sons of Thunder, Boanerges." These brothers had wanted Him to call down fire from heaven and consume villagers who had used Him inhospitably (Luke 9:54).

This very John, only a few years later, became the Apostle of love, writing in all the tenderness of his Epistles, "We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren" (I John 3:14). John had indeed passed from death unto life under the power of that resurrection faith.

It was this faith that inspired Paul, who spoke of himself as a Christian born out of due season. Paul claimed to have an experience of a vision of the Christ, whom he had not known, as the other Apostles had, during His earthly life.

Only such a profound faith could have upheld and sustained a man in the situations of peril and suffering which Paul so constantly experienced and at the same time kept him as full of joy as of faith and courage.

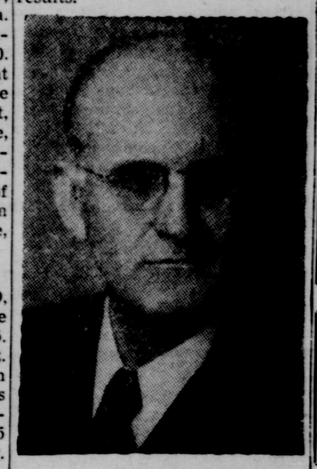
Men have endured suffering with grim courage and determination, but to have such joy in the soul as Paul and his companion Silas manifested in the inner prison at Philippi (Acts 16), in the darkness, with their feet fast in the stocks, is beyond any human experience untouched with divine grace.

It was the conviction of this living Christ, in whom he lived and moved and had his being, that gave to Paul and his companions the faith and courage that kept them persistent in their mission to make the Gospel and its power known.

It is the faith of the Eastertide and the Resurrection and would God that we might all experience it today! We, too, might then know and understand what the Apostles meant when they spoke of passing from death unto life.

Evangelistic Crusade Opens

The First Baptist church along with several other Baptist churches in Pettis county are entering an Evangelistic Crusade beginning Easter Sunday and closing April 23. Services during this period at the First Baptist church will be held each week day at 9:30 and 7:30, except that on Mondays and Saturdays there will be no morning service. Plans for these meetings have been developing for several months and have now been perfected to the point where the churches are organized for this united effort and looking forward to meetings of splendid results.



Dr. McKinley Norman

Dr. McKinley Norman, pastor-evangelist, will do the preaching at the First Baptist church, and Mr. Carl Yessen of the local church will lead the congregational singing. Mrs. A. R. Beach, choir director, will arrange special musical numbers and have general supervision of the choir. Dr. Norman is an experienced and capable evangelist and will be a great blessing to people who will attend from day to day.

Cattle Killed In Derailment

FARGO, Okla., April 7—(AP)—Nine cars of an eastbound Santa Fe freight train derailed here early Thursday night, killing an estimated hundred head of cattle.

Several hundred head were thrown clear of the wreckage and scampered wildly about the plains country near the Oklahoma-Texas border.

Railroad officials said it was difficult immediately to determine the number of cattle crushed under the splintered cattle cars.

The derailed cars were in the middle of the train and piled up in front of the Fargo station. No one was injured, officials said.

Buckling of the wheel assembly of two of the derailed cars was blamed for the wreck, officials said. Witnesses estimated there were 125 cars on the train, mostly cattle and refrigerator cars.

Refugees Worry Kashmir

SRINAGARA, Kashfir — (AP) — Some 600 persons who trekked through 18,000-foot mountain passes to escape from Sinkiang pose several problems for Kashmir authorities. Officials say the refugees are unwilling for the present to return to their homeland, now controlled by Chinese Communists, and do not wish to go to Formosa, held by Chinese Nationals. The government of India originally proposed to repatriate the refugees in October, but Kashmir officials asked a postponement.

Meanwhile, many refugees have become destitute. The Indian Red Cross plans to give relief and refuges leaders are trying to get aid from the United Nations.

Two Fighters Mysteriously Disappeared

One Collected His Purse And Did Quick Fadeout

By Will Grimsley

NEW YORK, April 7 — (AP) — Anybody seen a stocky 152-pounder with the word "Dolores" tattooed on his chest?

Tuzo (Kid) Portuguez, a chagrined middleweight from Costa Rica, is looking for him. So are red-faced fight officials in Kansas, put in the middle by boxing's biggest "ringer case" in years.

"Dolores" may connote a chic blonde to many Americans but in Spanish, freely translated, it means "miseries."

That's what Portuguese says he has in mind for the mysterious gladiator who used his name Wednesday night in Wichita, Kas. to absorb a first round knockout and pick up a pocketful of cash — $225, to be exact.

"Very Embarrassing"

"Knockout in first round —very embarrassing," the 22-year-old Madison Square Garden headliner said in his best Spanish. He doesn't speak English.

"I never hear of Kansas. I never hear of this fellow Williams."

It was Williams — Alvin Williams, a 161-pound Wichita Indian who was listed as Costa Rica's Portuguez and knocked out in 2 minutes, 33 seconds.

The beaten battler collected his purse and did a quick fadeout. He hadn't been located early today.

"It wasn't me," insisted Portuguez. "See, no tattoo." He stripped off a jacket and red shirt to display a muscled but unlabelled chest.

Friends from Costa Rica translated his vehement protests in an interview at the Associated Press office.

The unmarked Central American said at the time of the Wichita fight he was either enveloping a plate of tortillas at a Latin restaurant or dancing at a New York club — with witnesses aplenty to prove it.

Big Question

Who, then, was the fighter with the inch and a half tattoo on his chest and intimate knowledge of Portuguez?

The imposter told fight authorities in Wichita he had broken with his manager and was fighting free lance. Actually, Portuguez had broken with his manager, Luis Gutierrez, in New York.

Max Yeargain, the Wichita promoter, said he obtained the boxer from a Kansas City agent who, he added, had furnished him "good and bad fighters—but never a ringer."

The agent in Kansas City was not available for comment.

L. D. (Mike) Leland, inspector for the Kansas Athletic commission, announced he would recommend a thorough probe.

The vanquished middleweight had a stablemate with him listed as Harold Carter, 140, of New York. Harold didn't last as long as his companion.

Lasted 97 Seconds

He went out in 97 seconds against Nelson Levering of Macey, Neb., in the semi-final. Carter also disappeared.

Portuguez has been in the United States six months and has had four bouts, three in the Madison Square Garden. He knocked out Bobby Mann of Trenton, N. J., and outpointed Beau Jack, former lightweight champion.

He stopped Paddy Young of New York in the Garden Nov. 16 when Referee Eddie Joseph halted the bout because of Young's injuries. Young came back Feb. 24 to win a decision.

That was Portuguez' last fight.

Sports News In Missouri

MARYVILLE, Mo., April 7—(AP)—Maryville State's track team defeated Graceland college of Lamoni, Iowa, 98.65 to 37.35 yesterday in its first outdoor dual meet of the season.

Alvin Wormsley, Maryville, won the shot put, discus and javelin to lead the scoring with 15 points.

DALLAS, April 7—(AP)—Southern Methodist hung a 20-11 baseball defeat on the University of Missouri here yesterday.

The Methodists were ahead from the first pitch — Harold Salmon clouted Bob Smith's toss into centerfield for a home run. It was the beginning of a 17-hit barrage off Missouri's Smith, Gene Crenshaw, Richard Atkinson and Walter Ulmer.

SMU's star footballer, Kyle Rote, pulled out of a hitting slump with a double and three singles in four trips. He made four runs, one on a double steal.

Bill Eatock, Tiger shortstop, got four for five.

Stars Admire New Uniforms

Manager Fred Haney said it is to increase their speed as well as give them comfort. 65 Golfers Compete in Masters Meet

Skee Riegel Was Low in First Round With a Sub-par 69

By Sterling Slappey

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 7—(AP)—The 14th Masters tournament field tried again today to break the spell of a championship course and find the way to glory on its rolling greens.

Only stocky Skee Riegel managed sub-70 shooting among the 65 golfers yesterday in the first round. Riegel celebrated his first major tournament try as a professional by firing a 69.

Just seven other golfers broke par 72 at the great Augusta National course which has seen the best and conquered most of them.

The 6,900 yards of thickly sodded, never flat fairways and the hillocked greens were exceedingly rough for all but a few.

Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, Horton Smith of Detroit, Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., Lawson Little of Monterey, Calif., and Herchel Spears of Huntsville, Ala. got under par with 70's.

Little Toney Penna of Cincinnati and defending champion Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., had 71's. Johnny Palmer, the Badin, N. C. pro who was picked to win the Masters by fellow golfers, managed a round in par.

76's and 75's

Many another great of golf was left with the kind of score hardly worth whispering about — Jack Burke, Jr., Lloyd Mangrum and Chick Harbert with 76's and Byron Nelson, Herman Keiser, Cary Middlecoff and Herman Baron with 75's.

Ben Hogan and national amateur champion Charlie Coe tied with George Fazio at 73.

There was a striking similarity with 1949 as the 1950 Masters went into the second round.

At the opening of the second round last year, a 69 led the field —Lloyd Mangrum's. Today, Riegel's 69 was best. At the opening of the second 1949 round 51 golfers had scores below 80. It was the same today — 51 players were under 80.

Resume Wrestling Wednesday Night

Lee Hennings, Buffalo, New York, is coming to Sedalia to meet Mayes McClain, Haskell Indian, in main event on the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion wrestling card, Wednesday night April 12. Promoter Pearl Christy announced Thursday that rescheduling of wrestlers touring the country is making it possible to resume local matches on Wednesday—the regular nights for Sedalia for the past six years.

Tommy O'Toole, the battling Irishman from Boston, is to appear in the semi-windup against "Tiger" Tasher, New York City. The opening event brings together Walter Sirois, Montreal, Canada, and Sonny Myers, of St. Joseph.

Wrestling in Sedalia for the past five months has been switched from one date to another in an endeavor to give Central Missouri the wrestling sport. The switches were due to injuries suffered by many of the mat men in that time causing a shortage. Only one wrestler remains out of the sport and that is Champion Orville Brown, severely injured in a car crash nearly four months ago.

According to Promoter Christy he has been assured by various booking offices and wrestling managers contestants will be furnished for the Sedalia show so they can operate each week as in previous years.

Missouri Cage Coach May go to Michigan

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 7—(AP)—Wilbur N. (Sparky) Stalcup, University of Missouri basketball coach, says he has not decided whether to accept the basketball coaching job at Michigan State college.

Stalcup said he would announce his decision tonight.

Ralph H. Young, director of athletics at Michigan State, announced last night that Stalcup was hired, but the Missouri coach said that was a mistake.

"Mr. Young apparently issued the announcement of my appointment through a misunderstanding," Stalcup said. He had talked with Young by telephone last night, Stalcup explained, "I told him I would let him know tonight."

Michigan State is seeking a successor to Al Kircher, who resigned after one year there. Kircher is going to Washington State as a football backfield coach.

Stalcup's Missouri teams have won 54 games and lost 43 in four years. The 39-year-old coach has an over-all record of 256 victories and 95 defeats in 15 years.

Missouri Golfers Lost Match 6-0

DENTON, Texas, April 7—(AP)—North Texas State, the 1949 National Intercollegiate golf champion, defeated the University of Missouri golfers 60 yesterday.

It was the fifth straight victory of the season for the Texans.

$100,000 Bonus Baby Did Good After First Inning

By The Associated Press

The exhibition baseball chatter today was mostly about pitching performances, including one by the $100,000 bonus baby, Paul Pettit, which could be called both good and bad.

Pettit is the 18-year-old California lad recently acquired by the Pittsburg Pirates in a deal that caused considerable commotion and excitement. Paul was shipped to the Pirates' farm club, New Orleans. Just a few days ago he hurled five hitless innings against minor league opposition.

Yesterday he was sent in to pitch against major leaguers—the boss Pirates.

Case of Stage Fright

Perhaps young Paul had a case of stage fright. At any rate, before the first inning was over, he had given six runs. Three straight walks filled the bases. Pettit then allowed three singles, a double, a wild pitch and a balk, with a double steal sandwiched in.

But Paul stayed in there for three more innings and, indicating he may yet prove his metal, blanked the major leaguers over that stretch. Pittsburgh won the game played in the Crescent City, 10-7.

Mel Parnell, ace Boston Red Sox moundsman, showed the kind of form that won 25 games last year as he let down the Jacksonville Tars of the Sally league with no runs and four hits in a full route job won by Boston, 12-0.

Worked In Chill Wind

Parnell struck out five and worked in a chill wind. It was the first nine inning job by a Red Sox hurler this spring. Ted Williams socked a three-run homer.

Bob Kuzava, Chicago White Sox southpaw, came within a few inches of pitching a no-hitter against the Houston, Texas League, club. Chicago got only three hits in winning, 2-0.

The New York Giants also got an all-the-way pitching stint from Sheldon Jones, who led his team to a 5-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Jones gave nine hits but never allowed Cleveland to bunch them. The single tally off him was the result of a wild pitch, two walks and an outfield fly.

Southern Relays Opens Saturday

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 7—(AP)—A 14-conference turnout for the third annual Southern Relays today aimed a dazzling threat at long-standing Dixie track and field records.

From the southwest, midwest and east the best contenders of 30 colleges and universities poured into Birmingham for the competition starting tomorrow.

Jim Fuchs of Yale, claimant of the world shot-put record, was the individual star of about 1,000 specialists preparing for the opening gun.

The towering Fuchs tossed the 16-pound shot-put 56 feet seven inches in practice here yesterday, easily bettering the stadium record of 53 feet 6½ inches.

Yale, Oklahoma A & M, and Dewanee were already on the field as the vanguard of the event arrived today.

Sharp competition looms in the mile relay with Louisiana State and the Oklahoma Aggie teams battling.

Three of the Tigers who won last year in 3:20.3 are due back. The Aggies have a team which was clocked at 3:16.4 in the Sugar Bowl Mile with one of their best men, Capt. Hal Tarrant, not running.

Fights Thursday Night

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK—Charley Salas, 151, Phoenix, knocked out Roy Carter, 151¼, New York, 1.

Brooklyn—Pat Marcune, 126½, New York, stopped Tony Pennino, 123½, New York, 4.

Briefs on The Big Leagues While in Spring Training

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 7—(AP)—Manager Casey Stengel admittedly would like a fifth starting hurler for his New York Yankees, but says "I like our pitching staff as good as anybody's."

"I'd say our pitching right now is our weakest link," says Stengel. "Nobody has control. Our pitchers have walked 150 men and have struck out only 87."

Casey still claims the pitchers need at least a week-earlier spring training start than other players, saying there is not sufficient time for them all to get the work they need.

Plan the Full Route

ATLANTA, Ga., April 7—(AP)—Now it's time for one of the Brooklyn Dodgers' pitchers to try a full nine inning job.

A Convincing Good Sock

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 7—(AP)—Manager Red Rolfe won't give up on injured Charley Keller as a helpful guy to have around for the Detroit Tigers.

One good sock off Keller's bat was enough to re-convince Rolfe, who counts on Charley as a pinch-hitter. It was a 392-foot pinch-hit homer at Macon.

"Anybody who hits a ball that far has to have power," said Red "Even if he were batting against Dick Bartell (Tiger coach) in batting practice, I'd think it was a good sign."

On Opposite Sides

DALLAS, Texas, April 7—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs and Charlie Grimm will be on opposite sides for the first time in three years tonight.

The Cubs engage Dallas of the Texas League, skippered by Grimm who resigned as Cub vice president to take the job.

The Cubs are looking for a kill after absorbing a 14-2 licking by the St. Louis Browns at San Antonio last night as Doyle Lade was powdered for seven runs in the first three innings.

A Big Loss to White Sox

NEW ORLEANS, April 7—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox face an estimated loss of $43,000 on their spring exhibition tour.

General Manager Frank Lane has estimated the total cost of the training period at $74,000, or about $1,500 per day. In 22 exhibition games thus far, the Sox have drawn 48,000 customers, which if an average is maintained, will give them about 66,000 for the schedule.

Lane figures the team will have received a little less than 50 cents per paid admission.

Will Try for 9 Innings

MACON, Ga., April 7—(AP)—Joe Dobson, veteran righthander who has one six inning streak under his belt, will try to go nine innings for Boston's Red Sox today when the American Leaguers oppose the Macon Peaches of the class A Sally League.

Reds Edged Victory

RALEIGH, N.C., April 7—(AP)—Boston's Braves will try to make it two victories in as many days over their National League opponents, the Cincinnati Reds, today when the two clubs play the second game in their six game traveling series. The two clubs bussed here last night from Columbia, S C., where the Tribe edged the Rhinelanders 8-7 yesterday. Vern Bickford will start for the Braves and may attempt to go the distance.

Only Singles for Indians

SHREVEPORT, La., April 7—(AP)—Cleveland's Indians needed an extra base hit in the worst sort of way today.

For 30 innings now, the mighty Tribesmen haven't been able to pound out anything better than a measly single. They got nine yesterday in losing to the New York Giants, 5-1, and they got four on Wednesday when the Giants beat them 8-2.

On Tuesday, it was the same story, nine hits and all singles, but the Indians won that game, 7-6.

Rookie Looks Good

RALEIGH, N.C., April 7—(AP)—Manager Luke Sewell of the Cincinnati Reds says it looks like rookie pitcher Frank Smith is his "best bet now to handle the major portion of relief chores."

The six-foot-three righthander hurled in a relief role yesterday at Columbia when the Reds were beaten 8-7 by the Boston Braves.

At Columbia the Redlegs dropped off two bonus players for seasoning with the Columbia and Charleston farm clubs—Ed Bailey and Gerry Blackburn, who represent a combined outlay of about $75,000.

One or the Other

HOUSTON, Texas, April 7—(AP)—Kazak or Glaviano?

Manager Eddie Dyer of the St Louis Cardinals says he hasn't made up his mind about a third baseman to open the regular season April 18.

Tommy Glaviano, who held the job at the close of the season last year, hasn't been hitting. He replaced Eddie Kazak after the latter had broken an ankle.

The ankle has improved and Kazak has played in 20 games this spring. But his hitting has been spotty.

Injured Back With Team

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 7—(AP)—Billy DeMars, the St. Louis Browns' leading hitter, is expected back in the lineup today against the Browns' San Antonio farm club.

He missed yesterday's game with the Chicago Cubs after being hit on the left wrist Wednesday by a pitched ball.

Deported Hurriedly

ORLANDO, Fla., April 7—(AP)—Sandalio Consuegra, young Cuban righthanded hurler called for a trial with the Washington Nats arrived and left without throwing a ball.

He went into a huddle yesterday with Clark Griffith, Nats' president, and asked for $3,000 to pay off a Venezuelan team with which he said he had signed a contract.

Griffith sent him back to Cuba on the next plane.

Pitching Problems Continue

SHREVEPORT, La., April 7—(AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies' pitching problems seem to be multiplying.

Last night one of the hurlers Manager Eddie Sawyer is counting upon to help the club make a National League pennant bid, was socked hard. The Phillies beat Shreveport of the Texas League 7 to 4 but Milo Candini was rapped for six hits and three runs in two innings.

However, two doubles by Eddie Waitkus, a homer off the bat of Del Ennis and a three hit, seven inning hurling stint by lefty Curt Simmons helped ease the headache a little.

No "Tomorrows" for A's

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., April 7—(AP)—Connie Mack says there "will be no tomorrow" for his Philadelphia Athletics this season.

The 87-year-old manager was speaking of his pitchers when he made that remark. What he was driving at is that the A's in 1950 will use every pitcher on the staff if necessary to win "today's" game. No more worrying about who will pitch tomorrow. Who knows, says the genial A's skipper, "maybe it will rain tomorrow."

Zebras Escape Work—They Are Lazy

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony—(AP)—You can tell a zebra by his stripes—and they mean he's lazy. Wild game authorities here say that though the zebra in many physical ways resembles a horse or mule, he has proven worthless as a domestic beast.

A zebra can be harnessed, they say, but just can't be induced to pull a load. He has no heart for the task and gives up without trying. Thousands of zebras are running around free in the African wilds, unwanted by humans because of this lazy streak.

Slain Because In The 'Way'

So Rep. Short Said In House Over Binaggio Killing

WASHINGTON, April 7—(AP)—Rep Dewey Short (R-Mo.) told the House Thursday Charles Binaggio, a Kansas City political leader, was killed because he was "in the way" in the Missouri Democratic senatorial primary.

Binaggio and his right hand man, ex-convict Charles Gargotta, were found shot to death early today in their Democratic club room in Kansas City.

Short said he had been informed "reliably" that Binaggio, who had successfully fought the Pendergast machine, was backing a senatorial candidate opposed by President Truman and the Pendergast organization.

Binaggio was once an underling to the late Kansas City political boss Tom Pendergast, but later went on to become a political chief in his own right.

Short is the only Republican house member from Missouri.

He made his statement during debate on an omnibus appropriation bill.

Until today there were five in the heated race for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senator. Franklin E. Reagan, St. Louis, withdrew today with a plea for party harmony.

President Truman has endorsed State Senator Emery W. Allison, Rolla, Mo., for the race.

However, Gov. Forrest Smith has sidestepped all questions as whom he will support. In the last campaign Binaggio backed Smith for governor and since then has been a frequent visitor to Jefferson City.

Reagan, Allison and Thomas W. Hennings, St. Louis, had lined up considerable support for their candidacies. Others in the race are Mrs. Marjorie Bell Hinrichs, St. Louis cosmetics manufacturer, and James W. Hopkins, University City, Mo., accountant.

In his withdrawal statement Reagan did not say which candidate he would support.

Short's remarks were among many made today on the slaying in Kansas City.

To Ask Complete Inquiry

Rep. Macy (R-NY) said he would ask congress for a "complete inquiry" into the "affiliation of crime and gangsters in politics" in the Kansas City area.

He said the shooting conclusively proves "the necessity for a congressional investigation of organized crime and its connections with political rings."

"The underworld crime leaders are growing in boldness and power," Macy said in a statement. "In many parts of the country they have taken over political leadership.

"The operations of these men of the stripe of Binaggio, with their control of political machines which reach into high places in the government, is a growing menace to the nation's moral and economic well-being."

"Gangland Chief"

He identified Binaggio as the "gangland underworld chief" in the Kansas City area. Gargotta, he said, was Binaggio's chief lieutenant.

Macy said that in proposing a complete inquiry into the affiliation of crime and gangsters with politics in the Kansas City area as well as other cities, he will "insist" that the inquiry also invote frauds" of 1947.

"Unquestionably," he said "(they) were part of this whole gangster picture."

"Binaggio and his henchman were killed beneath the portrait of President Truman in the Kansas City Democrat headquarters," Macy said, adding:

"When gangland murder touches associates of the White House, it is certainly time for action."

Macy said that Binaggio had been identified as the number one force in Kansas City politics who had "taken over" where the "Pendergast machine left off."

"Binaggio also was identified as the Chicago Capone mob's representative in Kansas City," Macy said. "He has been associated with gangsters and underworld gang operations all his adult life."

Macy said he understood Binaggio had been "repeatedly" arrested on charges ranging from carrying a concealed weapon, gambling, to manslaughter. Gargotta, he said had been arrested 35 times.

"He said his bill, calling for a nationwide investigation of crime, had been "smothered" by the Democratic leadership "who feared the results of such an investigation would be used to the disadvantage of the Democrats because it was sponsored by a Republican."

Macy said that in pressing for an investigation he would redraft his pending bill to provide for a "complete inquiry" in Kansas City.

Short told the house he was pronouncing no encominum or eulogy for Binaggio or Gargotta.

"Mr. Binaggio was in the way," Short said. "So, what happened? He is bumped off."

Short said former representative Tom Hennings is a candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination with the backing of "The St. Louis organization and I have been reliably informed he has the backing of the Binaggio faction in Kansas City."

He said the Pendergast organization is backing "Mr. Truman's endorsed man," Emory Allison, a state senator from Rolla, Mo.

"I do not know the state senator" from Rolla, Short said. "I never heard of his name until Harry endorsed him. Mr. Allison, no doubt is a fine man, but you know, even thieves will fall out."

Slaying Scene

This is an interior view of the Truman Road political club where political leader Charles Binaggio and an ex-convict, Charlie Gargotta, were found slain in Kansas City, Mo. Binaggio's body was found slumped in a chair at his desk (arrow) in the rear of the room. Gargotta was found near the door at the bloodstained spot in the foreground. Both men had been shot. Dispel Fear Joe DiMaggio Gunned

DENVER, April 7— (AP) — The Denver Post was swamped with phone calls Thursday from baseball fans who feared the great Joe DiMaggio had been gunned down by mobsters.

The Post telephone switchboard operator—a fan herself—was both frightened and bewildered. She said as far as she knew the Dimag was in St. Petersburg, Fla., with nothing more serious than a pulled calf muscle.

It developed that reason for the big scare in the baseball world was the slaying in Kansas City of political faction leader. Charles Binaggio.

Given Suspended Sentence

Karl Ford of Pettis county pleaded guilty to a charge of non-support Thursday afternoon in the magistrate court.

He was given a suspended sentence of 10 days providing that he cares for the children.

Didn't Seek Binaggio Support

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., April 7—(AP)—Thomas W. Hennings of St. Louis, candidate for the democratic senatorial nomination, declared Thursday night he had not sought support of Chas. Binaggio, Kansas City politician who was slain early Thursday.

"If the Binaggio faction planned to back me I never knew about it," Hennings said here tonight. "I actually do not know who the faction planned to back."

A statement by Rep. Dewey Short (R-Mo) that Binaggio was supporting Hennings "is news to me," Hennings said.

He said he met Binaggio only twice at political meetings and hadn't discussed the senate race with him.

The by-laws were read by the chairman of the committee, Frank Evans. Temporary chairman, Charles Wendt presided.

The various sections were thoroughly discussed and several changes were made after which they were adopted.

The election of officers was postponed Thursday night, considering a section in the by-laws determining this factor. The next two weeks will be a period in which the members of the organization will consider the membership for prospective candidates for the various offices.

Several nominations for all the offices, including the board of directors were made by the attending members. These nominees along with others that may be nominated from the floor at the next meeting on April 20th, will be voted upon at that time.

Large Group Attends

The session was attended by an exceptionally large group of young men and many were attending for the first time. The first such meeting was held on March 30th. At that time those assembled from here augmented by Jaycee members from clubs in Jefferson City and Fulton were told of the workings and the various projects that have been taken up by Jaycee clubs all over the country.

Bill Johnston of Fulton, district vice president was present Thursday night and gave a brief resume of the material discussed at the first meeting.

The meeting place of the next session has been changed to the ambassador room of the Bothwell hotel. Further announcements concerning it will be made at a later date.

The entire signed membership has been appointed to serve as the "membership committee. "Any young man interested in the Jaycee organization should contact one of the named officers or the Chamber of Commerce.

Plenty Of "Lettuce" From Vegetable Bin

(AP)—Grocer Troy Joslin reached into his vegetable bin Thursday and pulled out plenty of "lettuce."

The "lettuce" was in the form of $1,670 cash in a pasteboard box.

Joslin called in detective Mark Bain. He traced the box of cash to Mrs. J. P. Bradford, bookkeeper for a plastering firm. She said she must have lost the money while shopping for vegetables.

It was the firm's weekly payroll.

Babe Weighing Pound, 14 Ounces, At Birth Lives

OMAHA, April 7—(AP)—A babe weighing one pound, 14, ounces at birth six days ago was still alive Thursday, hospital officials reported.

The mother was identified only as an 18-year-old unwed girl. Attendants said the baby was born three months prematurely.

Hospital officials said the baby is kept in an incubator at a 90 degree temperature and has been kept under oxygen constantly since birth. It is given frequent feedings with an eye dropper.

Waives Hearing on Molesting Charges

JEFFERSON CITY, April 7—(AP)—William Sundermeyer waived preliminary hearing in magistrate's court here Friday on the charges of molesting a minor.

Sundermeyer, a 34-year-old grocer here, was freed on $1,000 bond and bound over to the May term of Circuit court. The charge alleged he took indecent and improper liberties with a 17-year-old youth last January.

Records Of FBI Clear Lattimore

So Says Tydings As Charges Are Branded Lies As Made By McCarthy

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—Senator Tydings (D-MD) said today that FBI records clear Owen Lattimore "completely" of communist spy charges preferred by Senator McCarthy.

Tydings, chairman of a senate investigating committee, said furthermore that four members of the committee hold the same opinion after inspecting a "complete summary" of FBI files on Lattimore, Far Eastern expert.

The fifth member, Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), who was out of town when the committee visited FBI director J. Edgar Hoover, will view the records next week.

Hardly had Tydings made his announcement when McCarthy told reporters that "either Tydings hasn't seen the files, or he is lying. There is no other alternative."

The chairman had referred to a summary prepared for the committee by Hoover from the FBI files on the accused John Hopkins University professor.

McCarthy said he didn't know what Hoover had compiled for the committee' "but I know what is in the files."

In reply to McCarthy's statement, Tydings said:

"I'll let my reputation for accuracy stand. x x x it is significant that no member of the committee contradicted the statement when I made it in the presence of the committee."

"Contemptible Lies"

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—Owen Lattimore, accused by Senator McCarthy of being Russia's top spy in the United States, swore today that the charges are "base and contemptible lies."

He said McCarthy has "flagrantly violated" his responsibility as a Senator and has made unauthorized use of secret government documents.

Lattimore, an authority on Far Eastern affairs, took note of McCarthy's contention that he can prove Lattimore is or was a Communist and declared:

"I was not and have not been a Communist; and I am not a Communist now."

Lattimore made his denial in testimony prepared for a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee investigating McCarthy's charges that Communists and Red sympathizers have infested the State Department.

Hit Back Hard

Hitting back hard in a 10,000-word statement, Lattimore said McCarthy has violated his responsibility "by making the government of the United States an object of suspicion in the eyes of the anti-Communist world, and undoubtedly the laughing stock of the Communist governments."

Latimore also declared that McCarthy has impaired the effectiveness of the government "in its relations with its friends and allies."

He accused the Wisconsin Senator of "instituting a reign of terror among officials and em-

Dulles Named As Consultant

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—Republican Foreign Affairs leaders and the Truman administration joined hands today to try to pull U. S. bipartisan foreign policy out of the hole and get it set up again as a going concern.

The State Department announced that John Foster Dulles, New York Republican lawyer and veteran lawyer of 40 years in international affairs, had accepted appointment as consultant to Secretary Acheson—at the request of Acheson and President Truman.

In New York Dulles said he had decided to take the assignment because of the urgent need for national unity in the face of a Russian "threat" as grave as "any we have ever faced in a shooting war."

In Key West, Fla., Mr. Truman's vacation headquarters, Press Secretary Charles Ross said the chief executive is still looking for a man to name to another state department job with the title of ambassador-at-large. It was understood here that man might be either a Democrat of a Republican.

Dulles was chosen for the top level consultant job after Acheson, by authorization of the President, had conferred with Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, the ranking Republican member of the senate foreign relations committee. The arrangements also were cleared with Senator Connally (D-Texas), the committee chairman.

The World Observes Good Friday Today

Today is Good Friday, the day that marks the anniversary of the Crucifixion of Christ, when people of all Christian faiths will throughout the day go to their respective churches or to union services for worship and to offer prayers. Most churches have services from 12 to 3 o'clock, commemorating the hours Christ hung on the cross before his death.

Thursday, too, was a day observed in the Holy Week by churches and organizations, it being Maundy Thursday.

Didn't Seek Binaggio Support

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., April 6—(AP)—Thomas W. Hennings of St. Louis, candidate for the democratic senatorial nomination, declared tonight he had not sought the support of Charles Binaggio, Kansas City politician who was slain early today.

"If the Binaggio faction planned to back me I never knew about it," Hennings said here tonight. "I actually do not know who the faction planned to back."

A statement by Rep. Dewey Short (R-Mo) that Binaggio was supporting Hennings "is news to me," Hennings said.

He said he met Binaggio only twice at political meetings and hadn't discussed the senate race with him.

Plenty Of "Lettuce" From Vegetable Bin

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 6—(AP)—Grocer Troy Joslin reached into his vegetable bin today and pulled out plenty of "lettuce."

The "lettuce" was in the form of $1,670 cash in a pasteboard box.

Joslin called in detective Mark Bain. He traced the box of cash to Mrs. J. P. Bradford, bookkeeper for a plastering firm. She said she must have lost the money while shopping for vegetables.

It was the firm's weekly payroll.

Cattle Killed In Derailment

FARGO, Okla., April 6—(AP)—Nine cars of an eastbound Santa Fe freight train derailed here early tonight, killing an estimated hundred head of cattle.

Several hundred head were thrown clear of the wreckage and scampered wildly about the plains country near the Oklahoma-Texas border.

Railroad officials said it was difficult immediately to determine the number of cattle crushed under the splintered cattle cars.

The derailed cars were in the middle of the train and piled up in front of the Fargo station. No one was injured, officials said.

Buckling of the wheel assembly of two of the derailed cars was blamed for the wreck, officials said. Witnesses estimated there were 125 cars on the train, mostly cattle and refrigerator cars.

Compromise Housing Bill

House Approval Sends Measure Back To Senate

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—The house today approved a bill for a $4,000,000,000 expansion of the Federal Housing Program, including some special benefits for ex-GI's. There was no opposition.

This compromise to a much fought over proposal now goes to the senate where quick approval is expected. Administration leaders say President Truman will sign the bill, although it's far short of what he asked for.

Here are some of the main provisions of the bill:

1. A new $150,000,000 program of direct loans to ex-GI's.

2. Special considerations for veteran housing co-operatives.

3. An additional $2,250,000,000 of mortgage insurance authority for the Federal Housing Administration (FHA). The FHA encourages home construction by insuring mortgages.

4. Another $500,000,000 of FHA mortgage insurance for apartment dwellings, to cover applications received before this program expired March 1.

5. A $250,000,000 mortgage program to cover low cost houses in so-called distant suburban areas.

Most of these programs involve no federal subsidies. The government—that is, the taxpayers—loses money only if the mortgage it guarantees go sour on a large scale.

Missing from the bill is its most controversial part.

Mr. Truman had wanted $2,000,000,000 set aside for a co-operative home building program for middle income families. The contention was that public housing helped low income groups, that private industry provided homes for those in the higher brackets, but that the middle income people had been caught in a housing squeeze.

Bave Weighing Pound, 14 Ounces, At Birth Lives

OMAHA, April 6—(AP)—A babe weighing one pound, 14, ounces at birth six days ago was still alive today, hospital officials reported.

The mother was identified only as an 18-year-old unwed girl. Attendants said the baby was born three months prematurely.

Hospital officials said the baby is kept in an incubator at a 90 degree temperature and has been kept under oxygen constantly since birth. It is given frequent feedings with an eye dropper.

Says He Didn't Call Governor A 'Damn Liar'

KANSAS CITY, April 6—(AP)—Attorney General J. E. Taylor issued a statement tonight to clarify one he made in Jefferson City earlier today concerning Gov. Forrest Smith.

Taylor was quoted today as calling the governor a "damn liar." The remark was made when state officials started action on the slaying of Chrles Binaggo here.

"The Associated Press carried a story today quoting me as calling the governor a 'damn liar.' This is not true. A newspaper correspondent told me that he had been trying to reach me all morning but that I was not available.

"I made the unfortunate statement that that was a 'damn lie' as I had been working and available since 7 o'clock in the morning. I later learned the governor did not make the statement but merely said he had not yet reached me. I regret the incident greatly."

Accuse Robber Of Murder

Jim Robison Is Charged In Death Of Enid Merchant

GUTHRIE, Okla., April 6—(AP)—Jim Robison, 28-year-old Enid airforce veteran, today was charged with bludgeoning to death an Enid business man Feb. 28.

He was told about the charge just a few minutes before he pleaded guilty to robbing the Okarche bank last Tuesday of $4,000.

The double-barrelled development came in Robison's hospital room here. He was injured last Tuesday when he crashed a rented plane in a field 30 miles from the bank holdup scene attempting a movie-type getaway.

The slain Enid businessman was Carl G. Goldsberry, 42-year-old appliance store owner. He was found beaten in a warehouse at the rear of his store. He died the next day without regaining consciousness.

U. S. Commissioner Paul Showalter journeyed from Oklahoma City to the Guthrie hospital today to arraign Robison. After the plea of guilty by Robison, Showalter set bond at $25,000.

Indictment Waived

Showalter said Robison waived indictment by a federal grand jury and requested his case be put on a federal court docket "as soon as possible."

Garfield county attorney David Field and Sheriff Leland Coyle filed the murder charge earlier this afternoon at Enid.

Officers found few clues at the time of Goldsberry's death. They determined he was beaten fatally with a metal piece from a washing machine agitator.

Robbery was believed a motive since Goldsberry's wallet and some cash from the store's cash drawer were missing.

Robison's first implication in the Goldsberry case came when officers arrested Orville M. Butts, Jr., 24, Enid mechanic, as Robison's accomplice in the bank robbery.

Butts was charged yesterday at Enid with aiding the robbery. He declined to enter a plea at his arraignment and bond was set at $5,000.

Officers said Butts admitted helping Robison arrange the robbery and also implicated Robison in the Goldsberry killing.

A third man also was charged at Enid today in the Okarche bank holdup. He is William Edmond Nash, 18, who is accused of aiding Robison stage the robbery.

Binaggio, Kansas City, North Side Political "Boss" And His Henchman, Gargotta, Slain

Daring Double Killing Enacted Early Thursday In Club Room

The 41-year-old Binaggio's body, with four bullet holes in the head, was found slumped in a chair at a desk in the first district Democratic club rooms on Truman Road. Gargotta's body, also with four bullets in the head, was sprawled on the floor near the front door.

The shootings brought immediate repercussion in Washington.

Rep. Macy (R-NY) said he will ask congress to make a "complete inquiry" into the "affiliation of crime and gangsters with politics in Kansas City."

There was a pool of blood at the feet of Binaggio, who had risen from a onetime underling of late Boss Tom Pendergast to become the northside Democratic political chief and contest the remnants of the Pendergast organization for its power.

Gargotta, 49, lay in blood. He had been struck from behind by one bullet. He had clawed wildly at a venetian blind on a door, indicating he had fled in fear when the shooting began.

After Political Power

Overlooking the gruesome scene were large photographs of President Truman and Governor Forrest Smith. Binaggio in grasping for more political strength had supported Smith for governor in 1948—and won.

He had challenged the Democratic leadership of the old Pendergast organization in doing so. James M. Pendergast, nephew of the late "Boss Tom," had supported another candidate and lost.

Some political observers indicated the killings would result in a new Democratic political lineup with opposing factions joining forces in the realignment.

There were few clues. No weapons were found in the club room and none was found on the two victims. Robbery was dismissed as a motive. Gargotta had twenty $100 bills and four $10 bills on him. Binaggio's expensive diamond studded wrist watch had been untouched. There was $24 in his pockets.

Been Before Federal Jury

Both Binaggio and Gargotta had been under heavy fire by federal agencies. Heading the drive on the two was the treasury department' Internal Revenue Bureau whose speciality in developing income tax fraud cases.

Both men had been frequent witnesses before a federal grand jury since it began investigating underworld activities here last September. In Washington today a justice department official said it was a fair assumption that both would have been called again.

It was known government agents were working hard to trace both income and expenditures of the northside political chief and that of Gargotta, his right hand man who had lifted himself up by muscle and violence.

Only last February Miss Blanche Howard, a county employe and close friend of Gargotta, was cited for contempt in giving allegedly evasive answers to the grand jury. Her testimony showed she had banked or spent around $50,000 in the last four years although her weekly salary averaged $35 to $40.

When she had emerged weeping from the grand jury room, both Binaggio and Gargotta hovered around. It was Binaggio who heped her out of the federal building and his driver and bodyguard, Nick Penna, drove her away.

Some police detective expressed the belief out-of-town gangsters might have done the double murder because "no one in Kansas City is tough enough or brave enough to pull such a job."

Other detectives discounted the theory, saying they were sure neither Binaggio or Gargotta would be talking to strangers at night without protection nearby and that it was doubtful if either would let a stranger get behind him.

Governor Smith called on four law enforcement agencies today to end gang killings in Kansas City.

"Gang killings must be stopped in Kansas City," the governor said in a telegram to J. L. Milligan, president of the Kansas City police board. In Missouri the governor appoints police boards in major cities and he technically

Slain Because In The 'Way'

So Rep. Short Said In House Over Binaggio Killing

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—Rep. Dewey Short (R-Mo.) told the house today Charles Binaggio, a Kansas City political leader, was killed because he was "in the way" in the Missouri Democratic senatorial primary.

Binaggio and his right hand man, ex-convict Charles Gargotta, were found shot to death early today in their Democratic club room in Kansas City.

Short said he had been informed "reliably" that Binaggio, who had successfully fought the Pendergast machine, was backing a senatorial candidate opposed by President Truman and the Pendergast organization.

Binaggio was once an underling to the late Kansas City political boss Tom Pendergast, but later went on to become a political chief in his own right.

Short is the only Republican house member from Missouri.

Assertion During Debate

Until today there were five in the heated race for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senator. Franklin E. Reagan, St. Louis, withdrew today with a plea for party harmony.

President Truman has endorsed State Senator Emery W. Allison, Rolla, Mo., for the race.

However, Gov. Forrest Smith has sidestepped all questions as whom he will support. In the last campaign Binaggio backed Smith for governor and since then has been a frequent visitor to Jefferson City.

Reagan, Allison and Thomas W. Hennings, St. Louis, had lined up considerable support for their candidacies. Others in the race are Mrs. Marjorie Bell Hinrichs, St. Louis cosmetics manufacturer, and James W. Hopkins, University

Cancer Fund Quota $3289 For the County

The 1950 Cancer Crusade, sponsored by the Business and Professional Womens' club which opened here April 1st, is under way, with a quota of $3,289 for Pettis county to be reached by the first of May. Sixty per cent of all funds collected will be allocated to fight and treat cancer of all types which may develop this coming year in Pettis county.

Last year, Pettis county was allocated $2,000 for a cancer detection center located at the Bothwell hospital. Further aids given to patients who need them are dressings, prescriptions, radium and other essentials.

Need to Reach Goal

The need for achieving the goal set by the state organization of the American Cancer society for Pettis county is appreciated when it is known that in 1948 there were 23 deaths in Pettis county and 49 in Sedalia due to cancer, or a total of 72 for the county as a whole. Fifty per cent of all cancer deaths can be prevented by early detection and treatment so that to carry on this work, everyone is asked to cooperate in this Cancer Crusade to fight man's greatest medical enemy.

Dispel Fear Joe DiMaggio Gunned

DENVER, April 6 — (AP) — The Denver Post was swamped with phone calls today from baseball fans who feared the great Joe DiMaggio had been gunned down by mobsters.

The Post telephone switchboard operator—a fan herself—was both frightened and bewildered. She said as far as she knew the Dimag was in St. Petersburg, Fla., with nothing more serious than a pulled calf muscle.

It developed that reason for the big scare in the baseball world was the slaying in Kansas City of political faction leader. Charles Binaggio.

Governor Asks Aid in Solving Double Slaying

JEFFERSON CITY, April 6—(AP)—Gov. Forrest Smith today directed that the "entire facilities of the police department" in Kansas City be directed to an "early solution" of the slaying of Charles Binaggio and Charles Gargotta.

"I am especially desirous the murderers in this case, as in all cases, be apprehended at the very earliest and brought to trial" the governor said in a telegram to J. L. (Tuck) Milligan, president of the Kansas City board of police commissioners."

At the same time the governor sent a request for assistance to L. V. Boardman, special FBI agent at Kansas City, and ordered Col. David E. Harrison, superintendent of the State Highway Patrol, to Kansas City to aid in the investigation.

Must Be Stopped

"Gang killings must be stopped in Kansas City," the governor said in his message to Milligan.

"I am asking you to direct the entire facilities of the police department in the investigation and early solution of these murders. The gangsters, hoodlums and suspicious characters, should and must, be driven out of Kansas City.

"As governor, I further urgently request that you call upon all state law enforcement agencies, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation to assist in every way possible in bringing an early justice to the guilty parties."

"An early report on the progress being made in this investigation is requested.

He added that he got in touch with Colonel Harrison while the superintendent of the patrol was enroute to Columbia.

"Harrison has already gone," he added.

Governor's Telegram

In his telegram to Boardman of the FBI in Kansas City, Governor Smith said:

"I urgently request your all out assistance with city and state law enforcement agencies in bringing about early solution of gangland murders in Kansas City. I am also asking your full cooperation in running all gangsters and hoodlums out of Jackson county, and the state of Missouri."

At his press conference the governor said he had not heard of the Kansas City slayings until he reached his office. He said a porter and his legal secretary told him they had heard it on the radio.

He added he wasn't sure who had been killed, but understood one of the victims was Charles Binaggio.

Governor Smith told his news conference he saw Binaggio about three weeks ago when the political leader came in to see him.

Resume Wrestling Wednesday Night

Lee Hennings, Buffalo, New York, is coming to Sedalia next Wednesday night to meet Mayes McClain, of the Haskell Indians in the main event on the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion wrestling card, Wednesday night April 12. Promoter Pearl Christy announced Thursday that rescheduling of wrestlers touring the country is making it possible to resume local matches on Wednesday—the regular nights for Sedalia for the past six years.

Tommy O'Toole, the battling Irishman from Boston, is to appear in the semi-windup against "Tiger" Tasher, New York City. The opening event brings together Walter Sirois, Montreal, Canada, and Sonny Myers, of St. Joseph.

Wrestling in Sedalia for the past five months has been switched from one date to another in an endeavor to give Central Missouri the wrestling sport. The switches were due to injuries suffered by many of the mat men in that time causing a shortage. Only one wrestler remains out of the sport and that is Champion Orville Brown, severely injured in a car crash nearly four months ago.

According to Promoter Christy he has been assured by various booking offices and wrestling managers contestants will be furnished for the Sedalia show so they can operate each week as in previous years.

Given Suspended Sentence

Karl Ford of Pettis county pleaded guilty to a charge of non-support Thursday afternoon in the magistrate court.

He was given a suspended sentence of 10 days providing that he cares for the children.

Charles Binaggio Slain in Kansas City Political Club

The body of Binaggio, onetime underling of the late boss Tom Pendergast and a Kansas City northside political boss himself until his murder Thursday, lies slumped in a chair at his desk in the political headquarters of his faction on Truman Road (formerly Fifteenth street) after he was slain. Binaggio, shot in the head, was the leader of a political faction opposing the remnants of the once-powerful Pendergast political organization. He was recently a witness before a federal grand jury in Kansas City investigating underworld activities. (Associated Press Photo)

Address Given On Insurance

Edward G. Mura Guest Speaker of Underwriters

Step by step in an informal manner, Edward G. Mura, of the Kansas City agency of the New England Mutual Life Insurance company, related his experience in life insurance business, before members of the Sedalia Life Underwriters Association meeting and dinner in the Palm Room of the Bothwell hotel, Saturday noon.

Mr. Mura who entered the life insurance business as a full time agent in 1929, and who has been a million dollar producer for many years, and a member of the Million Dollar Round Table, spoke mostly about coordinated estate.

The speaker told how he happened to start in the life insurance business as a career, and related why the insurance business appealed to him. He said "the insurance business was the finest profession to be in to serve humanity, and it is a real profession, and that is why we should act as professional men and women calling on the trade."

Making Friends

He stressed the point that one cannot buy loyal friends, but one made friends by being honest and sincere with them at all times. He pointed out that one should keep the friends they have and accumulate more annually by being of service to them. He said, "Do not take advantage of your friends for your selfish gain." Mr Mura continued on this same line by saying, help the man who left his job to serve Uncle Sam during the last war. He said he has heard of selfish agents who have encouraged veterans to drop G. I. insurance.

Mr. Mura said when he started out in the insurance business, the first man he coordinated an estate for was a doctor, whom he didn't know before. He said after going over the doctor's program, he only wrote $3,000 worth of insurance, in 1929. He said since that time, this family has bought over $500,000 worth of insurance. He said this is an example of what an insurance man can do by starting out on small cases, and then following the cases through.

"To give your prospect an intelligent setup you must know what he wants to accomplish for himself and family, and what he has to do it with," the speaker said.

He pointed out that in half of the insurance business he writes, people tell him, they are never going to buy another dime's worth of insurance, but after going over a program with them, setting it up, and then following it through, people usually realize the benefits. He said he believed in giving the prospect a very simple and intelligent set-up, and related a good insurance man could get closer to an individual than anyone else, that is, if the individual has confidence in the insurance man. Mr. Mura said he always put himself in his customer's shoes and solved their problems as if they were his own.

Mr. Mura, who is past president of the Kansas City Life Underwriters Association and of the Kansas City general agents and managers association and is now vice-president of the New England Mutual General Agents' association, was introduced by Abe Silverman, president of the local underwriters association, and who works under Mr. Mura with the same company in Sedalia.

Mr. Silverman announced that the Missouri Association of Life Underwriters will hold a state conference in St. Louis on May 18. Guests at the meeting were: Miss Lee Suelke of Kansas City and Mrs. Abe Silverman.

None Hurt as Autos Collide

The first occurred at 12:45 o'clock in the afternoon in a freak accident between a 1940 Hudson sedan driven by James A. Cornwall, 1009 East Sixth street, and a runaway wheel and tire believed off a Chevrolet.

Cornwall reported he was driving west on Broadway when suddenly a wheel and tire rolled into his car. Damage resulted to the Hudson sedan, none to the wheel and tire. The owner of the wheel and tire could not be located and it is believed it either rolled off a truck or was a spare on a car and was lost unknown to his owner. It was taken to police headquarters.

At 4:20 o'clock a collision occurred at Fifth street and Montgomery avenue, between a 1949 sedan of the Yellow Cab Co., driven by Jesse M. Pummill and a 1941 Buick coupe driven by F. Williams of Syracuse.

The Ford was headed east on Fifth street and the Buick going south on Montgomery when the accident occurred. The front end of the Ford was badly smashed and the frame of the car sprung. Slight damage resulted to the Buick according to the Police report.

Call to Grass Fire

The fire companies at 4:31 o'clock Saturday afternoon were called to the residence of R. G. Bettise, 402 East Tenth street, where dry grass was burning. No damage resulted.

Ask Reports In Near Future

Harry S. Naugel, Chairman of the Red Cross Fund Campaign, in making a report on the status of the campaign, states several of the division chairmen have finished their canvassing and made final reports to the Red Cross office. If the campaign is to be successful, and the quota reached, it is very necessary that all division chairmen complete their territories and make their reports at the earliest possible date to Red Cross Headquarters now located at 410½ South Ohio avenue.

Mr. Naugle states as chairman this year he has noted some outstanding efforts made to assure the success of the campaign. In some areas where the chairman in making their reports found they were short of last years goal, have returned and reworked their territory, until they were over. Others have taken their quota and worked until they reached it or exceeded it. Some have finished their work early, others have taken longer but have done a very thorough job, which makes for 100% membership. Because of the work of these volunteers, Pettis county is assured of a complete Red Cross program for the coming year.

Exceeded 1949 Membership On March 28

Information has just been received that the seventh district of the Missouri Department of the American Legion is the first of the seventeen districts in Missouri to exceed its 1949 membership record.

The seventh district consists of the counties of Pettis, Lafayette, Saline, Howard, Benton and Hickory, and has 23 posts in seventeen towns. The 1949 membership record was 2,878.

According to E. Glenn Lewis, of Sedalia, post commander of American Legion Post 16, membership in his post exceeded approximately 10 per cent over the final membership of last year. He said the American Auxiliary of the seventh district was also the first to go over the top in membership this year in the state. Mr. Lewis, serving his second term as post commander, said the post had a total membership of 430. Post 16 meets every first and third Monday nights at the new Legion Home, 114½ East Fifth street.

Made Record March 28

The seventh district set the membership mark by making this record on the early date of March 28. Credit is due to aggressive leadership of the posts, increasing interest in the American Legion and its programs, and to the fact that the Legionnaires want to make a good showing for the Department Senior Vice-Commander, Charles L. Bacon, of Marshall, who is now the state membership chairman and is the most likely candidate for Department Commander at the next election to be held in Kansas City over the Labor Day week-end. If elected to this office, Sr. Vice-Commander Bacon will thereby become the first World War II veteran to receive this honor.

Parker of LaMonte, long a Red Cross Board member, and vitally interested in Red Cross service, had sent the chairmen a check for the amount needed for the township to reach their quota. This was in addition to the generous contribution which had already been made by Mr. and Mrs. Parker. LaMonte township can say proudly, "Red Cross Campaign 1950—LaMonte township—100%.

Traffic Deaths In Missouri On Increase

Head of Patrol Urges Drivers to Know and Obey Laws

Deaths from traffic accidents on the streets and highways of Missouri during January and February of this year increased 9% as compared with the same two months of 1949, according to the records of the Missouri State Highway Patrol. Deaths during January totaled 64, which is 19 more than the 45 recorded in January of last year. During February of this year, ten fewer persons were killed than during February of 1949. The two month total of 111 deaths this year is 9 more than the total of 102 deaths reported for the same period last year.

Traffic deaths in rural areas and in cities of less than 10,000 population increased from 77 during the first two months of 1949 to 85 in 1950; while deaths in cities of more than 10,000 population rose very slightly from 25 last year to 26 this year. Pedestrian deaths accounted for all of the statewide increase rising from 27 in 1949 to 36 in 1950.

Too Many Disregard Laws

Colonel David E. Harrison, Superintendent of the Patrol, blames the disregard of traffic laws and the rules of safe driving for the majority of accidents in Missouri. He said, "During the first two months of this year, there were 2893 drivers involved in accidents in the rural areas of the state, and 1682 or 58% of them committed one or more traffic violations which contributed to the resulting accidents. In 1942, or 87% of the 1708 accidents investigated by our officers during January and February, there was at least one traffic violation reported. These facts clearly indicate that the responsibility for accidents rests on each individual driver. It should not be necessary for apolice officer to be present in order for motorists to observe traffic laws and regulations. Traffic regulations are made to provide for the safe and orderly movement of traffic and must be voluntarily observed by drivers if they are to accomplish their purpose. I urge every driver in Missouri to know and obey all traffic laws so that the needless waste from traffic accidents can be reduced to a minimum."

Lyric Soprano Pleased Music Club Members

Eeva Siukenen-Oliver, lyric soprano of Kansas City presented a program designed to give full expression to her talent on Wednesday before the Helen G. Steele Music Club.

The artist possesses much natural charm and poise and her voice is suited to the Lieder type of songs which she used exclusively in her program. Despite the fact that the entire program was sung in German and Finnish, the audience was able to discern the mood and meaning of the songs due to the artist's adeptness in the creation of moods and the depth of her interpretation.

Mrs. Oliver opened her program with two Mozart numbers which demonstrated the excellence of her phrasing and enunciation which were further amplified in the Brahms group which followed. Thrilling pianissimos and sustained legato passages were evident in this group. Contracting moods of enchantment and tranquality characterized the Hugo Wolf group and the audience's appreciation was enhanced by the program notes which were helpful during the entire program. Songs of her native Finland by Kilpinen with moods ranging from fanciful to mournful, were given interpretation by the artist and especially moving was her performance of the plaint of the bereaved woman who had lost her sweetheart.

Persistent applause by the capacity audience brought the first familiar number of the program, Schubert's "Ave Maria" and Grahms' "Salamander." Sympathetic accompaniments were furnished by Miss Elizabeth Puckett of Kansas City.

Mrs. Oliver was accompanied to Sedalia by her husband and Mrs. Harold Todd, wife of her manager. Mrs. Todd spoke briefly and complimented club members on their beautiful club house.

Dyer, chairman of the day, with Mrs. Edgar Knight, introduced the artist and spoke briefly of her musical background and her experience during the war when she was stranded in Germany due to the severing of diplomatic relations between Germany and Finland. Binaggio, Kansas City, North Side Political "Boss" And His Henchman, Gargotta, Slain controls the police departments.

Orders Patrol on Case

Smith also ordered Col. David Harrison, head of the State Highway Patrol, to take direct personal charge of the case under his, the governor's direction. Smith also called on the FBI and the attorney general's office to help.

Binaggio frequently visited the state capitol and the governor. Once Gargotta accompanied him. On most of the trips he was evasive about what he was doing. He frequently called at the governor's office. He generally entered by the front door and left by a rear door.

Recently a newsman saw Binaggio leaving by the back door and this caused Smith to order better security on the dapper northside politician's visits.

The Kansas City Star said the slaying of Binaggio likely would materially change the Democratic alignment here. It said it could mean a get-together of warring factions as represented by the Pendergast organization and Binaggio's north side group.

"It is known that an approach was made recently through a representative of the north side faction with those in the Pendergast organization looking toward getting together," the newspaper reported. "It did not get any place. The feeling between Jim Pendergast and Binaggio was sharp and it has been no secret that Pendergast would not deal with Binaggio, who formerly worked with the Pendergast group."

Binaggio attended a hometown testimonial dinner here last fall for William Boyle, national chairman of the Democratic party, but he had no special seat of honor. Both President Truman and Boyle are identified with the Pendergast group.

Ballot Boxes Stolen

Binaggio's bid for political expansion began in 1944 when he supported Truman's close friend, the late Mayor Roger T. Sermon of Independence, for governor and failed. He was back two years later with a show of power but it also brought federal and county grand jury indictments. Then the ballot boxes were stolen from the election board's vault in the courthouse and that ended that.

Today's slayings brought to 19 the number of unsolved slayings here in the last five years. Some of the victims had had no gangland connections; others were on the fringe of the underworld.

A special county grand jury tried a year ago to bring about a solution of some of them. It was called soon after Wolf Rimann, golf club manager with coin machine and liquor interests, was shot down in a brazen mid-day spot killing on a downtown street.

But even though high rewards were offered and witnesses promised secrecy, the jury quit without enough evidence to return an indictment in any of the cases.

Shot as Ready to Quit

The Kansas City Star said tonight that Binaggio was murdered because of connections with a national crime syndicate. He was being investigated by a federal grand jury.

"Charles Binaggio was murdered because he wanted to quit the ball game when his team—the shadowy National Crime Syndicate reaching from coast-to-coast—was losing and it was Binaggio's turn at bat," the newspaper said.

"The execution was carried out by local men, close friends of the fallen leader, on orders which originated in another city," the Star said, continuing:

"Binaggio, both as a political and as a rackets boss, had made wide-scale promises to open Missouri to gambling. He had accepted money from the national syndicate for use in the 1948 elections.

"When the federal grand jury began work last September, with Binaggio obviously among the top targets, he was in the position of a man who had promised a lot, had obtained money on his promises, but had delivered only crumbs."

The Star said Binaggio, under pressure from above and below, wanted to quit to gain personal peace.

"This week he was to quit the political field," the Star said. "Binaggio also was to step down from his position as gambling and rackets boss. x x x

"Here his superiors, both local and national, took a hand. Could a key member of the team step out of the game at so crucial a juncture? Nobody of Binaggio's power ever had retired peacefully from gangdom before. x x x bi- decision to step down was the fatal step."

The newspaper said Binaggio was shot from behind by a friend as he sat relaxed in a chair. Powder burns showed the gun was held close to his head.

City, Mo., accountant.

In his withdrawal statement Reagan did not say which candidate he would support.

Short's remarks were among many made today on the slaying in Kansas City.

To Ask Complete Inquiry

Rep. Macy (R-NY) said he would ask congress for a "complete inquiry" into the "affiliation of crime and gangsters in politics" in the Kansas City area.

He said the shooting conclusively proves "the necessity for a congressional investigation of organized crime and its connections with political rings."

"The underworld crime leaders are growing in boldness and power," Macy said in a statement. "In many parts of the country they have taken over political leadership.

"The operations of these men of the stripe of Binaggio, with their control of political machines which reach into high places in the government, is a growing menace to the nation's moral and economic well-being."

"Gangland Chief"

He identified Binaggio as the "gangland underworld chief" in the Kansas City area. Gargotta, he said, was Binaggio's chief lieutenant.

Macy said that in proposing a complete inquiry into the affiliation of crime and gangsters with politics in the Kansas City area as well as other cities, he will "insist" that the inquiry also invote frauds" of 1947.

"Unquestionably," he said, "(they) were part of this whole gangster picture."

"Binaggio and his henchman were killed beneath the portrait of President Truman in the Kansas City Democrat headquarters," Macy said, adding:

"When gangland murder touches associates of the White House, it is certainly time for action."

Arrested Many Times

"Binaggio also was identified as the Chicago Capone mob's representative in Kansas City," Macy said. "He has been associated with gangsters and underworld gang operations all his adult life."

Macy said he understood Binaggio had been "repeatedly" arrested on charges ranging from carrying a concealed weapon, gambling, to manslaughter. Gargotta, he said had been arrested 35 times.

"He said his bill, calling for a nationwide investigation of crime, had been "smothered" by the Democratic leadership "who feared the results of such an investigation would be used to the disadvantage of the Democrats because it was sponsored by a Republican."

Macy said that in pressing for an investigation he would redraft his pending bill to provide for a "complete inquiry" in Kansas City.

Short told the house he was pronouncing no encominum or eulogy for Binaggio or Gargotta.

"Mr. Binaggio was in the way," Short said. "So, what happened? He is bumped off."

Short said former representative Tom Hennings is a candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination with the backing of "The St. Louis organization and I have been reliably informed he has the backing of the Binaggio faction in Kansas City."

He said the Pendergast organization is backing "Mr. Truman's endorsed man," Emory Allison, a state senator from Rolla, Mo.

"I do not know the state senator" from Rolla, Short said. "I never heard of his name until Harry endorsed him. Mr. Allison, no doubt is a fine man, but you know, even thieves will fall out."

No Allison Comment

GLASGOW, Mo., April 6—(AP)—Emery Allison of Rolla, Mo., said he had no comment tonight on remarks by Rep. Dewey Short (R-Mo) about the slaying of Charles Binaggio, Kansas City Democratic political leader.

Short told the house in Washington today he was "reliably informed" that Binaggio's organization was supporting former Rep. Thomas Hennings, St. Louis, for the senatorial nomination in opposition to Allison.

Allison said he had only sketchy information about the situation and did not care to comment until he knew more about it.

"I am out here in the country campaigning," he said. "And I don't know what it's all about." He addressed the Rotary Club here tonight and was to go on to Marshall to spend the night.

Reply by Backer

However, Allison's campaign manager, William Becker of Columbia, did not hesitate in replying to Short.

"Well I'll be doggoned," Becker exclaimed at Jefferson City "That's a new one on me. It has no relation with reality—it's pretty nearly psychotic."

Becker added that Allison already has declared he doesn't want any "damned gangster's support," and Becker said Short's statement "comes under the reading of pure foolishness."

As to blame for Binaggio's slaying, Becker snorted:

"Why doesn't he (Short) go direct to the White House instead of to Rolla, Mo.?"

ernment, none of whom can be ployes in the United States govsure of safety from attack by the machine gun of irresponsible publicity in Joseph McCarthy's hands."

Lattimore is director of a school of international relations at Johns Hopkins University. He flew back to this country from a United Nations mission in Afghanistan after McCarthy made his accusations.

Accusations

Lattimore told the inquiry committee that McCarthy has:

1. "Without authorization used secret documents obtained from official government files."

2. "Villified citizens of the United States and accused them of high crime, without giving them an opportunity to defend themselves."

3. "Refused to submit alleged documentary evidence to a duly constituted committee of the Senate."

4. "Invited disrespect to himself and his high office by refusing to live up to his word."

As for the McCarthy charges against him, Lattimore said that in effect they amount to an accusation of disloyalty and treason. Then he added:

"McCarthy's charges are untrue. As soon as I heard of the substance of the charges I denounced them for what they were: Base and contemptible lies."

In saying that McCarthy had failed to live up to his word Lattimore noted the Senator had promised the Senate that any charges he made under "the cloak of immunity" he would repeat off the floor so, as Lattimore put it, "their falseness could be tested in a court of the United States." Lattimore added:

Homage Today to Galilean

Old, Old Story of Man Who Died on A Wooden Cross Is Being Retold

By the Associated Press

It's an old story, and most people heard it when they were so young it seemed like just another story, but it was a story they would never forget. And especially today, they were remembering it.

All over this land, and in the countries across the seas, Christians paused to give renewed homage to the Man of Galilee who on this day, 19 centuries ago, died on a wooden cross on a hill outside Jerusalem.

There were special prayers on the lips of many today, and sermons from high prelates and from country preachers. There were ceremonies, and candlelightings, processions and plays and heads bowed together.

Business houses in many cities ordered their doors closed, at least for the period of special devotion from noon to 3 p. m. — the hours of Christ's passion.

Kneel in Reverence

In Rome, thousands of Holy Year pilgrims kneeled in reverence in St. Peter's Basilica, the world's largest church. In Jerusalem other pilgrims filed through battle-scarred streets on their Good Friday march over the route Christ took to the Crucifixion.

The ancient city was jammed with travelers from all parts of the world — Roman Catholics, Protestants and Eastern Orthodox followers alike — all there for the observance of Holy Week.

Tonight, a burial procession will wind through the dark and narrow streets of the Via Dolorsa, past the 14 "Stations of the Cross" where Christ paused on his way to Calvary and thence to the Holy Sepulchre beneath which lies His tomb.

Have Passion Play

In the little town of Sezze, Italy, some 3.000 townspeople prepared to take part tonight in the first postwar production of their Good Friday Passion Play, a traditional ritual there for hundreds of years. Thousands will watch as the Crucifixion scene is enacted on a hillside outside the town.

Special messages, many of them stressing the teachings of the Prince of Peace as a key to world tranquility, were issued at churches throughout America.

Parishioners at the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic church in Philadelphia, planned tonight to dedicate their prayers to the hope that Russia will accept Christianity and "compliance with reason."

Holy Week Message

The Right Rev. Henry Knox Sherill, presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church, in the U. S., said in an annual Holy Week message that Christians should find in Christ's death the "redeeming and conquering love of God which brings the gift of hope."

Remembering the "heroism and self-sacrifice of Calvary," he said, Christians "will view our distraught and fearful world with open eyes, and in consecration to the will of God, strive to do something about it."

In a message prepared for Easter delivery over the "Voice of America," Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, told the peoples of Russia and her satellites that "America's thoughts and America's heart are with you."

Heritage Not Bankrupt

Americans, he said, are "mourning over your enshacklement and your misery, praying for your delivery from persecution and enslavement, beseeching God that the blessings which are ours, may also be yours."

He said that the "Spirit of America is, by birthright, also yours," and added:

"In this hour when the heel of hating despots is upon your heads, when the terror of the noose and knout is heavy upon your hearts, your own heritage is not bankrupt if your spirit refuses to die, to hope for liberation and freedom."

The Communism masters, he said, "have one consuming hate—they hate our God and yours. They seek not only to destroy your faith in God, they seek also to destroy you because you love God."

And from many pulpits, came an echo to the theme:

'In Excellent Health' Thursday, Physician States

HOLLYWOOD, April 7—(AP)—Walter Huston, one of the stage and screen's most eminent actors, died today of a heart attack.

His physician said he had been "in excellent health" until yesterday. But he had to pass up a 66th birthday party planned for him last night by his many friends.

They had the party anyway, his cronies dividing their time between his hotel suite and the nearby restaurant.

Earlier in the day, other friends had feted him at a birthday luncheon.

Not Socially Inclined

But he took no part in the city's social life. He spent much of his time, when he wasn't working on a picture or in New York for a stage play, on a rambling mile-high ranch at Running Springs, near Lake Arrowhead.

His widow, Nan Sunderland, was notified of his death in New York and will fly here. They were married in 1931 after Huston was divorced that year from his first wife.

His doctor, Verne Mason, who stayed with him throughout the night after Huston complained of extreme pains yesterday, said the actor rested comfortably during most of the night.

Company Thursday Night

Friends Spencer Tracy and Broadway producer Jed Harris, and his manager, Paul Kohner, were among those who joined him at the hotel last night.

So was his son, writer-producer John Huston, who directed his dad in the academy-Oscar winning part of the old prospector in "Treasure of Sierra Madre."

Until a few days ago, he had been in New York, but came west to start a new role next Monday—as a fun-loving forger in "Old 880." He had finished his last picture, "The Furies," six weeks ago.

A native of Toronto, Ontario, Huston joined a roadshow at the age of 18, touring the country with "The Sign of the Cross."

But he gave up acting for five years in favor of engineering. The stage was in his blood, however, and he returned to it in 1909, with a vaudeville act, and went back to the stage in "Mr. Pitt."

Enumerators Report Fine Cooperation

Attention Called To Cards Left When No One is at Home

Census enumerators in Sedalia and Pettis county report to their crew leaders, Carl Ragar in the county and Edw. S. Behen, in Sedalia, they are meeting with about 98-per cent cooperation from the public. However, they are requesting the persons who receive a card in their mail box from the enumerator, to fill the card out immediately and mail it.

These cards are green in color and call attention of the occupant that the enumerator has been at the particular residence and found no one at home. They do not need postage for the card, as it is government mail. Returning these cards immediately will save the enumerator much time and difficulty in covering his or her district within the time limited for the census.

There are three censuses in progress in the one now being taken: 1. population; 2 housing; and 3. agriculture or farm.

Transient Night

Next Tuesday night, April 11, will be "T" Night or better known as Transient Night, at which time enumerators will be stationed in all hotels throughout the country. In each room box will be placed a card. The occupant of that room will be expected to fill out the card and return it to the enumerator who will be located in the lobby of the hotel.

The reason for the Transient Night is to give as complete a cross-check as possible on the census.

O. P. Keller, supervisor of the Sixth District, was in Sedalia today visiting with the crew leaders and handling several problems which have arisen. Mr. Keller said his office had received many calls about the census, all of which, with the exception of one, were of cooperative nature.

Some Questions

He related three or four incidents, one of which was when a lady called and asked what she should do if the enumerator called at her home and she was taking a bath. Mr. Keller explained that the green card would be left in her mail box and she could make an appointment to have the census taken. Another was where a farmer was working in the field, saw the enumerator at his home and he went dashing across a plowed field to give him his agriculture form which he had filled out.

Mr. Keller said, "Cooperation has been displayed by farm women as well as city women, some inviting the enumerator to stay for dinner or having tea with them in the afternoon. Some can't understand why they don't stop and visit longer, but the enumerator has so much work to do and so short a time to do it in.

"But," Mr. Keller said, "the little green card is the most important thing now. It will assist the enumerator much if it is filled out and mailed immediately upon receipt."

Like Father, Like Son

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., April 7—(AP)—A father and a son were arrested today at the same time, on the same charge.

Officers said Hubbard D. Hogue, 54, and his son, Ira Joseph Hogue 25, both of Lenox, Ia., passed a gasoline transport truck in a no-passing zone. Each was driving a new truck. They were charged with careless and reckless driving.

Worrying About War

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP)—Senator Magnuson (D-Wash) said today that even the sub-teen agers are worrying about war.

He displayed a letter from June Leilan Stoy, 12-year-old sixth grader. Written from her home, rural route 1, box 416, Kent, Wash., she said:

"For pity sakes let's not have any more wars. It sure is causing a lot of trouble."

A Dogfish Died; It Had Not Been 'Walked' Enough

COLUMBUS, O., April 7—(AP)—The automobile was parked in a prohibited area, and a sign on it read. "Walking fish."

A short time later Linro Durst, 33, appeared at police headquarters with the traffic ticket.

He proved that he not only had a right to park in restricted areas, but that walking fish was part of his business. He explained: He is a dealer in live fish. He had just arrived from Lake Erie with two fish and an eel for the Fort Hayes hotel's aquarium.

Fish get "seasick" while being transported in an automobile. The constant swishing of the water causes it.

So, after I deliver them, I have to walk them to get them sober."

The "walking" consists of pushing the fish around the aquarium until they regain their balance and normal breathing.

"If I don't do this," Durst said, "the fish die."

The "walking" process requires an hour or more.

Police, after hearing Durst's story, tore up the traffic ticket But the visit to police headquarters cost him, nevertheless.

A $7.85 dogfish died while he was there.

It had not been "walked" enough.

Important Events In World News

BERLIN, April 7—(AP)—Fifteen members of the Mozart Girls' choir, who left Soviet-occupied Dresden last week to escape Communist pressure, fly to west Germany tomorrow in a U. S. army plane. The other nine have gone back to Dresden at their families' request.

Director Werner Schueck, who said his wife is under Communist police arrest in Dresden, plans to train the choir for three months in Frankfurt and then begin a foreign tour.

The 15 singers, who have been given shelter at a west Berlin municipal youth hostel, have started English lessons in the hope of visiting Britain and the United States.

HOF, Germany, April 7—(AP)—Returning German war prisoners say that people in Russia expect an attack from the United States soon, perhaps even this year.

"In Russia everyone talks of war," declared Karl Kruegler, one of the hundreds of prisoners released recently from Soviet prison camps.

"They seem to expect attack by America to come this year. Many predicted it would come this April."

Another repatriated prisoner of war, Herbert Scheffrath said "Communist propaganda has apparently succeeded in convincing the Russian population America wants war."

WASHINGTON, April 7—(AP)—The government, expecting to overspend its income by more than $9,000,000,000 in the next 15 months, will start borrowing new money next week to make ends meet.

That will add considerably to the government's debts, which already total nearly $256,000,000,000.

The first step in the new borrowing program, as announced by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder last night, will take this form:

The treasury owes about $900,000,000 in 91-day bills falling due Apr. 13. It will sell one billion in new 91-day bills that day to pay off due debt and leave it $100,000,000 extra cash.

Except in scale, the transaction will be the same as that of a man who has a $900 note falling due at the bank next Thursday and "takes care of it" by giving a new note for $1,000.

The treasury will have a chance to pick up an extra $100,000,000 in each of the two succeeding weeks by identical transactions, for it has $900,000,000 issues of 91-day bills also falling due April 20 and 27.

Unusual "Teething Ring"

TURKEY, Texas, April 7.—(AP)—Sandra Haynes, 2, liked her new teething ring—a real, live, and remarkably agreeable rattlesnake.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Haynes, found her sitting in the yard, the snake in her hand and the tail in her mouth.

World Turns To Religion For Comfort

Chiang Asks God's Blessing on Republic of China

By The Associated Press

The Christian world commemorated today the crucifixion of Christ. Many looked to the story of the Prince of Peace for comfort in a world divided by the stresses and strains of a cold war.

Thousands of pilgrims poured into Jerusalem and Rome. Business was stilled in many parts of the world. City cathedrals and country meeting houses alike were thronged with worshippers.

In Jerusalem, the pilgrims filed past jagged reminders of the Palestine war to participate. They made their Good Friday march to the sacred via Dolorosa in the ancient part of the city occupied by Arab forces of Nashemite Jordan.

Kneel in Reverence

In Rome's St. Peter's Basilica, the world's largest church, Roman Catholics Holy Year pilgrims knelt in reverence.

On far-off Formosa, under threat of attack by Communist Chinese, Chiang Kai-shek, who professes Methodism, led Christian Chinese in prayer. He asked God's blessing on the republic of China" which now exists only as a few scattered islands off the coast of sprawling Red China. Chiang interpreted his war as a holy war against Russia.

German war prisoners released from Russia arrived in Hof and said the Soviet people expect an attack soon from the United States

"In Russia everyone talks of war" said one ex-prisoner. Another added: "Communist propaganda has apparently succeeded in convincing the Russian population America wants war."

Little Progress Toward Peace

The annual report of the Associated Press management issued in New York said: "The world made little progress toward peace and understanding among nations in 1949." It said new restrictions, including a stiffening censorship are hampering free, objective news coverage in many areas of the world.

The report said in eastern Europe and China new barriers were raised against a free press. In the west, too there were added restrictions in this period of cold war and spy jitters. The report said the trend was toward official secrecy, off-the-record confidences and anonymous statements that harass free reporting.

Court Rules no Cause of Action

ST. LOUIS, April 7—(AP)—Defendants in a $1,000,000 suit filed by the Rev. Guy Howard of Branson, Mo., "The Walking Preacher of the Ozarks," claimed today the minister had failed to state a cause of action.

Mr. Howard claimed he was held up to public ridicule through a recording with the title, "The Walking Preacher of the Ozarks (with a little book in his hand)."

The defendants are Radio Corp. of America, Inc., Capital Records Distributing Co., Inc., and Decca Distributing Corp., Inc.

Federal Judge George H. Moore took under submission after a hearing today their motions for dismissal or an order directing the preacher to make his claim for damages "more definite and certain."

George H. Miller of Sedalia, an attorney representing the minister, argued the suit was properly and clearly phrased.

Counting Absentee Ballots On Gas Tax

Counting of the absentee ballots on the Missouri Gas Tax Referendum, started today in the court house. There were twenty-one absentee ballotes to be counted.

Bryan Howe, Democrat, Carl F. Urban, Republican and James Green, county clerk, are counting the ballots.

Says He Didn't Call Governor A 'Damn Liar'

KANSAS CITY, April 7—(AP)—Attorney General J. E. Taylor issued a statement Thursday night to clarify one he made in Jefferson City earlier today concerning Gov. Forrest Smith.

Taylor was quoted today as calling the governor a "damn liar." The remark was made when state officials started action on the slaying of Charles Binaggo here.

"The Associated Press carried a story today quoting me as calling the governor a 'damn liar.' This is not true. A newspaper correspondent told me that he had been trying to reach me all morning but that I was not available.

"I made the unfortunate statement that that was a 'damn lie' as I had been working and available since 7 o'clock in the morning. I later learned the governor did not make the statement but merely said he had not yet reached me. I regret the incident greatly."

You May Wear Winter Garb Easter Sunday

Weather Bureau Isn't Quite Sure Yet What to Predict

By The Associated Press

It looks like winter garb will be appropriate in the Easter Sunday parade over much of the eastern half of the country. And maybe in parts of the south, too.

The weather bureau isn't ready to predict the brand of weather the country may expect Sunday. But indications are there'll have to be lots of warming in the next couple of days if the spring togs are to be worn on Sunday.

Today's freezing line covered wide areas of the midwest, the northeastern states and into some sections of the south.

The cold air covered Alabama, Georgia, the Carolinas and it was colder north into the New England states. Temperatures were from 10 to 15 above in main and in the 20's over other northeastern states.

It was wintry-like in parts of Montana, North Dakota and Minnesota as a fresh mass of cold air from northwestern Canada moved across the border. Snow and strong northerly winds added to the winter scene.

The rest of the country reported generally fair weather. But the cold and wet weather in the northern plains was expected to extend over most of the north central region by tonight and tomorrow.

Cold Spell In Florida

MIAMI, Fla., April 7—(AP)—A spring cold spell sent the thermometer plunging down to 44 degrees at 5:30 a. m. (EST) today, the coldest April temperatures ever recorded by the Miami weather bureau.

Previous low for any April day in the 39 years temperatures have been officially recorded here was 45 on April 4, 1915. High for April 7 was set in 1935 when the mercury hit 88.

The weather station at Miami International Airport outside the city reported a 42 degree reading, while temperatures in some low areas in the central portion

Loot Tobacco Company

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 7.—(AP)—Thieves looted the Rathbun Tobacco and Supply company warehouse here last night of 1200 cartons of cigaret. valued at $1680.

Officers noted on their report that most of the cigarets were of one brand. Entrance to the building was gained by prying a lock from a basement door.

Center Investigation On Connections Of Kansas Citians Slain

Slain

More Than 25 of Binaggio's Close Friends Questioned; Inquire Into Trips

KANSAS CITY, April 7—(AP)—Police today centered their investigation on Charles Binaggio's out-of-town connections but they were given little help from friends of the slain North Side political lord.

More than 25 of Binaggio's closest associates have been questioned. Detectives said they all expressed deep sorrow at the death of Binaggio and his strong-arm aide, ex-convict Charles Gargotta, but the sum total of information given by them was zero.

Binaggio, who broke with the Pendergast Democratic organization here after boss Tom's death and became the North Side political power himself, was shot to death early yesterday in his political club rooms on Truman road. Gargotta, known as the enforcer and executioner of the underworld here, also was killed.

Frank Collins, chief of police detectives, said that if police could get at the bottom of Binaggio's 50 or more out-of-town trips in the last year the motive for the double murder might be established.

Knew Nothing

Among those questioned were several who accompanied Binaggio on his trips to such places as Denver and St. Louis. But police said all of them claimed to know nothing about what the political boss did, who he saw or why he went on the trips.

"Such reticence indicates that the local underworld plans to take care of the double murder of its leaders in its own way," the Kansas City Star said today. "Investigating forces therefore found themselves in a race against time to forestall a blood bath here."

A deputy coroner, Joe Connors, said he expected to "view many more bodies in the next few weeks."

Thomas J. Higgins, special representative of the board of police commissioners, recalled today underworld revenge came fast after the spot slaying of John Lazia, a North Side political boss and top racketeer, here in 1943.

Quick Revenge

Jimmy Needles, reputed to have planned the murder, was killed. Jack Gregory, marked as the driver of the getaway car, was taken from a hospital after one futile murder attempt upon him, was arraigned on a charge and released on bail despite his protests. He has not been seen since. A third man also disappeared.

Both Binaggio and Gargotta were pallbearers at the Lazia funeral. Binaggio in those days was a worker in Tom Pendergast's then-powerful Democratic organization. Gargotta already was known as a mobster, who lived by muscle and violence.

Binaggio eventually took over the political organization built up by Lazia in the North Side, and Gargotta became his right hand man.

Police today changed their theory about the time of the slayings. It first was believed the two had been shot shortly after midnight. But Lieut. Harry Nesbitt of the police homicide squad said three persons, who had been in a cheap hotel overhead, told him they heard shots in the club rooms below shortly after eight o'clock Wednesday night.

Two Were Slain

This indicated the two were slain soon after they left the Last Chance tavern to keep a mysterious appointment at the club. Both Nick Penna, Binaggio's bodyguard, and Homer Cooper, a dice dealer from Council Bluffs, Ia., said Binaggio and Gargotta left the tavern about 8 p.m.

Police, with close associates of the victims screened, turned to rounding up a score of persons on gangland's fringe in the hope some not so close to the slain men might be more ready to tell what the underworld grapevine was saying.

The heat was on the underworld. Horse racing betting places and gambling spots clamped the lid on last night. It was almost impossible to lay a bet.

The crime brought repercussions in both the state and national capitals.

No Allison Comment

GLASGOW, Mo., April 7—(AP)—Emery Allison of Rolla, Mo., said he had no comment Thursday on remarks by Rep Dewey Short (R-Mo) about the slaying of Charles Binaggio, Kansas City Democratic political leader.

Short told the house in Washington today he was "reliably in-

St. Louisans Given Blame

ST LOUIS, April 7—(AP)—The St. Louis Star-Times said today Charles Binaggio, slain leader of a Democratic faction in Kansas City, "practically" received his "death sentence" in a St. Louis hotel last January.

In a copyrighted story the newspaper said Binaggio came here "to see what he could do to appease the demands of underworld bosses."

"Binaggio accepted between $100,000 and $200,000 from gamblers in the 1948 statewide Democratic campaign on the assurance that he would see to it that St. Louis would be a 'wide-open town.' Then he failed to deliver . . .

"He was told flatly that the

Flock to See Woman With Blood Oozing From Eyes

By Donald Doane

KONNERSREUTH, Germany, April 7—(AP)—Thousands of faithful flocked here today to see a sleeping German woman, with blood apparently oozing from her eyes and palms as it has ever Good Friday since 1926.

Americans and Germans filed for hours past the bed of 52-year-old Therese Neumann

In these trances Therese Neumann experiences the agonies of Christ on the cross, according to the story told and retold by people here.

Miss Neumann is said to have gone without food or water for many years.

Asked about this, the Rev. Josef Naber, local priest, said:

"Of course there cannot be the slightest question about it. I have been here in this town for 40 years and have known Therese Neumann since she was a school girl. She neither eats, nor drinks. It has been confirmed by a doctor and two nurses, who once watched her day and night for two weeks. At the end of that period she had lost no weight.

"It is a very extraordinary thing," the priest said, shaking his white head. "Who can explain it?"

Informants in Vatican City said they had no direct knowledge but added that the Vatican normally does not make pronouncements on such phenomena

A spokesman at the German pontifical college in Rome said no obstacle had been placed in the way of Germans or other persons seeing Miss Neumann and described that as an indication that church authorities in Germany are satisfied her experience is genuine.

A similar manifestation has been recorded in the story of the life of St. Francis of Assisi. Others since have been subject to what has been called "The Blessed Stigmata."

Go Slow on Losing Weight After Forty, Doctor States

CHICAGO, April 7—(AP)—Go slow on losing weight after 40, a Washington physician adised today.

Dr. Edward J. Stieglitz says a weight loss of a pound a week or five pounds a month is as rapid as is usually advisable after that age.

Writing in the journal of the American Medical Association, he gave several reason for this:

Rapid weight losses in the overweight are often quickly regained because people don't change their eating habits in a short while.

With gradual but persistent weight reduction the patient does not suffer from weakness or exhaustion.

Wrinkling of the skin is avoided by slow weight reduction.

In a report for the AMA council on foods and nutrition, Dr. Stieglitz said 40 is a good age to take a health inventory. He added:

"In many respects, the two decades from 40 to 60 are the most significant. During these years of late maturity we help to determine the future health of the aged."

He said the start of such disorders as hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure and degenerative arthritis occur far earlier than their symptoms.

He added that a good diet is the most important single tool for the attainment of vigor in later years.

Potter's Field For Housing

ST. LOUIS, April 7—(AP)—The way has been cleared by the city board of aldermen for a $7,000,000 apartment project on land now used for the city's potter's field in Southwest St. Louis.

A bill authorizing the city to lease the burial ground to private promoters for 75 years was passed Wednesday, 16 to 10.

Before signing the bill, Mayor Joseph M. Darst told the aldermen:

"Thanks to your far-sighted action today, this unsightly acreage (Potter's field) will be transferred into a hotel community, with winding streets, play areas and healthful homes for 500 families."

The Aldermen also passed a new city-wide zoning bill and an ordinance authorizing installation of parking meters in St. Louis.

The parking meter bill provides for an advisory commission to make a survey of parking conditions in congested areas. The commission will recommend to the aldermen where parking meters should be placed.

Nominations Approved

WASHINGTON, April 7—(AP)—Nominations of Frank Pace, Jr., and W. Stuart Symington for key defense posts were approved unanimously by the Senate armed Services committee Thursday.

The committee recommended that the senate confirm Pace to be secretary of the army and Symington to be chairman of the national security resources board. Both were named by President Truman last week in a shuffling of several high government posts.

'Sedalia' Means Something to Former Residents of City

No matter where people from this city go or how long they live in another town, when they see the word "Sedalia" it means only one thing to them: "My home town."

It matters not that there are towns named Sedalia in Colorado, Indiana, Kentucky, North Carolina, South Carolina and Ohio—as far as the natives of this town are concerned if it is Sedalia—it just has to be right in the heart of Missouri.

That was just the way Mrs. Paul Pearson, of Camp Campbell, Ky., felt, too, when she recently picked up a Clarksville, Tenn., newspaper and saw an item from Longdon, O., telling of a man who startled employes of the court house because they thought he might be the spirit of Daniel Boone. He was tall and gangling, dressed in a long fur coat made of red fox pelts and a fur cap, the item continued, and he stopped activities in the court house. Then he was recognized as Joe Dillon of Sedalia, who had made the coat and hat from pelts just for the novelty, the article said.

Probably Sedalia, Ohio

The Sedalia was probably Sedalia, O., but to Mrs. Pearson it was Sedalia, Mo., and we are glad she feels that way about the old home town—"There is no place like Sedalia, where people are really friendly," she writes.

Mrs. Pearson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jenkins, 906 South Missouri avenue, and both she and her husband are employed at Camp Campbell, Ky.

Consumer Buying Shows Increase

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP)—Last minute Easter shopping this week accompanied a moderate rise in consumer buying, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

For the week ended Wednesday the survey said: "Dollar volume for the nation was practically steady with the level in the comparable week in 1949. Easter is a week earlier this year than in 1949.

"The seasonal impetus to the demand for apparel this week brought a moderate increase in volume. Dollar sales remained slightly under the level for the similar 1949 week."

Total retail dollar volume for the week ended Wednesday and was estimated at 2 per cent higher to 2 per cent lower than a year ago. Percentage changes by regions included midwest up 3 to down 1.

Ex-Sedalian Wins Election

A former Sedalian, Clarence P. Fraser, has been elected to the Nevada, Missouri, City Council, by a two to one majority in the election held last Tuesday. Fraser, who is a former councilman and mayor of Nevada, won his seat from the first ward, defeating the present Mayor Charles W. Loving.

According to the Nevada Daily Mail it was one of the largest city elections in the history of Nevada, there being cast 2,068 votes, exceeded only in the 1948 Presidential election, when 3,072 votes were cast. The contest was one of the "hottest" in the town's history.

Councilman-elect Fraser is well known here, having been reared and educated in Sedalia. He is the son of Mrs. W. A. Fraser and brother of Mrs. Ben Jenkins of 911 South Osage avenue.

Two Hours of Biblical Scenes

LAWTON, Okla., April 7.—(AP)—The trumpeter's call and prayers for a peaceful world—under one God—will open the Wichita mountains pre-dawn Easter services Sunday at nearby Holy City.

More than 100,000 persons of all faiths are expected on the gently sloping hills to observe Easter in their fashion and view the annual pageant depicting the story of Christ.

A volunteer cast of 300 will present the four-hour religious program beginning at midnight with two hours of recorded spiritual music.

Pantomimers will act the story of Christ in 75 scenes on the huge amphitheater stage at the base of Mount Roosevelt and Mount Sheridan. The voices will come from other, concealed actors over powerful public address systems.

Two hours of Biblical scenes—mostly from the life of Christ—will precede the "Passion Play," beginning at 4 a. m. It shows his conflict with the high priestly party, his refusal to compromise, his arrest, crucifixion and resurrection.

Senator McCarthy—Another Kingfish?

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON. — Most newspaper readers, even though disagreeing with Senator McCarthy, consider him sincere in his charges against the State Department. But Senators who sit alongside the likable young Senator from Wisconsin have a somewhat different view, are beginning to classify him as another Huey Long.

Like the Louisiana Kingfish, Joe McCarthy has an engaging manner, great personal charm, tremendous energy and an insatiable desire for putting headlines ahead of public welfare. Also like Huey, McCarthy is getting the reputation of picking up almost any ball and running with it, providing it brings enough publicity. This, colleagues explain, was why he smeared the U.S Army for giving the death sentence to 12 SS men responsible for massacring 350 unarmed American prisoners of war at Malmedy during the battle of the bulge.

Malmedy was one of the most gruesome and ruthless murders of the war. The 350 Americans were prisoners, had no way to defend themselves, had not been guilty of espionage. Yet they were lined up and shot in cold blood. With them were shot 100 Belgian civilians.

Came the end of the war, and the 73 Nazi storm troopers responsible for the massacre were tried and found guilty. Most of them confessed. "The atrocities," according to a Senate report, "were committed by the combat group Peiper and were members of the Waffen SS . . . which had a long, notorious military record on both the western and eastern fronts."

Despite this record, despite the cold-bloodedness of the murder, and despite the fact only 12 of the 73 got the death penalty for killing 450 men, Senator McCarthy put on a terrific campaign last year to get the convictions reversed.

McCarthy Rebuffed

In speech after speech on the Senate floor, he charged that the U.S. Army had extorted confessions from the murderers. His campaign was much like that now aimed at the State Department, and he was so insistent that a subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services committee finally was appointed to make an investigation.

It wrote a unanimous report upholding the Army and inferentially condemning McCarthy. The Senator from Wisconsin, the committee indicated, had been sold a bill of goods by the National Council for the Prevention of War and other outfits with close German connections.

McCarthy's Senate colleagues also urged the Justice Department to investigate the "unusual activity in this case of certain organizations and individuals," and even asked the Defense Department to probe the "possibility of a plan to revive German nationalistic spirit by discrediting the American military government and to determine whether this is part of a larger plan to bring Germany into closer relationship with the Soviet Union."

Thus McCarthy's own colleagues implied that he might be lending himself to the same Communist goals which he now condemns in the State Department. They also raised the point that such able SS men as those found guilty at Malmedy should not be released and be permitted to affiliate with "the Communist forces of Europe."

McCarthy's campaign for the Malmedy slayers was played up in German Communist papers, which featured reports that U.S. officers had put match sticks under the fingernails of Nazi prisoners. Though completely untrue, these reports seriously undermined U.S. military prestige in Germany.

In the end, a Senate committee ruled unanimously against the Senator from Wisconsin who has now shifted to the State Department in his untiring effort to remain in the limelight.

NOTE—As a result of McCarthy's intimidation of the Army, it is still holding up the execution of the 12 Nazis responsible for shooting 350 American G.I.'s and 100 Belgians.

Gas-Go-Round

Hottest backfire against the Kerr gas bill is going to be in the President's home state, where it may defeat Truman's handpicked senatorial candidate, Emory Allison. Missouri is a big gas-consuming state, and GOP Sen. Forrest Donnell has been making the most of Democratic support for the so-called "soak-the-consumer" Kerr bill. . . . Missouri Congressman Moulder's last-minute switch to the gas companies will help him. Moulder, a Democrat, was one of four votes changed at the last minute. Congressman Tom Pickett of Texas, a Speaker Rayburn scout, arranged his switch. . . . Republicans will also play up the way top Democratic leaders took a run-out on consumers—including House Democratic Leader John McCormack of Boston. He represents thousands of gas consumers, but he voted against them—which influenced several other Democrats. . . . Senate Leader Scott Lucas also took a run-out powder, didn't bother to come back to vote. . . . (No wonder the Republicans are gloating.) . . . However, their idol, Senator Taft, also voted against the consumer, which will increase natural gas costs to the big cities of Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Toledo, Akron.

Vote-Go-Round

After the first vote on the Kerr bill, scores of Congressmen swarmed into the House well to ask how they were recorded. Actually, they knew how they voted, but wanted to consume time to give "all for love" Frank Boykin of Alabama, and "Two Cadillac" Charlie Halleck, Indiana Republican, time to buttonhole members and switch some votes. They did. . . . Others who ran out were freshman Chester Chesney of Chicago, a Democrat and former Chicago Bears football star, who was swept into office by a 1948 accident; and Democrat James Buckley, also of Chicago. A former president of a United Auto Workers local, Buckley phoned his office from Chicago to say he wasn't returning to Washington until after Easter because there was nothing important in the House to require his vote. (He didn't think the Marshall plan, supposed to save our liberty, or the Kerr bill, which will cost Chicago housewives five million bucks, important.) . . . The two Negro Congressmen, Powell of Harlem, N.Y., and Dawson of Chicago, also ran out on their constituents. Dawson took the trouble to arrange a pair against the Kerr bill, but neither were on hand to fight. . . . Also GOP Congressman Kunkel, now trying to persuade Pennsylvania Republicans to send him to the Senate, didn't take the trouble to either vote or arrange a pair.

Anti-Lewis Revolt

A savage drive to stamp out a smoldering revolt against John L. Lewis is the inside story back of the ouster and fine of $50,000 slapped on the local United Mine Workers' president in Canton, Ill.

This is a story of spies, strong-arm squads and a scare campaign to erase a local autonomy movement among miners in southern Illinois and Indiana.

The disciplining of Lloyd H. Sidener, the plucky Canton president, is the latest chapter in a long history of intrigue and violence. The revolt has gone underground since Lewis struck back so violently several years ago against all involved in the unsuccessful bid of Ray Edmundson, a former Illinois district head, to unseat him.

Interviewed by the Merry-Go-Round, Sidener said there was increasing rank-and-file discontent over Lewis's ironhanded rule. "There are too many appointed officials, all appointed by Lewis," he said. "We do not have any representation of the rank and file in union policy."

He explained that the charges against him were rammed through the Canton union by making the members take a standing vote instead of a secret ballot.

"Some of the boys who are my best friends voted against me simply because they were afraid to show before Lewis's spies that they were for me and the principle I was fighting for," Sidener said. "I know, because I talked to them. If the vote was conducted in a decent way, the boys would have been accorded the right of a secret ballot. That is customary."

Ironically, the Lewis stooge in Illinois accused by Sidener of passing along Lewis's alleged "no work" order was once a key leader in the anti-Lewis revolt inside the union. He is Bernard J. Beasley, an Illinois district president, who ran for office on an autonomy platform. Lewis's goon squads tried to break up the movement by starting fights at a miners' convention at the Gibson hotel in Cincinnati. Later, the anti-Lewis crowd went into court to get Beasley's name on the ballot.

NOTE—The House subcommittee probing undemocratic practices in unions has asked Sidener for his story. He has promised to tell it either to the FBI, the Jacobs subcommittee, or the National Labor Relations Board. He says he will give factual evidence that Lewis violated a court order.

Irresponsible Critics of ECA Hurt Congressional Prestige

By Bruce Biossat

It's heartening that the bill authorizing Marshall Plan aid for a third year has come through the House with relatively slight damage.

The House approved a measure containing $3,102,450,000, including $25,000,000 for a start on President Truman's so-called Point Four program for the economic development of backward areas. The overall total is $270,000,000 below Administration requests, $20,000,000 having been lopped off Point Four and the rest off general foreign aid.

Considering the current high state of Republican rebellion against Mr. Truman's foreign policy, supporters of full foreign aid can be happy that a bigger bite was not taken out of the bill.

As usual, some pretty determined efforts were made to slash the program or restrict it. A proposal to cut $500,000,000 off the total failed. Then, after $250,000,000 had been chopped out, opponents took a second swipe in hope of reducing the figure by another $150,000,000. But this also failed.

Rep. John M. Vorys, Ohio Republican, unsuccessfully sought to cut the cash total by $1,000,000,000 and substitute government-held farm surpluses equal to that amount. Temporarily approved, however, was another proposal to achieve a similar cash reduction and make it up by purchasing farm surpluses in the open market.

Fortunately the House later reversed this action. It would have lent substance to Communist charges that the ECA program is chiefly a disguised scheme for dumping U. S. surpluses abroad.

Unquestionably the worst blow aimed at the bill was that proposing that all further aid to Great Britain be banned until the partition of Ireland is ended. With startling suddenness this fantastic amendment was tentatively approved, 99 to 66, in a non-roll call vote.

Apparently it does little good to lament this sort of thing. The House has done it before and undoubtedly will again. Possibly next year it will suspend aid to Italy until that country stops giving asylum to Ingrid Bergman.

One can hope, however, that the Senate will approach this year's Marshall Plan authorization with greater responsibility. There's nothing sacred about the exact sum recommended by Mr. Truman. But amendments and criticisms should go to the merits of the bill.

Most of the proposals for reduction and restriction of the foreign aid program come not from lawmakers sincerely concerned with reasonable economy and efficiency. They come from those who in their hearts dislike the entire program and would do anything they can to cripple it or destroy it.

It would be refreshing to hear these men say what they really feel and to learn what honest alternatives to the Marshall Plan they propose—if they have any.

CREATING FAITH IN OTHER PEOPLE

(4) I resolve to create faith in other people. I shall think faith, talk faith, live faith, impart faith. That means that I will turn over all my nonfaith attitudes to God and help others to do the same. A pastor told me he was unable to eat, was getting thinner every day, had pains in his stomach. He went on his knees and said, "O God, you delivered one man, Stanley Jones, from physical and nervous exhaustion; you can deliver another; you can deliver me." He turned the whole thing over to God, went to bed, relaxed, and received—just received, breathed in the healing of God as the lungs breathe in the purifying air. Today he is the picture of health and is contagious—he radiates health.

A father was about to be operated on, and the mother and son could not sleep through worry and anxiety. They sent word to a Christian layman: "Please come down and stay with us at night; we are afraid. Can't you come and talk to us? for we have nothing to hold on to in the dark." The layman came, and mother and son both surrendered themselves to God and were changed. The son spoke to the father, who for a long time lay there uncomprehending; but he finally recognized the son's voice, responded to his testimony, opened his heart to the love of God and was himself converted and died happy. The spark of faith in that son, a convert of two days, kindled something in the father's heart and changed him

You, too, belong to the great contagion—the contagion of faith. A friend worked in a college had a period of worry which brought on high blood pressure. She dropped a letter in the box, telling me she had turned the whole problem over to God. That was an act of faith. But the moment her letter dropped, so did her blood pressure! She is now poised and calm and effective. Up to the dropping of that letter in the box she had been an introvert; she is now an extrovert, turning out upon others in contagious faith.

O God, break down within me the last barrier of fear that would check the flow of faith. I would have the doors of my spirit turn out and not in, for I am made for creative activity by Thee, the Creator. Help me to create hope and faith in others. In Jesus' name. Amen.

The Scene From The Cross

AP Newsfeatures

"CRUCIFIXION," a modern painting by J. William Kennedy, member of the art faculty at the University of Illinois, shows the scene as Christ may have viewed it, looking down from the cross on his tormentors and friends. The time portrayed is the split second before the agony was ended by the centurion's spear. The artist says he tried to put himself in each person's place when he created the facial expressions and gestures. To do this, he looked into an overhead mirror. This is believed to be the only painting with this point of view.

Distant Star

BY HERMINA BLACK

Copyright 1950 by Hermina Black — Dist by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Clemency Norton, young, eager to travel, goes with Syrie Amberley to an isolated but luxurious home in the North African desert as nursery governess to Syrie's small daughter Baba. The house belongs to Piers Amberley brother of Syrie's husband Jon, on whose generosity the married couple is obviously dependent. Clemency was told that Jon was in ill health, but on the evening of Syrie's return he comes to the nursery to visit Baba.

IV

IT was impossible for Clemency, who was forced to watch the tableau, not to see Syrie Amberley's quick jerk away, and the tightening of her husband's embrace as he deliberately drew her closer and held her, his mouth against hers.

Then Jon released Syrie. "Sorry I wasn't there to greet you when you got back from England. Did Piers tell you I'd been out in the midday sun?"

"He mentioned it. Are you all right?" Syrie was smiling at him now "I was afraid you might be really—ill, when you didn't turn up at the airport."

"No First headache I've had since you went away"

"Well. don't get any more." Syrie turned to Clemency. "This is my husband—as you will have guessed. Miss Norton Miss Norton is Baba's new nursery governess."

"So I gathered from Piers." He shook hands. "Hope both my young women behaved on the journey Miss Norton."

"Beautifully" said Clemency, and added significantly. "But Baba is dropping with sleep. And now she has seen her Daddy she's going to bed like a good girl."

Clemency led the way into the night nursery, and as Jon Amberley bent to put his daughter between the turned-back sheets of her white bed. she had the opportunity of observing him more closely

He was taller than his brother, and no one who did not know would have suspected the tie between them. Jon was fair, and once must have been very good looking; but now he had the appearance of a man who had been ravaged by illness. His cheeks were sunken and there were deep violet shadows under his eyes. There was no doubt about his remarkably good features. but it was a weak face—with none of his brother's bitterness; it also lacked Piers Amberley's strength.

As they turned away, he said: "She needs someone to be good to her. Neither Syrie nor myself are exactly successful in the role of parent."

It was difficult to make a comment on that. As they went back into the nursery they found it empty. Syrie had not waited for her husband, a fact which did not seem to surprise him. He lingered for a few minutes asking Clemency if she knew this part of the world, and managing to find out exactly how she came to be there.

She was somehow relieved when he had gone. She had the feeling that she ought to be sorry for him but she could not rid herself of a slight sense of something more like distaste. He certainly had a charm which his elder brother did not possess, but—

Jon Amberley looked unhappy, and he was probably quite nice. What Clemency did know for certain was that she would have given a good deal not to have to go downstairs and join the Amberley family for dinner.

THE ordeal was even worse than she had expected.

The big, square hall was beautiful. The floor inlaid with black and white mosaic; the colors of the deep rugs strewn about it glowed with jewel-like brilliance—rose and sapphire blue and the clear green of emeralds. The porphyry of the walls was rose color flecked with gold, and the pillars which supported the galleries that ran all round the hall were of dull beaten silver inlaid with lumps of rose quartz. Clemency had often seen paintings of the interior of eastern houses, but none of them had rivaled the exotic beauty of this portion of Piers Amberley's. Here was no attempt to modernize or Westernize. Great silver lamps hung from the roof. and carved arches covered by silken curtains gave access to the rooms which led off the hall.

Through the one to which Justine had directed her came the strains of a radio-phonograph playing a Strauss waltz. It was the one incongruous touch, but somehow it did not seem that way—perhaps because Clemency adored Strauss waltzes.

She lifted the curtain and went in, dropping it behind her. For a moment or two she paused unnoticed on the threshold of the room. Syrie in a dinner gown of some soft, draping material the color of an aqua-marine, lounged back in a deep chair, a vivid violet cushion behind her red-gold hair, a cigaret in a black onyx holder between her lips.

NOT far away Piers Amberley sat, reading a magazine—very distinguished-looking in his orthodox black and white. Jon was standing by the big record player. He looked less haggard in the shaded golden light of the lamps, and Clemency realized that he was startlingly good looking.

This room was as Eastern as the hall. Silver pillars again, but the walls of lapis and silver—the upholstery and hangings almost barbaric in their vivid hues. The vividness of Syrie fitted into it—but the men in their perfectly cut clothes struck an alien note. And yet she felt that the picture before her ought to have been a perfect conversation piece—only there was no conversation.

Each one of those three people seemed apart—absorbed in their own pursuits. Syrie in her thoughts, Piers Amberley in his reading, and Jon in the music to which he was lightly beating time with one hand.

She stood there, feeling an embarrassed interloper, wishing she could make her escape. Then Jon turned his head, and saw her. At the same moment the record came to an end. For a moment Jon Amberley stared at the girl by the door without recognition.

The Doctor Says—

Hemorrhoids Usually Are Treated Best by Surgery

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

There is much concern about whether piles, or hemorrhoids, lead to cancer. Fortunately, though hemorrhoids cause a lot of discomfort, they do not increase the chances of developing cancer.

Hemorrhoids, or piles are actually enlarged veins which develop at or near the outlet of the rectum. They tend to occur in clusters like grapes. At first the enlargements appear and disappear. They may come on gradually or suddenly. A special strain, such as lifting, or a bad attack of constipation will often bring them rapidly.

Blockage of the flow of blood through the hemorrhoidal veins favors the development of piles. Many factors can contribute childbirth, long-continued severe coughing, the muscular strain of heavy lifting or athletics, and constipation, are commonly mentioned.

As a rule, the first symptom consists of the presence of blood on the outside of the stool without pain. Other common early signs are itching or slight pain, especially on straining. Bleeding is usually slight at first but can get so bad that it can cause amenia. Ulcers or cracks in the skin or mucuous membrane around the rectum often develop in long-continued cases. Such complications are frequently painful.

At times clots can form inside the enlarged veins. These are likely to arise suddenly with severe pain. They are usually absorbed in a week or so though the clot can be shelled out by surgery.

The best treatment for hemorrhoids in most cases is to cut them out. This involves an operation which can be performed with either local or general anesthesia. There has been much improvement in the methods of treatment and after-care in recent years so that as a rule convalescence is more rapid and pain less severe following this operation than was formerly the case.

Injection May Help

In some cases the enlarged veins, if they are internal, can be treated by injection. In most severe cases, however, removal by operatin is the method of choice. Unfortunately, once piles have developed and been present for some time, there is no other thoroughly satisfactory treatment except the two mentioned.

There is some danger that piles will come back after operation—that is new ones develop—unless the causes which originally produced them are also corrected.

Dr. Jordan will answer questions from his readers in a special column once a week. Watch for it.

THE EASTER STORY — Jesus Is Crucified — Drawn by John J. Sunley

They crucified Him, and with Him, two thieves. And they sat and watched His agony, mocking and reviling Him. Darkness covered the earth. After three hours, the end was at hand. And Jesus, again crying with a loud voice, yielded up the ghost. (Matt. 27:50)

That evening, rich Joseph of Arimethea, a disciple of Jesus, begged Pilate for the body of the Saviour. Joseph interred Him in his own new, rock-hewn tomb. And he rolled a great stone to the door of the monument, and went his way. (Matt. 27:60)

Mackenzie's Column

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

It begins to look as though the democracies finally may call off the boycott against Spain—bad lad of western Europe ever since General Franco became dictator in '39 as the result of his revolt against the communist supported republic.

The trend was first indicated some weeks ago when U. S. Secretary of State Acheson announced a change in American policy towards Spain. He favored resumption of full diplomatic representation in Madrid as soon as the United Nations repeals its 1946 recommendation that all members withdrew their ambassadors —a recommendation which was followed.

This reversal of policy seems to have paved the way for a striking development at the recent meetings of the Atlantic Pact Defense Ministers in the Hague Spain being of vast strategic importance militarily, the question naturally arose of her relation to the 12-nation Atlantic Pact.

Favored Leasing Air Bases

The conference military advisers favored the leasing of air bases from Spain, rather than giving her direct membership in the pact. It is said this proposal will be placed before the meeting of the Pact nations' foreign ministers in London early next month.

All twelve nations must approve before Spain can be approached in the matter. Chief opposition comes from Britain, whose labor government objects to the Franco regime on ideological grounds.

The point is that if bases should be leased from Spain, it would open the door to full inclusion of Spain in the western defense system if she should wish to participate.

Numerous Reasons For

The campaign against Franco Spain in the U. N. and elsewhere has been paced by Moscow ever since the Spanish revolution. Naturally the belief is strong in western diplomatic circles that Russia wants to keep Spain from becoming a part of the Atlantic Pact defense

There have been numerous reasons for the opposition to General Franco's regime. From the Russian standpoint one of the burning issues lay in the fact that the Spanish regime which Franco overthrew had a strong communist complexion. This government was supported in its struggle by Russians and by volunteers from many other countries.

On the other hand, Franco had much help from both Hitler and Mussolini. He reciprocated by selling them supplies in the World War until America and Britain outbought the Axis powers

Curious enough one of the main charges against the Franco government is that it is a dictatorship. The regime is accused of the suppression of civil freedoms.

Abhor Dictatorships

Of course believers in democracy abhor dictatorships. But it is an interesting note that the western world should turn thumbs-down on the Madrid government, because it is a dictatorship, while playing ball with other totalitarian regimes which are tougher, for example, Soviet Russia.

The answer to this naturally is that the western powers have been making a virtue of expediency.

Now under the leadership of Washington this anomolous position may be clarified. It isn't entirely altruism; Spain might be a mighty big asset militarily to the west in event of another conflict.

In the absence of the president, the vice president, Mrs. Paul Gregory, had charge of the business meeting. The meeting opened with the group singing: "America."

The devotional was read by Mrs. Stuart Allen.

Roll call was answered with an Easter custom, letters from the Extension Office were read and final plans for the club supper were discussed.

Members decided to meet on April 11 to make bookends and pictures of metal.

The lesson of the day, "Choosing Clothes to Suit the Individuals," was presented in an interesting manner by Mrs. Paul Gregory and Mrs. Fernley Taylor.

The next meeting will be April 26 at the home of Mrs. Elmer Easter.

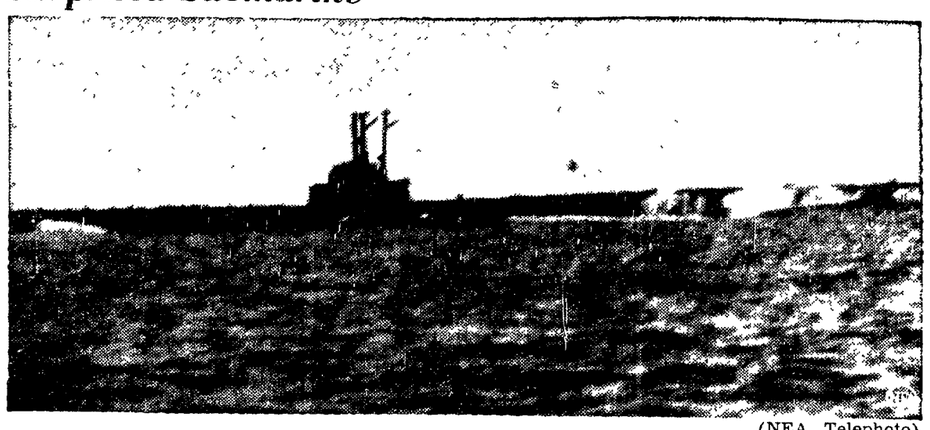
Surprised Submarine



(NEA Telephoto)

This submarine, photographed off Catalina Island, Calif., was sighted by members of the crew of a racing yacht, the Westward Ho. The yacht left its course and approached to within approximately 75 yards of the sub when two khaki-clad men on the conning tower jumped inside and the vessel submerged, according to the yachtsmen. Some reports indicate that this sub may be the USS Charr, based at Long Beach, Calif., but this has not been confirmed.

Surprise For Census Taker

LOGAN, W. Va., April 7—(AP)—Census-taker Amy Carper was about to leave a housewife she interviewed yesterday when the lady pressed $5 into her hand.

"You don't remember me, then," the woman said. "I lived next to you 12 years ago at Omar, borrowed $5 one day to buy milk and butter and forgot to pay you. Then we moved away. Well, here is your $5."

Three Escape Injuries in Car Wreck

Three young men from Marshall had a narrow escape about 12:35 o'clock this morning, and emerged from an accident with nothing more than a few slight abrasions and bruises. The 1940 Ford coach they were in was practically demolished in an accident on the curve north of Springdale Cabins, about three miles from the city limits, on North Highway 65.

The car was driven by Thomas Melvin Hedrick, 24, of Marshall, and he was accompanied by Joe McAuley and Ralph Howell, both of Marshall. Hedrick was headed north on the highway 65 when the car went into a curve. The car went several feet along the shoulder of the pavement, swerved back onto the concrete, skidded, flipped over on its top and went spinning along the pavement for some distance.

The top of the car was smashed almost flat and other parts of the vehicle were badly smashed up as the car overturned.

McAuley and Howell reported they were thrown from the car, while Hedrick remained at the wheel.

Wreck Wednesday Night

Wednesday night, another wreck occurred three and six-tenths miles south of Sedalia on the Water Works road in which two occupants escaped with only minor bruises and abrasions. The vehicle, a 1938 Chevrolet coupe, was completely demolished.

This car was driven by Robert L. Perkins, who was accompanied by Douglas Salmons, both of 301 East Twenty-seventh street. They were going south on the blacktop road when the right rear wheel struck a concrete abutment on a culvert, knocking the wheels out from under the car, the abutment knocked about ten feet from the culvert, and the car went into a ditch.

Various parts of the automobile were scattered for some distance along the roadway.

"Dodsworth," a play he was to make into a movie later, was another of his better known plays.

He made his movie debut in 1929, in "The Lady Lies" and "Gentlemen of the Press," both silents.

A long string of films has followed, including "The Virginian," "Abraham Lincoln," "Rain," "Gabriel Over the White House," "Yankee Doodle Dandy," "Mission to Moscow" and "Dragonwyck."

Guilty, Mercy Recommended

ALLENTODN, Pa., April 7.—(AP)—Harold Mohr was found guilty today of voluntary manslaughter in the so-called mercy-killing of his cancer-wracked brother.

The jury of eight men and four women, recommended mercy. Judge James F. Henninger said yesterday such a recommendation is not mandatory on the court. Maximum term for voluntary manslaughter is 12 years in prison.

Mohr stood to hear the sentence with no visible display of emotion. He stared, dully, at the floor..

The verdict was returned at 9:55 a. m., an hour and 25 minutes after the jurors resumed deliberations. Five hours of study yesterday failed to bring forth a verdict.

The jurors had a choice of four verdicts: First or second degree murder, voluntary manslaughter or acquittal.

ST. LOUIS, April 7 —(AP)—Thomas O. Dakessian of Columbia, Mo., pleaded guilty today to federal income tax evasion and was fined $25,000 and sentenced to six months in jail.

Dakessian, 50, operates a rug cleaning business and a gift shop in Columbia. He pleaded guilty to five counts of a criminal information charging him with making false income tax returns for the years 1943 through 1947.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Herbert H. Freer said Dakessian, in joint income tax returns for himself and his wife, understated their income for the five years by a total of $102,543 and defrauded the government of at least $48,688

Ralph L. Alexander, attorney representing Dakessian, asked for leniency. He told the court Dakessian came to this country from his native turkey at an early age to escape oppression.

Mr. Beach began with the Barber Shop group in Portland, then later was admitted to the Glee Club, then to the chorus and now has been selected as a member of the symphonic Choir.

Direct Losses Due to Strike

DETROIT, April 7—(AP)—Direct losses due to the Chrysler strike will pass the one billion dollar mark Monday, April 10, Automotive News asserted today.

The various Chrysler plants have been idle since Jan. 25. The trade paper said that regardless of the outcome of current negotiations it would be impossible for them to reopen next Monday.

Automotive News estimates that through tomorrow direct losses growing out of the shutdown will total $994,509,680. Another $20,000,000 it adds, will be lost Monday.

Itemizing the losses, the paper says:

"The $994,509,680 includes the following components: $700,000,000 representing average value of the 350,000 lost cars and trucks; $212,000,000 in lost purchases to Chrysler's $6,500 suppliers; $61,509,680 in lost wages to the 89,000 Chrysler workers, and $21,000,000 in lost wages to the 50,000 idled supplier employers (after unemployment-compensation benefits).

"The one-billion-dollar Chrysler loss is not an automotive strike record. That distinction is held by the General Motors strike of 1945-46, which lasted for 16 weeks and one day and cost directly-affected parties $1,457,400,000."

Juniors Help Get Man Wanted

FORT SMITH, Ark., April 7—(AP)—A couple of youngsters — members of the Junior Deputies organization — were credited today with helping bring about the arrest of a young cowhand from Wyoming, wanted on a charge of stealing a saddle.

Sebastian county deputies took the prisoner, identified as Charles Jones, 18, into custody after receiving information from the youngsters. The deputies said they didn't get the names of the junior deputies.

Jones was taken at the home of an uncle, and is being held for authorities from Carbon county, Wyoming, said Sheriff Prentice Maddux.

The strike by Kroger truck drivers, which resulted in closing of all of the stores last Friday, ended yesterday. Terms of the settlement were not disclosed, but a joint company-union statement said:

"The new contract involves a reduction in the work week with substantially the same take-home pay." The union wanted the work week reduced from 48 to 45 hours with no cut in pay.

Two Watchmen Found Dead

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP)—The bound bodies of two night watchmen were found early today in one of Washington's biggest department stores (Lansburgh & Brothers). Police said both had been stabbed to death.

They were identified by store officials as John C. Carpenter, 45, and Oliver R. Hess, 56. Hess' family lives at Baltimore.

Police said Carpenter's body was in a first floor washroom. Hess, bound and stabbed in the back, was lying on a blood-stained carpet on the fifth floor. Police said they found a large butcher knife believed to be the murder weapon.

The bodies were discovered by other watchmen after Carpenter failed to signal a routine 1:15 a. m. check of the first floor.

Woodpecker Really Annoys One Family

OAKLAND, Calif., April 7.—(AP)—A four-week assault by a woodpecker on the tin chimney of Mrs. P. E. Thompson's house has her in a turmoil.

She complained to the police department, the SPCA and the state game warden.

The police said it was illegal to shoot woodpeckers within the city limits.

The SPCA said they acted only in an emergency in behalf of feathered friends. And the woodpecker was in no state of emergency.

The game warden had no comment.

But Mrs. Thompson had. She said that if the rat-tat-tat keeps up she is going to climb to the roof and bag the bird somehow.

Twin Pushes Brother Under Water, Drowns

FRESNO, Calif., April 7.—(AP)—Fresno has another twin-kills-twin case—its second such slaying in less than a month.

James Preston, Jr., 4, innocently told his mother Wednesday:

"I pushed Kenneth in the water (an irrigation ditch) and his head went under. I wish I had a fishing pole. Then I'd get my brother out."

Police Chief Dan Lung said no action is planned against James because he didn't realize what he'd done.

In March, Alice Richard, 14, fatally shot her twin, Sally, "because I hated her."

Alice was sent to an institution for observation.

Picked up Material To Build 'Dream House'

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP)—For the last six weeks, Hubert Glover 29, has been gathering lumber tiling and other materials to build himself a "dream house."

But today, the project was off, and Glover was facing a grand larceny charge.

Police accused him of collecting his building materials bit by bit from construction projects in Nassau county.

All had gone well for Glover until Wednesday night—on his final haul—he made the mistake of driving a truck through Merrick, N. Y., without lights. Police, who stopped him, said the truck was loaded with the last bit of trim clover needed for a four-room house.

Allison said he had only sketchy information about the situation and did not care to comment until he knew more about it.

"I am out here in the country campaigning," he said. "And I don't know what it's all about." He addressed the Rotary Club here tonight and was to go on to Marshall to spend the night.

Reply by Becker

However, Allison's campaign manager, William Becker of Columbia, did not hesitate in replying to Short.

"Well I'll be doggoned," Becker exclaimed at Jefferson City "That's a new one on me. It has no relation with reality—it's pretty nearly psychotic."

Becker added that Allison already has declared he doesn't want any "damned gangster's support," and Becker said Short's statement "comes under the reading of pure foolishness."

As to blame for Binaggio's slaying, Becker snorted:

"Why doesn't he (Short) go direct to the White House instead of to Rolla, Mo.?"

gangsters and gamblers at this end of the state were 'tired of waiting.' In gang language, these are ominous words."

Gloomy Word

"The next development came later in the gloomy word from the Kansas City boss that a hitch had developed in the plans."

The Star-Times said the "stumbling block" in the way of the underworld planners was Gov. Forrest Smith's appointment of a political unknown, William Holzhausen, as president of the St. Louis police board. It said Binaggio "thought Holzhausen could be handled" but found instead a "stubbornly righteous man — almost a reformer."

The story said much of the big fund came from gamblers on the east side in Illinois — "gamblers anxious to move their base of operations into St. Louis proper" when the new Missouri state administration took office in January, 1949.

Too Cold for Swim

At Key West the thermometer registered 57 degrees at noon and President Truman found it too chilly for his customary dip at his vacation retreat.

Coldest April 6 in Miami history was 47 in 1944. The weather bureau said April 7 had a previous low of 48 in 1931.

Heavy rains that dumped 1.98 inches of rain on the Miami area Wednesday night were forgotten in yesterday's clear, crisp weather that saw winds reach 35 miles per hour in gusts.

A high of about 65 was forecast for today.

Seven Japanese Hanged Today

TOKYO, April 7.—(AP)—Seven Japanese of 41 originally sentenced to death were hanged today in Sugamo prison for killing three American airmen in 1945. Sentences of the others were commuted earlier.

The seven paid for the brutal murders on Ishicake Island near Okinawa of Lt. Vernon Lawrence Tebo, Pensacola, Fla.; Aviation Ordnance First Class Robert Tuggle, Jr., Brownwood, Tex., and Aviation Radioman First Class Warren H. Loyd, Frest Falls, N. Y.

Tebo and Tuggle were beheaded. Loyd was tortured and bayoneted.

Roof Collapses, Convict Killed

JEFFERSON CITY, April 7.—(AP)—A concrete roof collapsed and killed Charles King, 28, at the state penitentiary Wednesday. Three other convicts suffered minor injuries.

Warden Ralph Eidson said the men were razing an old foundry. King, a Negro, was serving two years on a Jackson county grand larceny conviction.

Pagan Customs Survive in Christian Festival

AP Newsfeatures

The Easter parade, Easter dawn services, Easter eggs and the Easter rabbit are so mixed up with religion, paganism and folklore that only a powerful story like that of the Resurrection could survive to dominate this custom-cluttered spring day.

When you put on your new Easter bonnet and other spring finery you are perpetuating one of the oldest traditions of Christendom — the donning of white robes by the newly baptised.

Your children may wake up early to surprise you — an ancient custom — and they'll hunt for Easter eggs — primitive symbols of the germinating life of early spring. You'll tell them the eggs were laid by the Easter rabbit — a pagan emblem of fertility.

In fact the very name of Easter is pagan — an old Anglo-Saxon word that derived from Eostre, a Teutonic goddess of the rising light of day and spring.

Joy Means Noise

Don't be annoyed if the children are noisy — noise has accompanied the joy of Easter since earliest times. Until recently throughout eastern Europe, anyone was permitted to enter the belfries and ring the church bells on Easter. The noise was kept up for most of the day.

The joy of Easter has been variously interpreted in every country and in every century of the Christian era. The Catholic Encyclopedia tells how priests of Bavaria in the 15th century thought it permitted them to tell funny stories in their sermons to make their churches ring with laughter.

"This Easter laughter," says the encyclopedia, "giving rise to grave abuses of the word of God, was prohibited by Clement X (in the 1670's) and again by Maxmilian III in the 18th century."

Ball Games in Church

In both France and Germany, Easter joy was taken to sanction ball games and dances by bishops, abbots, priests and monks in front of the altar. It was all symbolic, of course, the ball representing the sun, which was believed to take three leaps in rising on Easter morning. But apparently a good time was had by all, for the clerics had been under strict discipline during Lent.

Although the church eventually banned such shennanigans,

the custom survived in other forms. Within the memory of many persons still living the ball game was continued at Bury St. Edmunds "with great spirit by 12 old women."

One of the most ribald Easter customs is described by the Rev. Alan W. Watts, S. T. M., in his new book "Easter" (Henry Schuman, New York). It is the story of ale drinking parties in the churches.

"The fact that almost all churches now have parish halls attached to them," writes the Rev. Mr. Watts, "is, in part, the result of excluding another Easter festivity from the church itself. This was the Easter 'Church Ale,' a convivial distribution and drinking of ale after the principal Easter service, the money derived from it being used for repairs to the church fabric.

Brawls Brought Taverns

"It is certain," he continues, "that Church Ales easily degenerated into brawls and for this reason were ordered out of the church itself. As a result, church houses were built or rented adjoining the church, and equipped with kitchens and drinking utensils. Some of these ultimately became taverns, while many more were retained for what is now the normal social life of the church community."

However, the strength of the church is illustrated in its adjustment to many other springtime capers that people confused with Easter. One is the Easter Fire. This was lighted on top of a mountain, and according to pagan practice, it had to be kindled from new fire — drawn from wood by friction. The fire signified the victory of spring over winter.

At first the bishops issued severe edicts against these "sacrilegious Easter fires." But all over Europe people insisted on starting them. So, the Catholic encyclopedia observes, "the church adopted the observance into the Easter ceremonies."

Easter Egg's Origin

But, of course, the Easter egg remains the most universal symbol of the day. It seems to have had its origin in the fact that eggs were forbidden during Lent. When they were brought to the festive table on Easter day, they were colored red to represent Easter joy.

There is a church in London that carries on the practice of giving each member of the Easter congregation an egg bearing the words "My Redeemer."

And this habit of getting up early to find eggs and to surprise each other is purely an ancient church tradition. Before the tenth century in France, when a canon was absent in the choir for first psalms of the morning, the others would take the processional cross and the holy water, march to the absentee's house, and finding him in bed, they'd sprinkle him with water to wake him. Then he was led to church. In punishment he was compelled to provide breakfast for the others.

Switching in Bed

The bishops eventually put a stop to that, but the custom survived among the people. In many parts of Europe parents and children tried to surprise each other on Easter morning. Instead of using holy water to waken the sleepers, they used "health-giving" pagan switches.

Today this early rising is perpetuated with Easter dawn ser-

How Paganism Perseveres

"A great many pagan customs, celebrating the return of spring, gravitated to Easter," admit the historians. And some of these customs are odd, indeed.

On Easter Monday, for instance women are supposed to have a right to strike their husbands — on Tuesday the men may strike their wives.

In northern parts of England, men parade the streets on Easter Sunday and claim the privilege of lifting every woman three times from the ground. In payment for such feats of male strength they get a kiss, or a silver sixpence. The next day the women are permitted to try the same trick on the men.

Cheese Catches Burglar

LAWRENCEBURG, Ind., April 7—(AP)—This cheese didn't catch a mouse, but police say it did trap a burglar.

Sheriff Walter Sauley said Letcher Meek, 46, of Louisville, Ky., had confessed robbing a general store near Madison, Ind., last Jan. 30. The sheriff said Meek's fingerprints were found on a loaf of cheese in the store.

Easter

Christ lay dead in the tomb. Two days ago His friends had taken the tortured body from the cross, washed away the blood and sweat, and wrapped it in linen shrouds. They wept, remembering how literally the prophecies had been fulfilled. "They have pierced My hands and feet, they have numbered all My bones."

At dawn on the third day, Mary Magdalene, Mary the mother of James, and Salome came to the tomb to anoint Jesus. They found the stone rolled back from the tomb and beheld an angel who said to them: "You seek Jesus of Nazareth Who was crucified. He has risen: He is not here."

Thus was the miracle of Christ's resurrection first revealed. Significantly, it was Mary of Magdala, the reformed wanton, who was privileged to be the first greeted by the Risen Savior. The name of this woman, reborn through the power of His love, was the first spoken by the Master after His triumph over sin and death. Through her, Christ gave His precious assurance that as He had risen out of the tomb, so would all those who renounce sin for His sake share in the joy of His resurrection.

"This is the day which the Lord hath made," says Scripture. "Let us be glad and rejoice." Easter is the most joyful season in the Christian year. It is the festival not only of Christ's vindication but of man's hope and gratitude. It is the time of supreme reassurance to all who are troubled, since it reminds them that no power on earth can separate them from the love and mercy of God. Not even death.

Easter is essentially the reminder that man was created for eternal life, that death is the beginning rather than the end. "He that believeth in Me, even though he be dead, yet shall he live." If some fear death it is only because they do not walk in the light of Christ.

To all who follow Him in fidelity and confidence there is always the knowledge that Christ's love is always with them; that the sacrifice of Calvary was the price He paid that each soul might pass through the tomb of death into mansions of joy utterly beyond the power of the human mind to imagine or conceive.

(Jer. 33:6) The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy: "When man is governed by God, the ever-present Mind who understands all things, man knows that with God all things are possible." Sunday School Lesson

The seeming miracle of the growth and spread of early Christianity very definitely had its roots and explanation in the greater miracle of the Resurrection of Jesus, after His death on the cross and burial. A more disheartened and disapponited group could hardly be found anywhere than the group of Christian disciples in the hours following their Master's death.

Despite His words, that seemed so clear after His resurrection, they had clung to the last to the idea and hope of an earthly kingdom. They had left all to follow Jesus in that hope and now they were left, lost and bewildered, knowing not what to do, or where to go. Peter expressed both his dejection and his counsel of despair, when he said he was going back to his fishing nets: "I go afishing."

Then, suddenly, all that dejection and frustration changed into life and hope. Not only was their faith revived, but there came new accesses of vision, character and power, that transformed men who had been quarreling about place and ambition into Apostles, with a world mission and vision in a purpose now spiritual.

That transformation is something not to be accounted for, except upon the plain facts. Here was John, one of the two brothers whom Jesus, because of their intense forcefulness and ambition, had nicknamed the "Sons of Thunder, Boanerges." These brothers had wanted Him to call down fire from heaven and consume villagers who had used Him inhospitably (Luke 9:54).

This very John, only a few years later, became the Apostle of love, writing in all the tenderness of his Epistles, "We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren" (I John 3:14). John had indeed passed from death unto life under the power of that resurrection faith.

It was this faith that inspired Paul, who spoke of himself as a Christian born out of due season. Paul claimed to have an experience of a vision of the Christ, whom he had not known, as the other Apostles had, during His earthly life.

Only such a profound faith could have upheld and sustained a man in the situations of peril and suffering which Paul so constantly experienced and at the same time kept him as full of joy as of faith and courage.

Men have endured suffering with grim courage and determination, but to have such joy in the soul as Paul and his companion Silas manifested in the inner prison at Philippi (Acts 16), in the darkness, with their feet fast in the stocks, is beyond any human experience untouched with divine grace.

It was the conviction of this living Christ, in whom he lived and moved and had his being, that gave to Paul and his companions the faith and courage that kept them persistent in their mission to make the Gospel and its power known.

It is the faith of the Eastertide and the Resurrection and would God that we might all experience it today! We, too, might then know and understand what the Apostles meant when they spoke of passing from death unto life.

Evangelistic Crusade Opens

The First Baptist church along with several other Baptist churches in Pettis county are entering an Evangelistic Crusade beginning Easter Sunday and closing April 23. Services during this period at the First Baptist church will be held each week day at 9:30 and 7:30, except that on Mondays and Saturdays there will be no morning service. Plans for these meetings have been developing for several months and have now been perfected to the point where the churches are organized for this united effort and looking forward to meetings of splendid results.

Dr. McKinley Norman

Dr. McKinley Norman, pastor-evangelist, will do the preaching at the First Baptist church, and Mr. Carl Yessen of the local church will lead the congregational singing. Mrs. A. R. Beach, choir director, will arrange special musical numbers and have general supervision of the choir. Dr. Norman is an experienced and capable evangelist and will be a great blessing to people who will attend from day to day.

Cattle Killed In Derailment

FARGO, Okla., April 7—(AP)—Nine cars of an eastbound Santa Fe freight train derailed here early Thursday night, killing an estimated hundred head of cattle.

Several hundred head were thrown clear of the wreckage and scampered wildly about the plains country near the Oklahoma-Texas border.

Railroad officials said it was difficult immediately to determine the number of cattle crushed under the splintered cattle cars.

The derailed cars were in the middle of the train and piled up in front of the Fargo station. No one was injured, officials said.

Buckling of the wheel assembly of two of the derailed cars was blamed for the wreck, officials said. Witnesses estimated there were 125 cars on the train, mostly cattle and refrigerator cars.

Refugees Worry Kashmir

SRINAGARA, Kashfir — (AP) — Some 600 persons who trekked through 18,000-foot mountain passes to escape from Sinkiang pose several problems for Kashmir authorities. Officials say the refugees are unwilling for the present to return to their homeland, now controlled by Chinese Communists, and do not wish to go to Formosa, held by Chinese Nationals. The government of India originally proposed to repatriate the refugees in October, but Kashmir officials asked a postponement.

Meanwhile, many refugees have become destitute. The Indian Red Cross plans to give relief and refuges leaders are trying to get aid from the United Nations.

Two Fighters Mysteriously Disappeared

One Collected His Purse And Did Quick Fadeout

By Will Grimsley

NEW YORK, April 7 — (AP) — Anybody seen a stocky 152-pounder with the word "Dolores" tattooed on his chest?

Tuzo (Kid) Portuguez, a chagrined middleweight from Costa Rica, is looking for him. So are red-faced fight officials in Kansas, put in the middle by boxing's biggest "ringer case" in years.

"Dolores" may connote a chic blonde to many Americans but in Spanish, freely translated, it means "miseries."

That's what Portuguese says he has in mind for the mysterious gladiator who used his name Wednesday night in Wichita, Kas. to absorb a first round knockout and pick up a pocketful of cash — $225, to be exact.

"Very Embarrassing"

"Knockout in first round —very embarrassing," the 22-year-old Madison Square Garden headliner said in his best Spanish. He doesn't speak English.

"I never hear of Kansas. I never hear of this fellow Williams."

It was Williams — Alvin Williams, a 161-pound Wichita Indian who was listed as Costa Rica's Portuguez and knocked out in 2 minutes, 33 seconds.

The beaten battler collected his purse and did a quick fadeout. He hadn't been located early today.

"It wasn't me," insisted Portuguez. "See, no tattoo." He stripped off a jacket and red shirt to display a muscled but unlabelled chest.

Friends from Costa Rica translated his vehement protests in an interview at the Associated Press office.

The unmarked Central American said at the time of the Wichita fight he was either enveloping a plate of tortillas at a Latin restaurant or dancing at a New York club —. with witnesses aplenty to prove it.

Big Question

Who, then, was the fighter with the inch and a half tattoo on his chest and intimate knowledge of Portuguez?

The imposter told fight authorities in Wichita he had broken with his manager and was fighting free lance. Actually, Portuguez had broken with his manager, Luis Gutierrez, in New York.

Max Yeargain, the Wichita promoter, said he obtained the boxer from a Kansas City agent who, he added, had furnished him "good and bad fighters—but never a ringer."

The agent in Kansas City was not available for comment.

L. D. (Mike) Leland, inspector for the Kansas Athletic commission, announced he would recommend a thorough probe.

The vanquished middleweight had a stablemate with him listed as Harold Carter, 140, of New York. Harold didn't last as long as his companion.

Lasted 97 Seconds

He went out in 97 seconds against Nelson Levering of Macey, Neb., in the semi-final. Carter also disappeared.

Portuguez has been in the United States six months and has had four bouts, three in the Madison Square Garden. He knocked out Bobby Mann of Trenton, N. J., and outpointed Beau Jack, former lightweight champion.

He stopped Paddy Young of New York in the Garden Nov. 16 when Referee Eddie Joseph halted the bout because of Young's injuries. Young came back Feb. 24 to win a decision.

That was Portuguez' last fight.

Sports News In Missouri

MARYVILLE, Mo., April 7—(AP)—Maryville State's track team defeated Graceland college of Lamoni, Iowa, 98.65 to 37.35 yesterday in its first outdoor dual meet of the season.

Alvin Wormsley, Maryville, won the shot put, discus and javelin to lead the scoring with 15 points.

DALLAS, April 7—(AP)—Southern Methodist hung a 20-11 baseball defeat on the University of Missouri here yesterday.

The Methodists were ahead from the first pitch — Harold Salmon clouted Bob Smith's toss into centerfield for a home run. It was the beginning of a 17-hit barrage off Missouri's Smith, Gene Crenshaw, Richard Atkinson and Walter Ulmer.

SMU's star footballer, Kyle Rote, pulled out of a hitting slump with a double and three singles in four trips. He made four runs, one on a double steal.

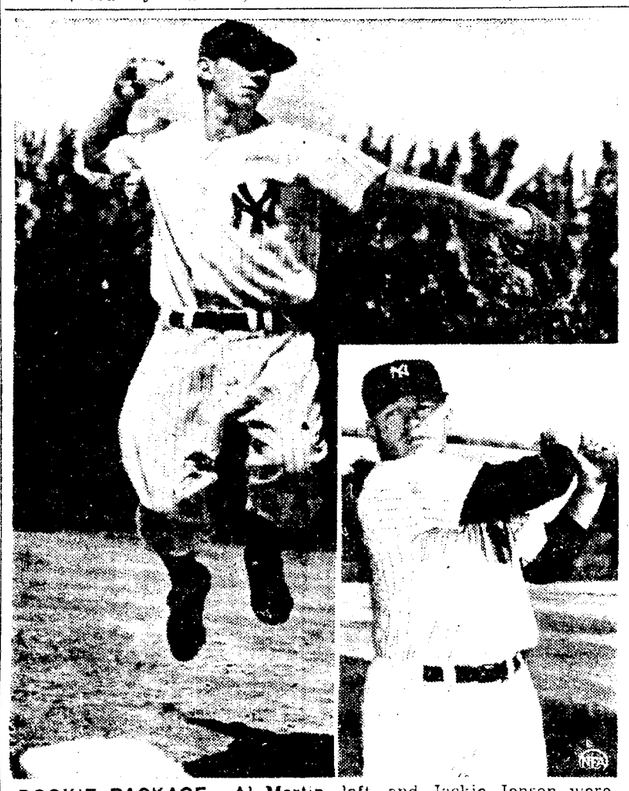
Bill Eatock, Tiger shortstop, got four for five.

Practice Sunday For Sedalia Cubs

The Sedalia Cubs, newly organized semi-pro ball club will hold a practice Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Liberty park, in preparation for the opening game of the season with Moberly on April 30 on the Liberty park diamond.

Stars Admire New Uniforms

The Hollywood Stars baseball club startled the baseball world April 1 by taking the field in Hollywood for their game with Portland dressed in shorts and light short-sleeved rayon shirts. Manager Fred Haney said it is to increase their speed as well as give them comfort. Left to right: Lee Anthony, pitcher; Fred Haney, manager; Rosey Gilhausen, coach, in old style uniform; Murray Franklin, infielder and Eddie Sauer, outfielder. (AP Wirephoto)



ROOKIE PACKAGE—Al Martin, left, and Jackie Jensen were purchased from Oakland of the Pacific Coast League, are eye-catching rookies in Yankees' St. Petersburg, Fla., base. Second Baseman Martin is making the infielders hustle, while the fleet-footed former California football All-America is displaying fine throwing arm to advantage in scramble for outfield berths.

65 Golfers Compete in Masters Meet

Skee Riegel Was Low in First Round With a Sub-par 69

By Sterling Slappey

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 7—(AP)—The 14th Masters tournament field tried again today to break the spell of a championship course and find the way to glory on its rolling greens.

Only stocky Skee Riegel managed sub-70 shooting among the 65 golfers yesterday in the first round. Riegel celebrated his first major tournament try as a professional by firing a 69.

Just seven other golfers broke par 72 at the great Augusta National course which has seen the best and conquered most of them.

The 6,900 yards of thickly sodded, never flat fairways and the hillocked greens were exceedingly rough for all but a few.

Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, Horton Smith of Detroit, Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., Lawson Little of Monterey, Calif., and Herchel Spears of Huntsville, Ala. got under par with 70's.

Little Toney Penna of Cincinnati and defending champion Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., had 71's. Johnny Palmer, the Badin, N. C. pro who was picked to win the Masters by fellow golfers, managed a round in par.

76's and 75's

Many another great of golf was left with the kind of score hardly worth whispering about — Jack Burke, Jr., Lloyd Mangrum and Chick Harbert with 76's and Byron Nelson, Herman Keiser, Cary Middlecoff and Herman Baron with 75's.

There was a striking similarity with 1949 as the 1950 Masters went into the second round.

At the opening of the second round last year, a 69 led the field —Lloyd Mangrum's. Today, Riegel's 69 was best. At the opening of the second 1949 round 51 golfers had scores below 80. It was the same today — 51 players were under 80.

Resume Wrestling Wednesday Night

Lee Hennings, Buffalo, New York, is coming to Sedalia to meet Mayes McClain, Haskell Indian, in main event on the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion wrestling card, Wednesday night April 12. Promoter Pearl Christy announced Thursday that rescheduling of wrestlers touring the country is making it possible to resume local matches on Wednesday—the regular nights for Sedalia for the past six years.

Tommy O'Toole, the battling Irishman from Boston, is to appear in the semi-windup against "Tiger" Tasher, New York City. The opening event brings together Walter Sirois, Montreal, Canada, and Sonny Myers, of St. Joseph.

Wrestling in Sedalia for the past five months has been switched from one date to another in an endeavor to give Central Missouri the wrestling sport. The switches were due to injuries suffered by many of the mat men in that time causing a shortage. Only one wrestler remains out of the sport and that is Champion Orville Brown, severely injured in a car crash nearly four months ago.

According to Promoter Christy he has been assured by various booking offices and wrestling managers contestants will be furnished for the Sedalia show so they can operate each week as in previous years.

Missouri Cage Coach May go to Michigan

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 7—(AP)—Wilbur N. (Sparky) Stalcup, University of Missouri basketball coach, says he has not decided whether to accept the basketball coaching job at Michigan State college.

Stalcup said he would announce his decision tonight.

Ralph H. Young, director of athletics at Michigan State, announced last night that Stalcup was hired, but the Missouri coach said that was a mistake.

"Mr. Young apparently issued the announcement of my appointment through a misunderstanding," Stalcup said. He had talked with Young by telephone last night, Stalcup explained. "I told him I would let him know tonight."

Michigan State is seeking a successor to Al Kircher, who resigned after one year there. Kircher is going to Washington State as a football backfield coach.

Stalcup's Missouri teams have won 54 games and lost 43 in four years. The 39-year-old coach has an over-all record of 256 victories and 95 defeats in 15 years.

Missouri Golfers Lost Match 6-0

DENTON, Texas, April 7—(AP)—North Texas State, the 1949 National Intercollegiate golf champion, defeated the University of Missouri golfers 60 yesterday.

It was the fifth straight victory of the season for the Texans.

By The Associated Press

The exhibition baseball chatter today was mostly about pitching performances, including one by the $100,000 bonus baby, Paul Pettit, which could be called both good and bad.

Pettit is the 18-year-old California lad recently acquired by the Pittsburg Pirates in a deal that caused considerable commotion and excitement. Paul was shipped to the Pirates' farm club, New Orleans. Just a few days ago he hurled five hitless innings against minor league opposition.

Yesterday he was sent in to pitch against major leaguers—the boss Pirates.

Case of Stage Fright

Perhaps young Paul had a case of stage fright. At any rate, before the first inning was over, he had given six runs. Three straight walks filled the bases. Pettit then allowed three singles, a double, a wild pitch and a balk, with a double steal sandwiched in.

But Paul stayed in there for three more innings and, indicating he may yet prove his metal, blanked the major leaguers over that stretch. Pittsburgh won the game played in the Crescent City, 10-7.

Mel Parnell, ace Boston Red Sox moundsman, showed the kind of form that won 25 games last year as he let down the Jacksonville Tars of the Sally league with no runs and four hits in a full route job won by Boston, 12-0.

Worked In Chill Wind

Parnell struck out five and worked in a chill wind. It was the first nine inning job by a Red Sox hurler this spring. Ted Williams socked a three-run homer.

Bob Kuzava, Chicago White Sox southpaw, came within a few inches of pitching a no-hitter against the Houston, Texas League, club. Chicago got only three hits in winning, 2-0.

The New York Giants also got an all-the-way pitching stint from Sheldon Jones, who led his team to a 5-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Jones gave nine hits but never allowed Cleveland to bunch them. The single tally off him was the result of a wild pitch, two walks and an outfield fly.

Southern Relays Opens Saturday

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 7—(AP)—A 14-conference turnout for the third annual Southern Relays today aimed a dazzling threat at long-standing Dixie track and field records.

From the southwest, midwest and east the best contenders of 30 colleges and universities poured into Birmingham for the competition starting tomorrow.

The towering Fuchs tossed the 16-pound shot-put 56 feet seven inches in practice here yesterday, easily bettering the stadium record of 53 feet 6½ inches.

Yale, Oklahoma A & M, and Dewanee were already on the field as the vanguard of the event arrived today.

Sharp competition looms in the mile relay with Louisiana State and the Oklahoma Aggie teams battling.

Three of the Tigers who won last year in 3:20.3 are due back. The Aggies have a team which was clocked at 3:16.4 in the Sugar Bowl Mile with one of their best men, Capt. Hal Tarrant, not running.

Fights Thursday Night

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK—Charley Salas, 151, Phoenix, knocked out Roy Carter, 151¼, New York, 1.

Brooklyn—Pat Marcune, 126½, New York, stopped Tony Pennino, 123½, New York, 4.

Briefs on The Big Leagues While in Spring Training

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 7—(AP)—Manager Casey Stengel admittedly would like a fifth starting hurler for his New York Yankees, but says "I like our pitching staff as good as anybody's."

"I'd say our pitching right now is our weakest link," says Stengel. "Nobody has control. Our pitchers have walked 150 men and have struck out only 87."

Casey still claims the pitchers need at least a week-earlier spring training start than other players, saying there is not sufficient time for them all to get the work they need.

Plan the Full Route

ATLANTA, Ga., April 7—(AP)—Now it's time for one of the Brooklyn Dodgers' pitchers to try a full nine inning job.

A Convincing Good Sock

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 7—(AP)—Manager Red Rolfe won't give up on injured Charley Keller as a helpful guy to have around for the Detroit Tigers.

One good sock off Keller's bat was enough to re-convince Rolfe, who counts on Charley as a pinch-hitter. It was a 392-foot pinch-hit homer at Macon.

"Anybody who hits a ball that far has to have power," said Red "Even if he were batting against Dick Bartell (Tiger coach) in batting practice, I'd think it was a good sign."

On Opposite Sides

DALLAS, Texas, April 7—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs and Charlie Grimm will be on opposite sides for the first time in three years tonight.

The Cubs engage Dallas of the Texas League, skippered by Grimm who resigned as Cub vice president to take the job.

The Cubs are looking for a kill after absorbing a 14-2 licking by the St. Louis Browns at San Antonio last night as Doyle Lade was powdered for seven runs in the first three innings.

A Big Loss to White Sox

NEW ORLEANS, April 7—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox face an estimated loss of $43,000 on their spring exhibition tour.

General Manager Frank Lane has estimated the total cost of the training period at $74,000, or about $1,500 per day. In 22 exhibition games thus far, the Sox have drawn 46,000 customers, which if an average is maintained, will give them about 66,000 for the schedule.

Lane figures the team will have received a little less than 50 cents per paid admission.

Will Try for 9 Innings

MACON, Ga., April 7—(AP)—Joe Dobson, veteran righthander who has one six inning streak under his belt, will try to go nine innings for Boston's Red Sox today when the American Leaguers oppose the Macon Peaches of the class A Sally League.

Reds Edged Victory

RALEIGH, N.C., April 7—(AP)—Boston's Braves will try to make it two victories in as many days over their National League opponents, the Cincinnati Reds, today when the two clubs play the second game in their six game traveling series. The two clubs bussed here last night from Columbia, S C., where the Tribe edged the Rhinelanders 8-7 yesterday. Vern Bickford will start for the Braves and may attempt to go the distance.

Only Singles for Indians

SHREVEPORT, La., April 7—(AP)—Cleveland's Indians needed an extra base hit in the worst sort of way today.

For 30 innings now, the mighty Tribesmen haven't been able to pound out anything better than a measly single. They got nine yesterday in losing to the New York Giants, 5-1, and they got four on Wednesday when the Giants beat them 8-2.

On Tuesday, it was the same story, nine hits and all singles, but the Indians won that game, 7-6.

Rookie Looks Good

RALEIGH, N.C., April 7—(AP)—Manager Luke Sewell of the Cincinnati Reds says it looks like rookie pitcher Frank Smith is his "best bet now to handle the major portion of relief chores."

The six-foot-three righthander hurled in a relief role yesterday at Columbia when the Reds were beaten 8-7 by the Boston Braves.

At Columbia the Redlegs dropped off two bonus players for seasoning with the Columbia and Charleston farm clubs—Ed Bailey and Gerry Blackburn, who represent a combined outlay of about $75,000.

One or the Other

HOUSTON, Texas, April 7—(AP)—Kazak or Glaviano?

Manager Eddie Dyer of the St Louis Cardinals says he hasn't made up his mind about a third baseman to open the regular season April 18.

Tommy Glaviano, who held the job at the close of the season last year, hasn't been hitting. He replaced Eddie Kazak after the latter had broken an ankle.

The ankle has improved and Kazak has played in 20 games this spring. But his hitting has been spotty.

Injured Back With Team

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 7—(AP)—Billy DeMars, the St. Louis Browns' leading hitter, is expected back in the lineup today against the Browns' San Antonio farm club.

He missed yesterday's game with the Chicago Cubs after being hit on the left wrist Wednesday by a pitched ball.

Deported Hurriedly

ORLANDO, Fla., April 7—(AP)—Sandalio Consuegra, young Cuban righthanded hurler called for a trial with the Washington Nats. arrived and left without throwing a ball.

He went into a huddle yesterday with Clark Griffith, Nats' president, and asked for $3,000 to pay off a Venezuelan team with which he said he had signed a contract.

Griffith sent him back to Cuba on the next plane.

Pitching Problems Continue

SHREVEPORT, La., April 7—(AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies' pitching problems seem to be multiplying.

Last night one of the hurlers Manager Eddie Sawyer is counting upon to help the club make a National League pennant bid, was socked hard. The Phillies beat Shreveport of the Texas League 7 to 4 but Milo Candini was rapped for six hits and three runs in two innings.

However, two doubles by Eddie Waitkus, a homer off the bat of Del Ennis and a three hit, seven inning hurling stint by lefty Curt Simmons helped ease the headache a little.

No "Tomorrows" for A's

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., April 7—(AP)—Connie Mack says there "will be no tomorrow" for his Philadelphia Athletics this season.

The 87-year-old manager was speaking of his pitchers when he made that remark. What he was driving at is that the A's in 1950 will use every pitcher on the staff if necessary to win "today's" game. No more worrying about who will pitch tomorrow. Who knows, says the genial A's skipper, "maybe it will rain tomorrow."

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 7—(AP)—Little Vic Lombardi was picked to start against the Chattanooga Lookouts today as the Pittsburgh Pirates endeavored to run their exhibition winning streak to six straight.

Zebras Escape Work—They Are Lazy

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony—(AP)—You can tell a zebra by his stripes—and they mean he's lazy. Wild game authorities here say that though the zebra in many physical ways resembles a horse or mule, he has proven worthless as a domestic beast.

A zebra can be harnessed, they say, but just can't be induced to pull a load He has no heart for the task and gives up without trying. Thousands of zebras are running around free in the African wilds, unwanted by humans because of this lazy streak.

Slain Because In The 'Way'

So Rep. Short Said In House Over Binaggio Killing

WASHINGTON, April 7—(AP)—Rep Dewey Short (R-Mo.) told the House Thursday Charles Binaggio, a Kansas City political leader, was killed because he was "in the way" in the Missouri Democratic senatorial primary.

Binaggio and his right hand man, ex-convict Charles Gargotta, were found shot to death early today in their Democratic club room in Kansas City.

Short said he had been informed "reliably" that Binaggio, who had successfully fought the Pendergast machine, was backing a senatorial candidate opposed by President Truman and the Pendergast organization.

Binaggio was once an underling to the late Kansas City political boss Tom Pendergast, but later went on to become a political chief in his own right.

Short is the only Republican house member from Missouri.

He made his statement during debate on an omnibus appropriation bill.

Until today there were five in the heated race for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senator. Franklin E Reagan, St. Louis, withdrew today with a plea for party harmony.

President Truman has endorsed State Senator Emery W. Allison, Rolla, Mo., for the race.

However, Gov. Forrest Smith has sidestepped all questions as whom he will support. In the last campaign Binaggio backed Smith for governor and since then has been a frequent visitor to Jefferson City.

Reagan, Allison and Thomas W. Hennings, St. Louis, had lined up considerable support for their candidacies. Others in the race are Mrs. Marjorie Bell Hinrichs, St. Louis cosmetics manufacturer, and James W. Hopkins, University City, Mo., accountant.

In his withdrawal statement Reagan did not say which candidate he would support.

Short's remarks were among many made today on the slaying in Kansas City.

To Ask Complete Inquiry

Rep. Macy (R-NY) said he would ask congress for a "complete inquiry" into the "affiliation of crime and gangsters in politics" in the Kansas City area.

He said the shooting conclusively proves "the necessity for a congressional investigation of organized crime and its connections with political rings."

"The underworld crime leaders are growing in boldness and power," Macy said in a statement. "In many parts of the country they have taken over political leadership.

"The operations of these men of the stripe of Binaggio, with their control of political machines which reach into high places in the government, is a growing menace to the nation's moral and economic well-being."

"Gangland Chief"

He identified Binaggio as the "gangland underworld chief" in the Kansas City area. Gargotta, he said, was Binaggio's chief lieutenant.

Macy said that in proposing a complete inquiry into the affiliation of crime and gangsters with politics in the Kansas City area as well as other cities, he will "insist" that the inquiry also invote frauds" of 1947.

"Unquestionably," he said "(they) were part of this whole gangster picture."

"Binaggio and his henchman were killed beneath the portrait of President Truman in the Kansas City Democrat headquarters," Macy said, adding:

"When gangland murder touches associates of the White House, it is certainly time for action."

Macy said that Binaggio had been identified as the number one force in Kansas City politics who had "taken over" where the "Pendergast machine left off."

"Binaggio also was identified as the Chicago Capone mob's representative in Kansas City," Macy said. "He has been associated with gangsters and underworld gang operations all his adult life."

Macy said he understood Binaggio had been "repeatedly" arrested on charges ranging from carrying a concealed weapon, gambling, to manslaughter. Gargotta, he said had been arrested 35 times.

"He said his bill, calling for a nationwide investigation of crime, had been "smothered" by the Democratic leadership "who feared the results of such an investigation would be used to the disadvantage of the Democrats because it was sponsored by a Republican."

Macy said that in pressing for an investigation he would redraft his pending bill to provide for a "complete inquiry" in Kansas City.

Short told the house he was pronouncing no encominum or eulogy for Binaggio or Gargotta.

"Mr. Binaggio was in the way," Short said. "So, what happened" He is bumped off."

Short said former representative Tom Hennings is a candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination with the backing of "The St. Louis organization and I have been reliably informed he has the backing of the Binaggio faction in Kansas City."

He said the Pendergast organization is backing "Mr. Truman's endorsed man," Emory Allison, a state senator from Rolla, Mo.

"I do not know the state senator" from Rolla, Short said. "I never heard of his name until Harry endorsed him. Mr. Allison, no doubt is a fine man, but you know, even thieves will fall out."

Slaying Scene

This is an interior view of the Truman Road political club where political leader Charles Binaggio and an ex-convict, Charlie Gargotta, were found slain in Kansas City, Mo. Binaggio's body was found slumped in a chair at his desk (arrow) in the rear of the room. Gargotta was found near the door at the bloodstained spot in the foreground. Both men had been shot. Dispel Fear Joe DiMaggio Gunned

DENVER, April 7— (AP) — The Denver Post was swamped with phone calls Thursday from baseball fans who teared the great Joe DiMaggio had been gunned down by mobsters.

The Post telephone switchboard operator—a fan herself—was both frightened and bewildered. She said as far as she knew the Dimag' was in St. Petersburg, Fla., with nothing more serious than a pulled calf muscle.

It developed that reason for the big scare in the baseball world was the slaying in Kansas City of political faction leader. Charles Binaggio.

Given Suspended Sentence

Karl Ford of Pettis county pleaded guilty to a charge of non-support Thursday afternoon in the magistrate court.

He was given a suspended sentence of 10 days providing that he cares for the children.

Didn't Seek Binaggio Support

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., April 7—(AP)—Thomas W. Hennings of St. Louis, candidate for the democratic senatorial nomination, declared Thursday night he had not sought support of Chas Binaggio, Kansas City politician who was slain early Thursday.

"If the Binaggio faction planned to back me I never knew about it," Hennings said here tonight. "I actually do not know who the faction planned to back"

A statement by Rep. Dewey Short (R-Mo) that Binaggio was supporting Hennings "is news to me," Hennings said

He said he met Binaggio only twice at political meetings and hadn't discussed the senate race with him.

Records Of FBI Clear Lattimore

So Says Tydings As Charges Are Branded Lies As Made By McCarthy

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—Senator Tydings (D-MD) said today that FBI records clear Owen Lattimore "completely" of communist spy charges preferred by Senator McCarthy.

Tydings, chairman of a senate investigating committee, said furthermore that four members of the committee hold the same opinion after inspecting a "complete summary" of FBI files on Lattimore, Far Eastern expert.

The fifth member, Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), who was out of town when the committee visited FBI director J. Edgar Hoover, will view the records next week.

Hardly had Tydings made his announcement when McCarthy told reporters that "either Tydings hasn't seen the files, or he is lying. There is no other alternative."

The chairman had referred to a summary prepared for the committee by Hoover from the FBI files on the accused John Hopkins University professor.

McCarthy said he didn't know what Hoover had compiled for the committee' "but I know what is in the files."

In reply to McCarthy's statement, Tydings said:

"I'll let my reputation for accuracy stand. x x x it is significant that no member of the committee contradicted the statement when I made it in the presence of the committee."

"Contemptible Lies"

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—Owen Lattimore, accused by Senator McCarthy of being Russia's top spy in the United States, swore today that the charges are "base and contemptible lies."

He said McCarthy has "flagrantly violated" his responsibility as a Senator and has made unauthorized use of secret government documents.

Lattimore, an authority on Far Eastern affairs, took note of McCarthy's contention that he can prove Lattimore is or was a Communist and declared:

"I was not and have not been a Communist; and I am not a Communist now."

Lattimore made his denial in testimony prepared for a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee investigating McCarthy's charges that Communists and Red sympathizers have infested the State Department.

Hit Back Hard

Hitting back hard in a 10,000-word statement, Lattimore said McCarthy has violated his responsibility "by making the government of the United States an object of suspicion in the eyes of the anti-Communist world, and undoubtedly the laughing stock of the Communist governments."

Latimore also declared that McCarthy has impaired the effectiveness of the government "in its relations with its friends and allies."

He accused the Wisconsin Senator of "instituting a reign of terror among officials and em-

Dulles Named As Consultant

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—Republican Foreign Affairs leaders and the Truman administration joined hands today to try to pull U. S. bipartisan foreign policy out of the hole and get it set up again as a going concern.

The State Department announced that John Foster Dulles, New York Republican lawyer and veteran lawyer of 40 years in international affairs, had accepted appointment as consultant to Secretary Acheson—at the request of Acheson and President Truman.

In New York Dulles said he had decided to take the assignment because of the urgent need for national unity in the face of a Russian "threat" as grave as "any we have ever faced in a shooting war."

In Key West, Fla., Mr. Truman's vacation headquarters, Press Secretary Charles Ross said the chief executive is still looking for a man to name to another state department job with the title of ambassador-at-large. It was understood here that man might be either a Democrat of a Republican.

Dulles was chosen for the top level consultant job after Acheson, by authorization of the President, had conferred with Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, the ranking Republican member of the senate foreign relations committee. The arrangements also were cleared with Senator Connally (D-Texas), the committee chairman.

The World Observes Good Friday Today

Today is Good Friday, the day that marks the anniversary of the Crucifixion of Christ, when people of all Christian faiths will throughout the day go to their respective churches or to union services for worship and to offer prayers. Most churches have services from 12 to 3 o'clock, commemorating the hours Christ hung on the cross before his death.

Thursday, too, was a day observed in the Holy Week by churches and organizations, it being Maundy Thursday.

Reported Upon Possible Change in District Eight

Walter Baird, Columbia, lieutenant governor of Kiwanis district 8, made his official visit to the Sedalia club at its meeting in Bothwell hotel Thursday noon.

Among other things he discussed and reported upon was the possible rearrangement of district 8 which would put Sedalia in a district south of the Missouri river and Columbia and Moberly in a district north of the river.

Mr. Baird was introduced by Harold Bamburg.

Following the meeting the directors met with the Lieutenant Governor in business session.

Holy Week observance music was provided by Mrs. T. E. Gasperson, vocalist, and Mrs. George Lovercamp, accompanist, presented by William Ward, chairman of the program and music committee.

Rev. Warren L. Botkin gave an announcement concerning the Good Friday and Easter services in Sedalia churches.

President Schrankler announced that club members would meet in a body at St. Patrick's Catholic church Monday morning to attend services for deceased Kiwanian member Edward Mullaley. The club authorized resolutions of sympathy to the Mullaley family be drawn.

Guests Thursday noon were: Major H. Gambral, Springfield, with Capt. A. P. Rush; Kiwanians, Ted Slater and R. C. Luster, St. Louis; Reginald Snyder, St. Louis, with Jack Crawford; and D. M. Belcher, Kansas City.

Didn't Seek Binaggio Support

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., April 6—(AP)—Thomas W. Hennings of St. Louis, candidate for the democratic senatorial nomination, declared tonight he had not sought the support of Charles Binaggio, Kansas City politician who was slain early today.

A statement by Rep. Dewey Short (R-Mo) that Binaggio was supporting Hennings "is news to me," Hennings said.

He said he met Binaggio only twice at political meetings and hadn't discussed the senate race with him.

Cattle Killed In Derailment

FARGO, Okla., April 6—(AP)—Nine cars of an eastbound Santa Fe freight train derailed here early tonight, killing an estimated hundred head of cattle.

Several hundred head were thrown clear of the wreckage and scampered wildly about the plains country near the Oklahoma-Texas border.

Railroad officials said it was difficult immediately to determine the number of cattle crushed under the splintered cattle cars.

The derailed cars were in the middle of the train and piled up in front of the Fargo station. No one was injured, officials said.

Buckling of the wheel assembly of two of the derailed cars was blamed for the wreck, officials said. Witnesses estimated there were 125 cars on the train, mostly cattle and refrigerator cars.

Compromise Housing Bill

House Approval Sends Measure Back To Senate

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—The house today approved a bill for a $4,000,000,000 expansion of the Federal Housing Program, including some special benefits for ex-GI's. There was no opposition.

This compromise to a much fought over proposal now goes to the senate where quick approval is expected. Administration leaders say President Truman will sign the bill, although it's far short of what he asked for.

Here are some of the main provisions of the bill:

1. A new $150,000,000 program of direct loans to ex-GI's.
2. Special considerations for veteran housing co-operatives.
3. An additional $2,250,000,000 of mortgage insurance authority for the Federal Housing Administration (FHA). The FHA encourages home construction by insuring mortgages.
4. Another $500,000,000 of FHA mortgage insurance for apartment dwellings, to cover applications received before this program expired March 1.
5. A $250,000,000 mortgage program to cover low cost houses in so-called distant suburban areas.

Most of these programs involve no federal subsidies. The government—that is, the taxpayers—loses money only if the mortgage it guarantees go sour on a large scale.

Missing from the bill is its most controversial part.

Mr. Truman had wanted $2,000,000,000 set aside for a co-operative home building program for middle income families. The contention was that public housing helped low income groups, that private industry provided homes for those in the higher brackets, but that the middle income people had been caught in a housing squeeze.

Says He Didn't Call Governor A 'Damn Liar'

KANSAS CITY, April 6—(AP)—Attorney General J. E. Taylor issued a statement tonight to clarify one he made in Jefferson City earlier today concerning Gov. Forrest Smith.

Taylor was quoted today as calling the governor a "damn liar." The remark was made when state officials started action on the slaying of Chrles Binaggo here.

"The Associated Press carried a story today quoting me as calling the governor a 'damn liar.' This is not true. A newspaper correspondent told me that he had been trying to reach me all morning but that I was not available.

"I made the unfortunate statement that that was a 'damn lie' as I had been working and available since 7 o'clock in the morning. I later learned the governor did not make the statement but merely said he had not yet reached me. I regret the incident greatly."

Accuse Robber Of Murder

Jim Robison Is Charged In Death Of Enid Merchant

GUTHRIE, Okla., April 6—(AP)—Jim Robison, 28-year-old Enid airforce veteran, today was charged with bludgeoning to death an Enid business man Feb. 28.

He was told about the charge just a few minutes before he pleaded guilty to robbing the Okarche bank last Tuesday of $4,000.

The double-barrelled development came in Robison's hospital room here. He was injured last Tuesday when he crashed a rented plane in a field 30 miles from the bank holdup scene attempting a movie-type getaway.

The slain Enid businessman was Carl G. Goldsberry, 42-year-old appliance store owner. He was found beaten in a warehouse at the rear of his store. He died the next day without regaining consciousness.

U. S. Commissioner Paul Showalter journeyed from Oklahoma City to the Guthrie hospital today to arraign Robison. After the plea of guilty by Robison, Showalter set bond at $25,000.

Indictment Waived

Showalter said Robison waived indictment by a federal grand jury and requested his case be put on a federal court docket "as soon as possible."

Garfield county attorney David Field and Sheriff Leland Coyle filed the murder charge earlier this afternoon at Enid.

Officers found few clues at the time of Goldsberry's death. They determined he was beaten fatally with a metal piece from a washing machine agitator.

Robbery was believed a motive since Goldsberry's wallet and some cash from the store's cash drawer were missing.

Robison's first implication in the Goldsberry case came when officers arrested Orville M. Butts, Jr., 24, Enid mechanic, as Robison's accomplice in the bank robbery.

Butts was charged yesterday at Enid with aiding the robbery. He declined to enter a plea at his arraignment and bond was set at $5,000.

Officers said Butts admitted helping Robison arrange the robbery and also implicated Robison in the Goldsberry killing.

A third man also was charged at Enid today in the Okarche bank holdup. He is William Edmond Nash, 18, who is accused of aiding Robison stage the robbery.

Jackson County Board is Named

JEFFERSON CITY, April 6.—(AP)—Gov. Forrest Smith appointed a new four-member election board for Jackson county today. Two are Democrats and two are Republicans.

The members, elected to four-year terms:

Charles Layland, Independence Democrat, to serve as chairman, succeeding Russell W. Gabriel, also a Democrat.

A. E. (Cap) Garvin of the Raytown News, Republican, to serve as secretary in place of John W. Mitchell, Independence Republican.

Harvey E. Roney, Independence Republican, re-appointed.

The Weather

Increasing cloudiness and warmer with southerly winds 30-40 miles per hour Friday; cloudy and windy Friday night and Saturday with showers beginning west and north Friday night, continuing over most of state Saturday; colder northwest and extreme north Friday night, turning colder over most of state by Saturday night: highs Friday 65-75.

Charles Binaggio Slain in Kansas City Political Club

The body of Binaggio, onetime underling of the late boss Tom Pendergast and a Kansas City northside political boss himself until his murder Thursday, lies slumped in a chair at his desk in the political headquarters of his faction on Truman Road (formerly Fifteenth street) after he was slain. Binaggio, shot in the head, was the leader of a political faction opposing the remnants of the once-powerful Pendergast political organization. He was recently a witness before a federal grand jury in Kansas City investigating underworld activities. (Associated Press Photo)

Binaggio, Kansas City, North Side Political "Boss" And His Henchman, Gargotta, Slain

So Rep. Short Said In House Over Binaggio Killing

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—Rep. Dewey Short (R-Mo.) told the house today Charles Binaggio, a Kansas City political leader, was killed because he was "in the way" in the Missouri Democratic senatorial primary.

Binaggio and his right hand man, ex-convict Charles Gargotta, were found shot to death early today in their Democratic club room in Kansas City.

Short said he had been informed "reliably" that Binaggio, who had successfully fought the Pendergast machine, was backing a senatorial candidate opposed by President Truman and the Pendergast organization.

Binaggio was once an underling to the late Kansas City political boss Tom Pendergast, but later went on to become a political chief in his own right.

Short is the only Republican house member from Missouri.

Assertion During Debate

Until today there were five in the heated race for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senator. Franklin E. Reagan, St. Louis, withdrew today with a plea for party harmony.

President Truman has endorsed State Senator Emery W. Allison, Rolla, Mo., for the race.

However, Gov. Forrest Smith has sidestepped all questions as whom he will support. In the last campaign Binaggio backed Smith for governor and since then has been a frequent visitor to Jefferson City.

Reagan, Allison and Thomas W. Hennings, St. Louis, had lined up considerable support for their candidacies. Others in the race are Mrs. Marjorie Bell Hinrichs, St. Louis cosmetics manufacturer, and James W. Hopkins, University

Cancer Fund Quota $3289 For the County

The 1950 Cancer Crusade, sponsored by the Business and Professional Womens' club which opened here April 1st, is under way, with a quota of $3,289 for Pettis county to be reached by the first of May. Sixty per cent of all funds collected will be allocated to fight and treat cancer of all types which may develop this coming year in Pettis county.

Last year, Pettis county was allocated $2,000 for a cancer detection center located at the Bothwell hospital. Further aids given to patients who need them are dressings, prescriptions, radium and other essentials.

Need to Reach Goal

The need for achieving the goal set by the state organization of the American Cancer society for Pettis county is appreciated when it is known that in 1948 there were 23 deaths in Pettis county and 49 in Sedalia due to cancer, or a total of 72 for the county as a whole. Fifty per cent of all cancer deaths can be prevented by early detection and treatment so that to carry on this work, everyone is asked to cooperate in this Cancer Crusade to fight man's greatest medical enemy.

Dispel Fear Joe DiMaggio Gunned

DENVER, April 6 — (AP) — The Denver Post was swamped with phone calls today from baseball fans who feared the great Joe DiMaggio had been gunned down by mobsters.

The Post telephone switchboard operator—a fan herself—was both frightened and bewildered. She said as far as she knew the Dimag was in St. Petersburg, Fla., with nothing more serious than a pulled calf muscle.

It developed that reason for the big scare in the baseball world was the slaying in Kansas City of political faction leader. Charles Binaggio.

Practice Sunday For Sedalia Cubs

The Sedalia Cubs, newly organized semi-pro ball club will hold a practice session Sunday at 3:30 o'clock at Liberty Park, in preparation for the opening game of the season with Moberly on April 30 on the Liberty park diamond.

Governor Asks Aid in Solving Double Slaying

JEFFERSON CITY, April 6—(AP)—Gov. Forrest Smith today directed that the "entire facilities of the police department" in Kansas City be directed to an "early solution" of the slaying of Charles Binaggio and Charles Gargotta.

"I am especially desirous the murderers in this case, as in all cases, be apprehended at the very earliest and brought to trial" the governor said in a telegram to J. L. (Tuck) Milligan, president of the Kansas City board of police commissioners."

At the same time the governor sent a request for assistance to L. V. Boardman, special FBI agent at Kansas City, and ordered Col. David E. Harrison, superintendent of the State Highway Patrol, to Kansas City to aid in the investigation.

Must Be Stopped

"Gang killings must be stopped in Kansas City," the governor said in his message to Milligan.

"I am asking you to direct the entire facilities of the police department in the investigation and early solution of these murders. The gangsters, hoodlums and suspicious characters, should and must, be driven out of Kansas City.

"As governor, I further urgently request that you call upon all state law enforcement agencies, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation to assist in every way possible in bringing an early justice to the guilty parties."

"An early report on the progress being made in this investigation is requested.

He added that he got in touch with Colonel Harrison while the superintendent of the patrol was enroute to Columbia.

"Harrison has already gone," he added.

Governor's Telegram

In his telegram to Boardman of the FBI in Kansas City, Governor Smith said:

"I urgently request your all out assistance with city and state law enforcement agencies in bringing about early solution of gangland murders in Kansas City. I am also asking your full cooperation in running all gangsters and hoodlums out of Jackson county, and the state of Missouri."

At his press conference the governor said he had not heard of the Kansas City slayings until he reached his office. He said a porter and his legal secretary told him they had heard it on the radio.

He added he wasn't sure who had been killed, but understood one of the victims was Charles Binaggio.

Governor Smith told his news conference he saw Binaggio about three weeks ago when the political leader came in to see him.

Resume Wrestling Wednesday Night

Lee Hennings, Buffalo, New York, is coming to Sedalia next Wednesday night to meet Mayes McClain, of the Haskell Indians in the main event on the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion wrestling card, Wednesday night April 12. Promoter Pearl Christy announced Thursday that rescheduling of wrestlers touring the country is making it possible to resume local matches on Wednesday—the regular nights for Sedalia for the past six years.

Tommy O'Toole, the battling Irishman from Boston, is to appear in the semi-windup against "Tiger" Tasher, New York City. The opening event brings together Walter Sirois, Montreal, Canada, and Sonny Myers, of St. Joseph.

Wrestling in Sedalia for the past five months has been switched from one date to another in an endeavor to give Central Missouri the wrestling sport. The switches were due to injuries suffered by many of the mat men in that time causing a shortage. Only one wrestler remains out of the sport and that is Champion Orville Brown, severely injured in a car crash nearly four months ago.

According to Promoter Christy he has been assured by various booking offices and wrestling managers contestants will be furnished for the Sedalia show so they can operate each week as in previous years.

Given Suspended Sentence

He was given a suspended sentence of 10 days providing that he cares for the children.

Daring Double Killing Enacted Early Thursday In Club Room

KANSAS CITY, April 6—(AP)—A burst of gunfire ended Charles Binaggio's northside political power early today and took with him his top muscle-man, ex-convict Charles Gargotta.

The 41-year-old Binaggio's body, with four bullet holes in the head, was found slumped in a chair at a desk in the first district Democratic club rooms on Truman Road. Gargotta's body, also with four bullets in the head, was sprawled on the floor near the front door.

The shootings brought immediate repercussion in Washington.

Rep. Macy (R-NY) said he will ask congress to make a "complete inquiry" into the "affiliation of crime and gangsters with politics in Kansas City."

There was a pool of blood at the feet of Binaggio, who had risen from a onetime underling of late Boss Tom Pendergast to become the northside Democratic political chief and contest the remnants of the Pendergast organization for its power.

Gargotta, 49, lay in blood. He had been struck from behind by one bullet. He had clawed wildly at a venetian blind on a door, indicating he had fled in fear when the shooting began.

After Political Power

Overlooking the gruesome scene were large photographs of President Truman and Governor Forrest Smith. Binaggio in grasping for more political strength had supported Smith for governor in 1948—and won.

He had challenged the Democratic leadership of the old Pendergast organization in doing so. James M. Pendergast, nephew of the late "Boss Tom," had supported another candidate and lost.

Some political observers indicated the killings would result in a new Democratic political lineup with opposing factions joining forces in the realignment.

There were few clues. No weapons were found in the club room and none was found on the two victims. Robbery was dismissed as a motive. Gargotta had twenty $100 bills and four $10 bills on him. Binaggio's expensive diamond studded wrist watch had been untouched. There was $24 in his pockets.

Been Before Federal Jury

Both Binaggio and Gargotta had been under heavy fire by federal agencies. Heading the drive on the two was the treasury department's Internal Revenue Bureau whose speciality in developing income tax fraud cases.

Both men had been frequent witnesses before a federal grand jury since it began investigating underworld activities here last September. In Washington today a justice department official said it was a fair assumption that both would have been called again.

It was known government agents were working hard to trace both income and expenditures of the northside political chief and that of Gargotta, his right hand man who had lifted himself up by muscle and violence.

Only last February Miss Blanche Howard, a county employe and close friend of Gargotta, was cited for contempt in giving allegedly evasive answers to the grand jury. Her testimony showed she had banked or spent around $50,000 in the last four years although her weekly salary averaged $35 to $40.

When she had emerged weeping from the grand jury room, both Binaggio and Gargotta hovered around. It was Binaggio who hoped her out of the federal building and his driver and bodyguard, Nick Penna, drove her away.

Some police detective expressed the belief out-of-town gangsters might have done the double murder because "no one in Kansas City is tough enough or brave enough to pull such a job."

Other detectives discounted the theory, saying they were sure neither Binaggio or Gargotta would be talking to strangers at night without protection nearby and that it was doubtful if either would let a stranger get behind him.

Governor Smith called on four law enforcement agencies today to end gang killings in Kansas City.

"Gang killings must be stopped in Kansas City," the governor said in a telegram to J. L. Milligan, president of the Kansas City police board. In Missouri the governor appoints police boards in major cities and he technically

Address Given On Insurance

Edward G. Mura Guest Speaker of Underwriters

Step by step in an informal manner, Edward G. Mura, of the Kansas City agency of the New England Mutual Life Insurance company, related his experience in life insurance business, before members of the Sedalia Life Underwriters Association meeting and dinner in the Palm Room of the Bothwell hotel, Saturday noon.

Mr. Mura who entered the life insurance business as a full time agent in 1929, and who has been a million dollar producer for many years, and a member of the Million Dollar Round Table, spoke mostly about coordinated estate.

The speaker told how he happened to start in the life insurance business as a career, and related why the insurance business appealed to him. He said "the insurance business was the finest profession to be in to serve humanity, and it is a real profession. and that is why we should act as professional men and women calling on the trade."

Making Friends

He stressed the point that one cannot buy loyal friends, but one made friends by being honest and sincere with them at all times. He pointed out that one should keep the friends they have and accumulate more annually by being of service to them. He said, "Do not take advantage of your friends for your selfish gain." Mr Mura continued on this same line by saying, help the man who left his job to serve Uncle Sam during the last war. He said he has heard of selfish agents who have encouraged veterans to drop G. I. insurance.

Mr. Mura said when he started out in the insurance business, the first man he coordinated an estate for was a doctor, whom he didn't know before. He said after going over the doctor's program, he only wrote $3,000 worth of insurance, in 1929. He said since that time, this family has bought over $500,000 worth of insurance. He said this is an example of what an insurance man can do by starting out on small cases, and then following the cases through.

"To give your prospect an intelligent setup you must know what he wants to accomplish for himself and family, and what he has to do it with," the speaker said.

He pointed out that in half of the insurance business he writes, people tell him, they are never going to buy another dime's worth of insurance, but after going over a program with them, setting it up, and then following it through, people usually realize the benefits. He said he believed in giving the prospcet a very simple and intelligent set-up, and related a good insurance man could get closer to an individual than anyone else, that is, if the individual has confidence in the insurance man. Mr. Mura said he always put himself in his customer's shoes and solved their problems as if they were his own.

Mr. Mura, who is past president of the Kansas City Life Underwriters Association and of the Kansas City general agents and managers association and is now vice-president of the New England Mutual General Agents' association, was introduced by Abe Silverman, president of the local underwriters association, and who works under Mr. Mura with the same company in Sedalia.

Mr. Silverman announced that the Missouri Association of Life Underwriters will hold a state conference in St. Louis on May 18. Guests at the meeting were: Miss Lee Suelke of Kansas City and Mrs. Abe Silverman.

No injuries resulted in two accidents, while considerable property damage resulted to one automobile in one of them Saturday.

The first occurred at 12:45 o'clock in the afternoon in a freak accident between a 1940 Hudson sedan driven by James A. Cornwall, 1009 East Sixth street, and a runaway wheel and tire believed off a Chevrolet.

Cornwall reported he was driving west on Broadway when suddenly a wheel and tire rolled into his car. Damage resulted to the Hudson sedan, none to the wheel and tire. The owner of the wheel and tire could not be located and it is believed it either rolled off a truck or was a spare on a car and was lost unknown to his owner. It was taken to police headquarters.

At 4:20 o'clock a collision occurred at Fifth street and Montgomery avenue, between a 1949 sedan of the Yellow Cab Co., driven by Jesse M. Pummill and a 1941 Buick coupe driven by F. Williams of Syracuse.

Ask Reports In Near Future

Harry S. Naugel, Chairman of the Red Cross Fund Campaign, in making a report on the status of the campaign, states several of the division chairmen have finished their canvassing and made final reports to the Red Cross office. If the campaign is to be successful, and the quota reached, it is very necessary that all division chairmen complete their territories and make their reports at the earliest possible date to Red Cross Headquarters now located at 410½ South Ohio avenue.

Mr. Naugle states as chairman this year he has noted some outstanding efforts made to assure the success of the campaign. In some areas where the chairman in making their reports found they were short of last years goal, have returned and reworked their territory, until they were over. Others have taken their quota and worked until they reached it or exceeded it. Some have finished their work early, others have taken longer but have done a very thorough job, which makes for 100% membership. Because of the work of these volunteers, Pettis county is assured of a complete Red Cross program for the coming year.

Additional firms that have 100% enrollment are Sears and Royal Crown Bottling Company.

Exceeded 1949 Membership On March 28

Information has just been received that the seventh district of the Missouri Department of the American Legion is the first of the seventeen districts in Missouri to exceed its 1949 membership record.

The seventh district consists of the counties of Pettis, Lafayette, Saline, Howard, Benton and Hickory, and has 23 posts in seventeen towns. The 1949 membership record was 2,878.

According to E. Glenn Lewis, of Sedalia, post commander of American Legion Post 16, membership in his post exceeded approximately 10 per cent over the final membership of last year. He said the American Auxiliary of the seventh district was also the first to go over the top in membership this year in the state. Mr. Lewis, serving his second term as post commander, said the post had a total membership of 430. Post 16 meets every first and third Monday nights at the new Legion Home, 114½ East Fifth street.

Made Record March 28

The seventh district set the membership mark by making this record on the early date of March 28. Credit is due to aggressive leadership of the posts, increasing interest in the American Legion and its programs, and to the fact that the Legionnaires want to make a good showing for the Department Senior Vice-Commander, Charles L. Bacon, of Marshall, who is now the state membership chairman and is the most likely candidate for Department Commander at the next election to be held in Kansas City over the Labor Day week-end. If elected to this office, Sr. Vice-Commander Bacon will thereby become the first World War II veteran to receive this honor.

Parker of LaMonte, long a Red Cross Board member, and vitally interested in Red Cross service, had sent the chairmen a check for the amount needed for the township to reach their quota. This was in addition to the generous contribution which had already been made by Mr. and Mrs Parker. LaMonte township can say proudly, "Red Cross Campaign 1950—LaMonte township—100%.

Traffic Deaths In Missouri On Increase

Head of Patrol Urges Drivers to Know and Obey Laws

Deaths from traffic accidents on the streets and highways of Missouri during January and February of this year increased 9% as compared with the same two months of 1949, according to the records of the Missouri State Highway Patrol. Deaths during January totaled 64, which is 19 more than the 45 recorded in January of last year. During February of this year, ten fewer persons were killed than during February of 1949. The two month total of 111 deaths this year is 9 more than the total of 102 deaths reported for the same period last year.

Traffic deaths in rural areas and in cities of less than 10,000 population increased from 77 during the first two months of 1949 to 85 in 1950; while deaths in cities of more than 10,000 population rose very slightly from 25 last year to 26 this year. Pedestrian deaths accounted for all of the statewide increase rising from 27 in 1949 to 36 in 1950.

Too Many Disregard Laws

Colonel David E. Harrison, Superintendent of the Patrol, blames the disregard of traffic laws and the rules of safe driving for the majority of accidents in Missouri. He said, "During the first two months of this year, there were 2893 drivers involved in accidents in the rural areas of the state, and 1682 or 58% of them committed one or more traffic violations which contributed to the resulting accidents. In 1942, or 87% of the 1708 accidents investigated by our officers during January and February, there was at least one traffic violation reported. These facts clearly indicate that the responsibility for accidents rests on each individual driver. It should not be necessary for apolice officer to be present in order for motorists to observe traffic laws and regulations. Traffic regulations are made to provide for the safe and orderly movement of traffic and must be voluntarily observed by drivers if they are to accomplish their purpose. I urge every driver in Missouri to know and obey all traffic laws so that the needless waste from traffic accidents can be reduced to a minimum."

Lyric Soprano Pleased Music Club Members

Eeva Siukenen-Oliver, lyric soprano of Kansas City presented a program designed to give full expression to her talent on Wednesday before the Helen G Steele Music Club.

The artist possesses much natural charm and poise and her voice is suited to the Lieder type of songs which she used exclusively in her program. Thrilling pianissimos and sustained legato passages were evident in this group. Contracting moods of enchantment and tranquality characterized the Hugo Wolf group and the audience's appreciation was enhanced by the program notes which were helpful during the entire program. Songs of her native Finland by Kilpinen with moods ranging from fanciful to mournful, were given interpretation by the artist and especially moving was her performance of the plaint of the bereaved woman who had lost her sweetheart.

Persistent applause by the capacity audience brought the first familiar number of the program, Schubert's "Ave Maria" and Grahms' "Salamander." Sympathetic accompaniments were furnished by Miss Elizabeth Puckett of Kansas City

Smith also ordered Col. David Harrison, head of the State Highway Patrol, to take direct personal charge of the case under his, the governor's direction. Smith also called on the FBI and the attorney general's office to help.

Binaggio frequently visited the state capitol and the governor. Once Gargotta accompanied him. On most of the trips he was evasive about what he was doing. He frequently called at the governor's office. He generally entered by the front door and left by a rear door.

Recently a newsman saw Binaggio leaving by the back door and this caused Smith to order better security on the dapper northside politician's visits.

The Kansas City Star said the slaying of Binaggio likely would materially change the Democratic alignment here. It said it could mean a get-together of warring factions as represented by the Pendergast organization and Binaggio's north side group.

"It is known that an approach was made recently through a representative of the north side faction with those in the Pendergast organization looking toward getting together," the newspaper reported. "It did not get any place. The feeling between Jim Pendergast and Binaggio was sharp and it has been no secret that Pendergast would not deal with Binaggio, who formerly worked with the Pendergast group."

Binaggio attended a hometown testimonial dinner here last fall for William Boyle, national chairman of the Democratic party, but he had no special seat of honor. Both President Truman and Boyle are identified with the Pendergast group.

Ballot Boxes Stolen

Binaggio's bid for political expansion began in 1944 when he supported Truman's close friend, the late Mayor Roger T. Sermon of Independence, for governor and failed. He was back two years later with a show of power but it also brought federal and county grand jury indictments. Then the ballot boxes were stolen from the election board's vault in the courthouse and that ended that.

Today's slayings brought to 19 the number of unsolved slayings here in the last five years. Some of the victims had had no gangland connections; others were on the fringe of the underworld.

A special county grand jury tried a year ago to bring about a solution of some of them. It was called soon after Wolf Rimann, golf club manager with coin machine and liquor interests, was shot down in a brazen mid-day spot killing on a downtown street.

But even though high rewards were offered and witnesses promised secrecy, the jury quit without enough evidence to return an indictment in any of the cases.

Shot as Ready to Quit

The Kansas City Star said tonight that Binaggio was murdered because of connections with a national crime syndicate. He was being investigated by a federal grand jury.

"Charles Binaggio was murdered because he wanted to quit the ball game when his team—the shadowy National Crime Syndicate reaching from coast-to-coast—was losing and it was Binaggio's turn at bat," the newspaper said.

"The execution was carried out by local men, close friends of the fallen leader, on orders which originated in another city," the Star said, continuing:

"Binaggio, both as a political and as a rackets boss, had made wide-scale promises to open Missouri to gambling. He had accepted money from the national syndicate for use in the 1948 elections.

"When the federal grand jury began work last September, with Binaggio obviously among the top targets, he was in the position of a man who had promised a lot, had obtained money on his promises, but had delivered only crumbs."

The Star said Binaggio, under pressure from above and below, wanted to quit to gain personal peace.

"This week he was to quit the political field," the Star said. "Binaggio also was to step down from his position as gambling and rackets boss. x x x

"Here his superiors, both local and national, took a hand. Could a key member of the team step out of the game at so crucial a juncture? Nobody of Binaggio's power ever had retired peacefully from gangdom before. x x x His decision to step down was the fatal step."

The newspaper said Binaggio was shot from behind by a friend as he sat relaxed in a chair. Powder burns showed the gun was held close to his head.

City, Mo., accountant.

In his withdrawal statement Reagan did not say which candidate he would support.

Short's remarks were among many made today on the slaying in Kansas City.

To Ask Complete Inquiry

Rep. Macy (R-NY) said he would ask congress for a "complete inquiry" into the "affiliation of crime and gangsters in politics" in the Kansas City area.

He said the shooting conclusively proves "the necessity for a congressional investigation of organized crime and its connections with political rings."

"The underworld crime leaders are growing in boldness and power," Macy said in a statement. "In many parts of the country they have taken over political leadership.

"The operations of these men of the stripe of Binaggio, with their control of political machines which reach into high places in the government, is a growing menace to the nation's moral and economic well-being."

"Gangland Chief"

He identified Binaggio as the "gangland underworld chief" in the Kansas City area. Gargotta, he said, was Binaggio's chief lieutenant.

Macy said that in proposing a complete inquiry into the affiliation of crime and gangsters with politics in the Kansas City area as well as other cities, he will "insist" that the inquiry also invote frauds" of 1947.

"Unquestionably," he said, "(they) were part of this whole gangster picture."

"Binaggio and his henchman were killed beneath the portrait of President Truman in the Kansas City Democrat headquarters," Macy said, adding:

"When gangland murder touches associates of the White House, it is certainly time for action."

Arrested Many Times

"Binaggio also was identified as the Chicago Capone mob's representative in Kansas City," Macy said. "He has been associated with gangsters and underworld gang operations all his adult life."

Macy said he understood Binaggio had been "repeatedly" arrested on charges ranging from carrying a concealed weapon, gambling, to manslaughter. Gargotta, he said had been arrested 35 times.

"He said his bill, calling for a nationwide investigation of crime, had been "smothered" by the Democratic leadership "who feared the results of such an investigation would be used to the disadvantage of the Democrats because it was sponsored by a Republican."

Macy said that in pressing for an investigation he would redraft his pending bill to provide for a "complete inquiry" in Kansas City.

Short told the house he was pronouncing no encominum or eulogy for Binaggio or Gargotta.

"Mr. Binaggio was in the way," Short said. "So, what happened? He is bumped off."

Short said former representative Tom Hennings is a candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination with the backing of "The St. Louis organization and I have been reliably informed he has the backing of the Binaggio faction in Kansas City."

He said the Pendergast organization is backing "Mr. Truman's endorsed man," Emory Allison, a state senator from Rolla, Mo.

"I do not know the state senator" from Rolla, Short said. "I never heard of his name until Harry endorsed him. Mr. Allison, no doubt is a fine man, but you know, even thieves will fall out."

No Allison Comment

GLASGOW, Mo., April 6—(AP)—Emery Allison of Rolla, Mo., said he had no comment tonight on remarks by Rep. Dewey Short (R-Mo) about the slaying of Charles Binaggio, Kansas City Democratic political leader.

Short told the house in Washington today he was "reliably informed" that Binaggio's organization was supporting former Rep. Thomas Hennings, St. Louis, for the senatorial nomination in opposition to Allison.

Allison said he had only sketchy information about the situation and did not care to comment until he knew more about it.

"I am out here in the country campaigning," he said. "And I don't know what it's all about." He addressed the Rotary Club here tonight and was to go on to Marshall to spend the night.

Reply by Backer

However, Allison's campaign manager, William Becker of Columbia, did not hesitate in replying to Short.

"Well I'll be doggoned," Becker exclaimed at Jefferson City "That's a new one on me. It has no relation with reality—it's pretty nearly psychotic."

Becker added that Allison already has declared he doesn't want any "damned gangster's support," and Becker said Short's statement "comes under the reading of pure foolishness."

As to blame for Binaggio's slaying, Becker snorted:

"Why doesn't he (Short) go direct to the White House instead of to Rolla, Mo.?"

ernment, none of whom can be ployes in the United States govsure of safety from attack by the machine gun of irresponsible publicity in Joseph McCarthy's hands."

Lattimore is director of a school of international relations at Johns Hopkins University. He flew back to this country from a United Nations mission in Afghanistan after McCarthy made his accusations.

Accusations

Lattimore told the inquiry committee that McCarthy has:

1. "Without authorization used secret documents obtained from official government files."

2. "Villified citizens of the United States and accused them of high crime, without giving them an opportunity to defend themselves."

3. "Refused to submit alleged documentary evidence to a duly constituted committee of the Senate."

4. "Invited disrespect to himself and his high office by refusing to live up to his word."

As for the McCarthy charges against him, Lattimore said that in effect they amount to an accusation of disloyalty and treason. Then he added:

"McCarthy's charges are untrue. As soon as I heard of the substance of the charges I denounced them for what they were: Base and contemptible lies."

In saying that McCarthy had failed to live up to his word Lattimore noted the Senator had promised the Senate that any charges he made under "the cloak of immunity" he would repeat off the floor so, as Lattimore put it, "their falseness could be tested in a court of the United States.' Lattimore added.

The double killing took place sometime early Thursday morning. Seated are Walter A. Gambill (left) a cab driver who discovered the bodies and Harry Erwin a bystander who was questioned by police.
